EPES RANDOLPH, PIONEER RAILROAD MAN, DIES

Gigantic Bond Plot Charged

FEDERAL OFFICIALS DECLARE MILLIONS INVOLVED IN DEAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—With the arrest by Federal officials [illegible] men and one woman just prior to their departure for Los [illegible], and with warrants out for ten others, an alleged conspiracy which the Federal authorities declare to have included within its scope of operations $2,700,000 worth of fraudulent [illegible] and $500,000 worth of doubtful certificates of deposit, and which may result in the failure of one Chicago company capitalized at $100,000 and bankruptcy proceedings against a Cleveland millionaire, was bared tonight. Those arrested were:

Charles W. French, partner of John W. Worthington, the "wolf of Lasalle street." French, who has a police record of numerous "million-dollar confidence games" is believed to have headed the present alleged swindling trust.

Rudolph E. Kohn, vice-president of the American Rubber Company, Chicago, a $100,000 tire concern which has been doing business at the rate of $400,000 yearly. Kohn is said to have made a complete confession to Col. John V. Clinnin of his dealings with French and the latter's associates.

C. W. Denicke, dealer in steel products. He may not be directly implicated in the conspiracy according to Col. Clinnin.

James Horace Leet of Cleveland, O., who says French owes him $9500.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hawkins of Cleveland. Mrs. Hawkins was released tonight on her own recognizance.

Those for whom warrants have been issued, but who have not yet been arrested, are:

WARRANTS OUT.

E. W. Davis, Cleveland millionaire, director of the Winton Motor Company, of Cleveland, president of the Diamond Portland Cement Company, of Cleveland; president of the Globe Steve Works, director of the Safety Realty Company of Cleveland, and interested in numerous other enterprises. He is said to own a million-dollar home in Canton, O.

A. E. Strehin, Milwaukee broker and heavily interested in the American Rubber Company.

Elmer L. Gerber, Cleveland, salesman.

H. L. Peak, Cleveland, salesman.

C. K. Strobel, Akron, salesman.

Alva Harshman, recently arrested with Worthington.

Two others whose names have been for the present suppressed.

Bonds in the amount of $25,000 each were set tonight by U. S. Commissioner Glass.

STORY OF EVENTS.

The story of events leading up to the issuance of the warrants and the circumstances of the case, culled from statements of Federal officials who worked on the case, is as follows:

Three weeks ago French was arrested following his indictment in connection with the expose of John W. Worthington's alleged "mail robbers' trust." He told a pitiful story to Col. Clinnin of abuses received at Worthington's hands. Col. Clinnin, apparently taking his story at face value, released him on his own recognizance. Alva W. Harshman of Milwaukee, recently arrested with French and Worthington, was arrested likewise. But both were shadowed by secret service men every moment from the time they

CONFERENCE PLANS LAID.

Army and Navy Taking Part.

All Washington Departments Making Ready for Council Table Deliberations.

Disarmament Meet Delegates Will Find United States Fortified With Facts.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—While diplomatic formalities of the disarmament conference move forward with deliberation, the American government is at work defining principles and collecting information which will guide its representatives at the council table.

Considerable progress is understood to have been made both toward preparation of plans and data for the American commissioners and toward a canvass of the diplomatic field to determine what international problems are to be considered within the scope of the conference. Both the Army and the Navy have taken an extensive part in the government's preparations.

Meantime, although the conference has become an assured fact through the informal acquiescence of all invited powers, the perfunctory story of formal diplomatic exchanges continues to hold the center of the stage so far as surface developments are concerned, and to be the theme of all available comment.

ACCEPTANCE RECEIVED.

The formal acceptance of Great Britain reached the State Department today. Formal acceptances from Japan, Italy and France are yet to come.

It has not been revealed what steps may have been taken diplomatically to secure agreement as to the scope of the conference, but the nature of the formal replies are taken generally to indicate that negotiations are entirely separate from the semipublic formal exchanges over the actual assembling of the delegates. It is understood the tendency has been to hold discussions of scope in an informal status in order to facilitate a free exchange of views.

The American government's preparations for the conference are understood to have reached far into the fields of political, military and naval inquiry. Almost daily meet-

High-Salaried Experts for Shipping Board Tangle Are Given O.K.

"Charter" Contracts Scored in Speeches; Harrison Loses His Motions.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—After a continuous session of more than twelve hours, during which President Harding's course in recently addressing the Senate on soldier bonus legislation was vigorously debated, the Senate reached an agreement on all provisions of the Shipping Board deficiency bill carrying $48,500,000, and upon adjourning at 11:15 o'clock tonight arranged to take a vote on passage of the bill upon reconvening tomorrow.

Early in the day the Senate eliminated an amendment to limit salaries paid to officials of the board, and tonight on virtually straight party votes, it rejected three separate amendments offered by Senator Trammell, Democrat, Fla., designed to prevent employment by the board of a lawyer recently connected with firms having claims against the board.

The action was a victory for the administration, and accords with President Harding's desires expressed in his letter of Saturday defending the necessity for engaging the most competent experts to handle the shipping problem.

POT AND KETTLE.

The vote was taken after hours of debate, which Senator Watson of Georgia declared revolved about the question: "Is the pot blacker than the kettle?" In its efforts to clean up the shipping bill, to which the amendment was offered, the Senate sat late in the night.

Senator McCormick of Illinois led off the debate with a defense of the present shipping administration. He furnished the Senate with a table showing that the outlay by the government for the Shipping Board since 1916 has reached the enormous total of $3,396,000,000, of which not more than 20 per cent would be salvaged. Senator McCormick defended the practice of paying large salaries for capable experts, particularly legal talent, because, he said, the best men available were required

SINN FEINERS JUST RANT.

Dail Eireann Pow-wow 'All Day and Promise Still More; Professional Patriots Spout.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Aug. 22.—The Dail Eireann held secret sessions today to consider the question of what shall be its reply to the British government's peace offer. It adjourned tonight without arriving at any decision, but will meet tomorrow in private, simultaneously with the gatherings of the Sinn Fein executive committee, which is somewhat similar to the national political party committees in the United States.

The following official communication was issued tonight:

"The Dail Eireann met this morning at 11 o'clock, adjourned at 2 o'clock, reassembled at 4 o'clock and rose at 6:30 o'clock. It was occupied all day with Mr. Lloyd George's proposals. It will meet again tomorrow."

There is little likelihood of there being any public session of the Dail until Friday, by which time its reply may have been sent to Mr. Lloyd George.

BOLAND WAS THERE.

Harry J. Boland, representative of Eammon de Valera in the United States and Mary MacSwiney, sister of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, who died on a hunger strike in Brixton prison, London, attended today's session, prepared to offer their opinions on the situation based on what was considered by them the latest feelings in the United States. Mr. Boland said tonight the situation was too delicate to talk about.

There were no long speeches today.

"Any deputy speaking for more than five or ten minutes would make himself unpopular, except, of course, Mr. De Valera or other members of the Cabinet when making an explanatory statement," one of the members said tonight. He added that thus far the Deputies merely had shown considerable curiosity concerning the terms of the government's offer and that the Cabinet members had been called upon for explanations from all parts of the round room of Mansion House, where the Parliament sessions are held.

All the Deputies today received from somebody in Chicago, whose Prominent Pair of Crown City, Montecito Wed.

Society in Montecito and Pasadena received a surprise last night when it was learned that Miss Mary Katherine Burnes, aged 17 years, a belle of both cities, and Lionel M. Armstrong, a member of a prominent Altadena family, were secretly married in Ventura on July 19 and left San Francisco yesterday for a honeymoon trip to the South Sea Islands. After the marriage in Ventura they returned to Montecito, but disappeared from there last Saturday. Yesterday relatives received a telegram, dated San Francisco, saying "Mr. and Mrs. Lionel M. Armstrong are on their way to Honolulu and the South Sea Islands on a honeymoon tour of indefinite duration."

The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson Burnes, who lived for years in Pasadena and afterward bought a home at Montecito. She is a sister of Mrs. Earl Van Ornam Armstrong of Pasadena and Mrs. Lawrence Fox of San Francisco. She and Mr. Armstrong were childhood sweethearts and it was generally known they were to be married. Relatives objected to an immediate union on account of the age of the girl. They had made arrangement for her return next month to school in Greenwich, Ct.

OLYMPIA (Wash.) Aug. 22.—Conviction of twenty-one alleged I.W.W., found guilty of syndicalism in the Pierce county Superior Court March 3, 1920, was set aside and a new trial ordered by the State Supreme Court today. The decision held that the charge had been based on hearsay evidence.

OLDEST ENGINEER RETIRES

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—John F. Lacey, the oldest engineer on the Rock Island Railroad, retired today after fifty-two years' service without an accident. During his half-century at the throttle it was estimated he had traveled about 2,700,000 miles. He is 70 years old and will receive a pension.

GREEKS PUSHING TURKS

SMYRNA, Aug. 22.—It is reported the Greeks have forced a passage of the Sakaria River and are pushing the forces of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, toward Angora. The Greek front extends ten miles eastward of the river. The Turks are fighting desperately on the mountains on both sides of the railroad to Angora.

NEW MEXICO, OFF WASHINGTON COAST, Aug. 22.—[By Radio to the Associated Press.] The Pacific Battleship Fleet, which today left Puget Sound for the south, is steaming down the Pacific Coast under full steam, engaged in its annual full-power trials. The schedule calls for arrival of the battleships in San Francisco Bay Wednesday.

CATCH THIEF BY RADIO

SEATTLE, Aug. 22.—As the battleship New Mexico steamed out to sea today en route to California, Harry Nissen, a seaman, reported he had lost a watch, cigarette case, fountain pen and $3.40, which, he suspected, had been stolen by a former shipmate. The battleship sent a radio message to the Seattle police department, and later Ellis F. Gradin, a discharged bluejacket, was arrested. According to the police, Gradin had the articles described in the wireless.

IDEAL MAN FOR MAYOR OF GOTHAM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Abraham Michon, a mysterious candidate, appears to be almost perfect for Mayor of New York. At least his platform is ideal. In brief he proposes, if elected, to do these things:

Declare a general rent moratorium, giving each family rent-free possession of its present quarters for ten years.

Will seize all the food preserves in the city and its environments and guarantee everybody three square meals a day.

Will establish (as Mayor of New York) a world-wide four-hour day at 50 cents an hour, to provide employment for all.

These are the high lights. In addition he proposes public ownership of everything, abolition of patents, direct Federal taxation and employment by the community of all residents who want to work at $2 a day. If any resident does not find work to his liking, he is to be fed and housed any way.

FORMER HEAD OF L. A. TRACTION COMPANIES IS CALLED AT TUCSON

Pioneer Railroad Chief Taken by Death.

Epes Randolph,
President of Espee Company of Mexico and Arizona and Eastern Railroad, who died at Tucson yesterday.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TUCSON, Aug. 22.—Epes Randolph, president of the Arizona Eastern and the Southern Pasific of Mexico and one of the pioneer railroad men of the Southwest, died here late tonight.

Mr. Randolph's death occurred as a result of a hemorrhage attack while reading a newspaper in the hotel apartment occupied here by himself and wife.

Although for many years ill with tuberculosis, he had made a valiant fight against the disease and had been recently attending actively to duties in connection with his executive position. He had spent a very busy day at the offices here today.

Epes Randolph not only was a railroad builder of the Southwest and in Mexico, but had an important part in traction development, notably in Cincinnati and in Los Angeles, where he formerly was executive head of the Los Angeles Railway Company and the Pacific Electric Railway Company. He also was president of the California Development Company and of the East Coast Oil Company.

Mr. Randolph was born in Londenburg county, Virginia, son of William Exton Randolph and Sarah Lavinia Epes, both of whom were born in Virginia. Mr. Randolph in 1886 married Miss Eleanor Taylor of Winchester, Va.

LONG CAREER.

He began his railroading work in 1876, and from that year to 1886 he had served a half dozen companies. Among them were the Alabama Great Southern, the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern and the Kentucky Central. In that period he was engaged in location, construction and maintenance, serving as assistant, locating, resident and division engineer and operating in several Eastern States, Texas and Mexico.

Mr. Randolph in 1886 became chief engineer of the Kentucky Central, with headquarters in Covington. At the same time he served as chief engineer of the Cincinnati Elevated Railway, Transfer and Bridge Company, for which he built a double-track railway, highway and footway bridge over the Ohio River, connecting Covington and Cincinnati.

In 1890 he was made chief engineer and superintendent of the Newport News and Mississippi Valley Company, the Ohio and Big Sand Railroad Company and the Kentucky and South Atlantic Railroad Company with headquarters in Lexington. The year 1891 found him in Louisville as chief engineer and general superintendent of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern and the Ohio Valley companies.

Mr. Randolph resigned in 1894, taking a trip to the West for his health. Although not in active service, he continued as adviser of several railroading and traction projects, notably the bridge over the Ohio River from Louisville to Jeffersonville, Ind.

In 1895 he became connected with the Southern Pacific Railroad and the most important period of his career began. For six years he was superintendent of the Arizona and New Mexico divisions, with headquarters at Tucson, which has remained his home.

ACTIVE IN LOS ANGELES.

In 1901 Mr. Randolph came to Los Angeles to become vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Railway and the Pacific Electric Railway. He remained here three years, locating, building and operating some 700 miles of electric lines in Los Angeles and vicinity. He returned to Tucson in the autumn of 1904 to become president of the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern Railway and of the Maricopa, Phoenix and Salt River Valley Railroad in Mexico, which were Harriman properties. He became president and general manager of the consolidated companies when the Cananea and Taqui River line was absorbed by the Southern Pacific of Mexico and the other roads merged with the Arizona Eastern Railway Company.

Although continuing his railroading activities with the Southwestern and West Coast Mexican lines, Mr. Harriman was president of the California Development Company, a large irrigation project operating in the Colorado desert of California and into Lower California.

NEW AIRPLANE POWER UNIT HAILED WONDER WORKER.

Flights from Los Angeles to Hawaii Said Likely by Invention That is Given Satisfactory Test.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PROVIDENCE (R. I. Aug. 22.—Successful completion of a new power unit for large airplanes, which assures nonstop flights from New York to Liverpool, or Los Angeles to Hawaii, in twenty hours or less, at rates competing with first-class steamers, was announced today at the plant of the Gallaudet Aircraft Corporation, East Greenwich, R. I., where 300-horsepower Liberty engines, geared to one eighteen-foot propeller, were put through final tests.

The military importance of this development is declared to be of as great significance as the commercial, as an airplane of three or more units, representing a total of 4000 horsepower, will have a cruising radius sufficient to command the oceans carrying in its flight twelve tons of bombs or torpedoes.

WORK OF SIX YEARS.

The engineering development, on which Mr. Olson chief engineer of the Gallaudet company, and his associates have been working for six years, is declared by visiting scientists to be the most important step in aeronautics since the application of the improved internal-combustion engine in flight. It is known as the "Gallaudet multiple drive" and consists of the application of the clutch which made the automobile practicable, coupled with gears which enable the propeller and engines to operate at maximum efficiency.

The engines and giant propeller were mounted on a test stand twenty-five feet high and operation with one, two or three units was demonstrated. The propeller was turned at 800 revolutions per minute and the engines at 1500, which has long been sought as one of the missing elements, necessary to practical commercial flying. In the famous flight of the NC-4 across the Atlantic, which was the best performance hitherto made with Liberties, both engines and propellers were run at about 1500 r.p.m., which meant a loss of speed and power.

The Nacelle housing the engines is so constructd that in flight it actually adds the equivalent of 200 horse power to the 1200 naturally obtained.

IDEA IS SATISFACTORY.

"The effort of aeronautical engineers," said Mr. Gallaudet, "has been to decrease the cost of operation and increase the speed and range of the airplane. Single or isolated engines attached direct to

HAILSTORM BREAKS UP CEREMONY.

Wind River Extension of Rocky Mountain Highway is Dedicated.

TWO GWOTEE PASS (Wyo.) Aug. 22.—A sudden hailstorm, in which stones as large as filberts fell, suddenly terminated the ceremonies of dedicating the Wind River extension of the Rocky Mountain highway today.

Senator Kendrick, Gov. Carey and former Gov. Brooks of Wyoming had spoken, and Washakie, of the Shoshone tribe, was delivering an address interpreted by Wooley Owl, a Carlisle graduate, when the storm broke. The crowd of 600 took shelter in their automobiles and the tepees of the Indians.

The address of Chief Yellow Calf of the Arapahoe tribe also was postponed, but the red men were not greatly annoyed, as they each earned several dollars posing for pictures. The new highway opens a southern entrance to Yellowstone National Park, extending from Lander to Moran, at the base of Teton Mountain.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A mystery of the sea which opens the way [illegible] along various lines came with the discovery at midnight [illegible] at Coney Island of the clothing of Mrs. E. S. Police are dragging the surf for the body.

The disappearance of Mrs. Cheatham adds interest to the Mayo divorce case and the repeated kidnaping of their daughter, Charolotte, who had been stolen first by one parent and then by the other.

Mrs. Mayo denies charges by her husband that Mrs. Cheatham had been arrested in Chicago or Colorado for shoplifting. The husband says Mrs. Cheatham "disappeared" once before and he found her in the Bridewell at Chicago, serving a twenty-two-day sentence for shoplifting. At that time, he says, it was reported she had jumped from a steamer into the lake, but had been rescued and taken to a hospital.

SOVIET THANKS SENT AMERICA.

Famine Assistance Will be Gratefully Received.

Seed Grain Needed; Official Tells of Policies.

Overtures Made to Canada for Trade Pact.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MOSCOW, Aug. 22 (via Riga.)—George Tchitcherin, a Russian of noble birth formerly in the diplomatic service of the Czar and now Minister for Foreign Affairs of the soviet government, dispatched a message of thanks tonight to the American people.

"The famine situation hangs on the question of seed for next year's crops," said M. Tchitcherin, "for the seed grain has been eaten by the starving. New seed must be planted before September 15—our rye must be sowed in autumn. We are gathering seed in other parts of Russia and forwarding it to the stricken area, but there is not enough and transportation is difficult.

"The situation was caused by an unprecedented general drought over the Volga River and the typical backward state of Russian agriculturists, who have not used irrigation because heretofore there has been ample moisture. The country now is as dry as a desert and there is insufficient corn for food."

"Will America's relief for the famine sufferers have any effect on Russia-American relations?" I asked.

ASSISTANCE WANTED.

"Our people will be greatly thankful for assistance and it is to be hoped that the American people will learn, through their own generosity, more about the Russian people and their government," he answered.

"The soviet government's policy toward America may be expressed in the words—we want peace and trade arrangements. America's policy up to date seems to indicate that no relations will be resumed with Russia until private property is restored to those who held it before the revolution.

"We want to open our doors to foreign capital because we know that by this means we can carry out our reconstruction plans. But we never intend to resuscitate Russian capitalism. We have just recently denationalized small business, but the vast land estates, the large industries and the big factories are now national property and we intend for them to remain in the hands of the workers."

FIRST SUMMER PEACE.

"Has the Russian government abandoned its policy of world-wide revolution?" I asked.

"That policy only was used by the government in the first few months of its existence and then only as a war method, the same as both sides in the last war used propaganda to weaken their enemies. In peace the soviet government has not had such a policy. This is the first summer in seven years in which the country has been engaged in no fighting."

"What is Russia's invitation to capital?" I questioned.

"The same as we have offered to all foreign capital since the first spring after the revolution," replied M. Tchitcherin. "Our plans for trade co-operation with foreign capital were taken to America in May, 1918, by Col. Robbins. At the same time we began to negotiate with a Norwegian bank connected with Morgans and also with British interests. Our principal needs are agricultural machinery, general machinery, manufactured goods and the construction of new railroads, particularly lines leading from the new undeveloped coal area in Central Siberia to the west and north. Our plans naturally hung fire during the period of intervention when we were being besieged on all fronts."

GERMANY SHUNNED.

"Great Britain was the first nation to respond to Russia's call for peace and trade. A British trade mission is here now. Germany wanted arrangements with us, but we did not dare to grant them on account of Entente domination. We are now addressing ourselves to Canada. America and France are still hostile to us and so is Japan, with whom we will gladly negotiate as soon as the Japanese evacuate Vladivostok.

"We cannot deal with American private business until there is some agreement between us and the United States government which now withholds protection from its citizens or their interests in Russia. On the other hand no Russian can privately engage in exporting or importing in Russia. Our foreign trade will remain distinctly a government monopoly. We have inventoried everything of value which we have to export in payment for the things we need. What we have and what we need are government affairs and consequently there will be no foreign trade with Russia except through the government."

GUARANTEES OFFERED.

"What guarantees will Russia offer to foreign capital?" was my next question.

"The soviet government will give undertakings that the goods, property and lives of foreign citizens and concessionaries will be safe and there will be no confiscation or taxation outside of the trade agreement. We have never repudiated any of our agreements. The obligations repudiated were those of the old government, but even in this respect the subject of the old Russian debt will not be settled until there has been an international peace conference and that cannot take place until America recognizes us."

SENATE BACKS UP PRESIDENT.

to cope with the formidable legal counsel arrayed against the Shipping Board on behalf of claimants.

He named such firms as Wilson and Colby, composed of ex-president Wilson and former Secretary of State Colby; Lansing and Woolsey, Gregory and Todd, Palmer and Davis, as among those against which Shipping Board attorneys would have to cope.

Senator McCormick vigorously condemned the "charter" contracts, under which, he explained, shipping firms took all the profit and the government took all the loss. He also assailed the practice of permitting operators having charter contracts to organize subsidiary companies from which they purchased their supplies at the expense of the government.

GOVERNMENT "ROBBED."

Senator King of Utah joined in denouncing this practice, declaring that some operators had robbed the government and ought to be in the penitentiary. Mr. Utah Senator criticised Chairman Lasker for not having canceled all contracts with subsidiary companies. Senator Borah of Idaho declared that if criminal proceedings could not be brought against such men their names should be published so that they might be pilloried for all time.

Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin prolonged the debate considerably, assailing President Harding for having violated the Constitution in his efforts to direct and influence legislation in Congress. He cited the President's speech in the Senate against the soldiers' bonus as a striking example. He predicted it would be a long time before the bonus bill again emerged from the Finance Committee.

Senator Borah of Idaho declared that the Senate presented a deplorable spectacle in the manner in which it abdicated its judgment to that of the President on the bonus. Senators Lodge, Knox, Kellogg and other Republican leaders insisted that President Harding was clearly within his constitutional authority when he appeared before the Senate and asked it to sidetrack the bonus.

Immediately after the defeat of his amendment, Senator Harrison offered a series of similar proposals "to place the Senate clearly on record in favor of the payment of $15,000 salaries." All were voted down.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Administration officials do not share the regret of Premier Hughes of Australia that no preliminary conference on disarmament will be held.

Four vocational universities—in the East, Middle West, South and West—are to be opened and operated for ex-service men by the veterans' bureau.

Arthur C. Lueder was appointed by President Harding today to be postmaster of Chicago, succeeding William B. Carlile.

The Senate indorsed President Harding's policy of hiring high-salaried experts for the Shipping Board, rejecting by a vote of 32 24 an amendment to the Shipping Board emergency appropriation to prohibit salaries in excess of $12,000.

The deadlock over the antibeer bill still continues and threatens to precipitate either an abandonment of the Congressional recess or sidestracking final action on the conference report until next fall.

The tax bill as passed by the House reached the Senate and was referred to the Finance Committee, which will decide upon a program for its consideration within a day or two.

J. S. Wanamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, assailed the credit policy of the Federal Reserve Board before the joint Agricultural Committee of Congress.

The House passed the Railroad Administration bill by a vote of 214 to 123. Democrats led the opposition.

French, who was stopping at the Auditorium Hotel, moved to the La Salle. Federal operatives tapped the telephone wires and installed dictaphones with the aid of the hotel authorities, skilled stenographers, working four shifts of six hours each, noted every remark.

Soon the name of Davis appeared. French, in one conversation, it is said, gloated over the fact that he had placed more than $2,000,000 worth of Davis's personal notes in various banks. All the men named in the warrants visited French's rooms at various times. Kohn, especially, was there often.

From the conversations, Federal officials gathered that the "clan" was about to "put over a deal" and then leave immediately for Los Angeles.

OFFERED NOTES.

Last week Kohn appeared at the offices of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Securities Company. He proffered, it is alleged, $20,000 worth of sixty-day notes signed by "Z. W. Davis" and offered to discount them for $28,500. The notes were indorsed by Kohn and he also secured the adoption of a resolution by the directors of the American Rubber Company, Kohn's concern, declaring the notes to be O.K.

Kohn's story, officials say, was that he received the notes from Davis, president of the Winton Automobile Company, in payment of 750 tires sold to Davis.

Arthur Greene, of the securities company, became suspicious of the offer. The next day Kohn having reported to French and having been overheard by the Federal stenographers, Col. Clinnin called on Greene. He arranged with Greene to purchase the notes, the prosecutor to be present at the conference as "Mr. Smith, the firm's credit man."

Saturday Col. Clinnin, Greene and S. E. Steinberg, auditor of Greene's concern, met Kohn in Greene's office. They agreed to discount the notes Monday. Today Korn appeared. A check for $28,500 was handed him; he handed over the notes, according to Greene.

NEW PROPOSITION.

Then, it is alleged, he immediately broached a proposition that the securities company handle $500,000 worth of certificates of deposit which he said he could procure from a Milwaukee bank. Col. Clinnin as "Mr. Smith" gravely promised to think it over.

As Kohn stepped out of the office door he was nabbed by two secret service men. He immediately yielded up the check and was taken to the Federan Building, where he "squaked."

Federal operatives, given the signal, raided French's rooms at the La Salle. Among the things they found there were $700,000 of notes of the American Rubber Company, duly signed by the officials of the concern.

Kohn, asked about this, confessed that he had given them to French to float for him, that he was to get $350,000 of the proceeds and that French was to get the remaining $350,00 0to use in promoting a deal in iron ore.

The Federal officials also found several letters from Davis. One appealed to French for a loan of $3500 to "avert a financial crash which will sweep everything I have, including my home, from under me."

Others of like tone told of a severely straitened financial condition. A warrant charging Davis with partaking in the conspiracy was immediately issued.

NEW AIRPLANE UNIT WONDER.

the propeller have long been recognized as unsatisfactory in operation and almost impossible to repair during flight. The idea of inclosing the three engines in one Nacelle has worked out to our complete satisfaction.

"The glaring down of the speed and the holding of one engine always in reserve removes the last obstacle to practical transportation by air over great distances. A 100-foot all-metal monoplane with such a power Nacelle we guarantee to make ninety miles an hour for twenty hours with twelve passengers aboard. Economy of operation is such that the trans-Atlantic flight or California-Hawaii flight can be made for $600 to $700 per passenger."

The grouping of engines into power units and the giving to the pilot or mechanic complete control over his engines for adjustment or repair means that there is practically no limit to the size of the airplane of the near future. In transcontinental flights divisions will be established such as are now found on railroads. At each division of 300 or 400 miles airplanes will be enabled to change their entire power plant units and proceed without transferring the cargo.

PREMIER ALONE IN HIS REGRET.

Views on Preliminary Meet Not Shared in Capital.

Washington Explains Lack of Sympathy With Hughes.

Fear Uninvited Nations Would Suspect "Frame-up."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Washington government does not share regret with Premier Hughes of Australia, that no preliminary conference on disarmament and Pacific questions will be held.

Although respecting the views of Premier Hughes Washington officials are not only failing to regret the failure to develop a preliminary conference, but are gratified that none will be held as they believe that it might prove disastrous to the success of the international conference and its great purpose, the limitation of world armaments.

"FRAME UP" SHUNNED.

When attention of administration leaders was called to the Premier's interview in London yesterday, in which the Australian spoke of his regret that this government had not seen its way clear to hold the suggested "preliminary conference," they readily explained why they could not sympathize with his views.

In the first place the preliminary conference would, in the opinion of American leaders, create suspicion in the minds of people throughout the world that the nations participating in it were attempting to "cook up" some arrangement which might be unfair to nations not invited to participate. The suggested preliminary was not intended to include representatives of all the powers invited to attend the major conference. For that reason primarily the United States thought it would be unwise.

PARLEY UNNECESSARY.

In the second place, officials here took the view that if on a preliminary conference of a few powers, it would be possible, as suggested by Premier Hughes, to reach an agreement of fundamental points of difference on the great eastern issues, it would be just as possible and just as easy for all the participating powers to reach such an agreement in November. Officials here could see no advantage whatever in preliminary discussions but could see serious disadvantage in a possible preliminary deadlock.

Secretary Hughes today announced the formal acceptance from Great Britain of President Harding's invitation to the conclave which came in the form of a note delivered to Ambassador Harvey by Lord Curzon.

RECOGNITION BOUGHT.

Representatives of the Republic of South China, which has not been invited to the conference, continue to bombard the State Department for recognition. In a statement sent to the department today by the Sun Yat Sen government, the following declarations were made:

"The people of South China have set up a government of their own and owe no allegiance to the Peking government:

"They form one half of the total population of China, and are the more progressive of these Chinese.

"Their leaders are such enlightened men as Dr. Wu Ting Fang, who was twice Chinese minister to the United States and is well known in this country, and Dr. Sun Yat San, the father of the Chinese republic, who resided in the United States for ten years, off and on. It was in the United States that Dr. Sun Yat Sen imbibed the ideas of popular government which caused him to return to China and establish a republic there. Is this man not to be represented at the Washington conference?

"POTENTIAL SQUEALER" CAMORRA VICTIM NO.21.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Another murder which, it is believed, will be traced to the Boneventre gang of "good killers," was committed today in an open field near Passaic, N. J., and makes No. 21 of the thirty-five said to be marked for slaughter.

The only witness to the crime was a 10-year-old boy who was sitting at a kitchen window of his parents' home. He saw three men, all Italians, walking along the edge of a pond. There was nothing unusual in their actions or talk, but suddenly one of the trio drew a pistol, placed it against the back of the man in the middle, and killed him. The two others immediately fled.

Police believe he was a "potential squealer," considered dangerous by the Camorrista, and they put him away.

PANAMA WILL RESIST.

Prepares to Repel Costa Rican Seizure of Awarded Coto Territory.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PANAMA, Aug. 22.—Panama is prepared and ready to repel the Costa Ricans should they invade the disputed Coto territory. No definite action will be taken, however, until it is learned what attitude the United States government will adopt toward Panama in the event the Panamans oppose the taking over of Coto by the Costa Ricans.

Cable messages sent by the Panaman government to Washington with the view of ascertaining the American government's attitude toward Panaman resistance to Costa Rican occupation of Coto have not been answered.

MACHINE GUNS SENT.

Armed men to the number of 150 have been ordered to proceed to Coto from David. They will take with them ten machine guns, which were purchased in the United States last April.

Secretary of Justice Alfaro has given orders to Chief of Police Arango to hold the entire police force of Panama and Colon in readiness to march to Coto. Identical orders have been sent to heads of the police forces in interior towns.

Mayors have been ordered to revise their volunteer forces and to advise the men to be ready for an emergency.

GOVERNMENT OPTIMISTIC.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The battalion of submarines which is now en route on the battleship Pennsylvania, to Panama, was sent purely as a precautionary measure and State Department officials do not believe that the men will fire a shot.

Owing to the fact that feeling in Panama has been considerably wrought up at the prospect of having to surrender a strip of territory to Costa Rica under the terms of the White award, which Secretary Hughes has decided must be enforced, it was felt that there might possibly be some slight disorder and the marines were therefore sent.

The battalion, consisting of eighteen officers and 355 men is under command of Maj. Thomas S. Clarke, according to a statement given out at the Navy Department today. It includes two rifle companies and one machine-gun company, with a battalion headquarters detachment and auxiliary weapons. A hospital section is provided consisting of three medical officers and a detachment of hospital corps men.

It is entirely possible, State Department officials said, that the marines will not even be landed on Panama territory.

The view of this government is that it would be fatal to the prestige of the United States with Latin-American countries if because of the obvious interest of this government in Panama it were to allow Panama to take territory which was awarded to Costa Rica.

GALLON OF WATER COSTS 30 CENTS.

Residents of Cow Camp Live in Dry Place and do Not Kick at the Price.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Aug. 22. Water isn't quite up to the price of liquor, but it is almost there at Cow Camp, the driest point on the Silver Peak range. They are paying 30 cents a gallon for it and residents agree that it is cheap at the price. There isn't any competition. The water man has a monopoly and on one envies him his job. The nearest watering place is eleven miles away. For five miles the water is carried in a buckboard drawn by horses. Then the road narrows to a trail and horses are unhitched, the water bags tied over their backs, and the remainder of the trip is slow. It takes about a day to make the trip. In the old days, when saloons quenched thirsts, there wasn't the demand for water that there is now.

INCOME TAX AMENDMENT BOTHERSOME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Fear of the rejection by the House of an amendment to the tax bill making the revision retroactive on income of the calendar year 1921 threatens to cause the Senate Finance Committee to allow it to become effective Jan. 1, 1922, as provided in the bill as passed by the House. A canvass of the situation today showed that some of the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee believe that the repeal of the excess profits and the reduction of higher surtaxes on individual incomes should be retroactive on income of the calendar year 1921. They have been advised, however, that the opposition is so strong in the House, as indicated by the action of the Republican House caucus last week, that approval of a conference report containing such a change would be unlikely.

Not only have a majority of the Republican members of the House been shown by the caucus action to be against making the excess profits tax repeal retroactive, but practically the entire Democratic membership would line up similarly. Farm and labor organizations while unable to prevent the repeal of the excess profits tax as they would like to do, yet may have sufficient power to prevent making the repeal retroactive.

One Republican Senator today remarked that he did not care "to butt his head against a stone wall." This Senator took the view that unless President Harding brings very strong pressure to bear to make the tax changes retroactive, the bill is likely to stay in its present form. It is known that President Harding is not at all satisfied with the failure of the House to make the excess profits tax repeal apply on 1921 income.

Representative Frear of Wisconsin, a Republican member of the House Ways and Means Committee, who led the fight in the Republican caucus to reverse the committee action making the tax changes retroactive, is prepared to resist any effort to change the measure back. Practically all the leading commercial organizations in the country, however, are expected to bring pressure to bear upon the Senate Finance Committee to make the tax changes retroactive.

PHOENIX FLOOD DAMAGES HEAVY.

Loss to City Estimated at $100,000 by Manager.

Action Taken to Prevent Any Future Disasters.

PHOENIX, Aug. 22. — Seven hundred houses in Phoenix were damaged by yesterday's flood and in 400 of these water went into the first story, according to estimates made by newspaper men today. City Manager Avery Thompson estimated the damage in the city, exclusive of that done to the State Capitol, at $100,000.

Yesterday's flood washed five new holes into the bank of the Arizona Canal, the principal artery of the Salt River Valley Irrigation District, and enlarged the five cut by Friday night's flood. The ten cuts now run from twenty to 150 feet. In the Grand Canal, the second large artery of the irrigation district that was crossed by the flood on its way from Cave Creek to Phoenix, five breaks were made, ranging from ten to forty feet wide.

WATER SERVICE HALTED.

Officials of the irrigation district placed the damage to their canals at $5000. They said the breaks would be repaired and water service to the farmers resumed within two weeks.

Five large pumps were kept busy drawing the water from the basement of the Capitol today, but tonight were forced to cease work because of the mud. At that time there was about a foot and a half of water and mud in the basement.

Water still was coming down from Cave Creek, through the Arizona and Grand canals tonight, but the volume was so dimished that it was being diverted at the Salt River Canal.

A committee consisting of State, city and county officials was named at a Chamber of Commerce meeting today to take steps for the immediate construction of what is known as the "Cave Creek flood control," to prevent future floods from the creek entering the Salt River Valley Irrigation District and Phoenix.

Plans for the flood control project were completed some time ago, but work has been held up, owing to difficulties encountered by the Board of Supervisors in raising the county's share of the cost.

Supervisor J. R. Bradshaw, speaking for the county, said steps would be taken to raise the county's share.

PLANS AND DATE FOR CONFERENCE

ings have taken place between President Harding and Secretary Hughes, who also will be one of the American representatives. A staff of State Department experts has been occupied for some days preparing information, and like groups are at work in the War and Navy departments.

PERSHING ADVISER.

The preparations of Army intelligence has gone forward directly under the eye of Gen. Pershing in his capacity as Chief of Staff and it is taken for granted he will occupy an important place as military adviser at the conference. It is understood he has given particular attention to the preliminary collection of data of interest and that his understanding of foreign military establishments through contact with them during the war, and that he is looked on with especial favor as an adviser because of his personal acquaintance with many men who will come here in the military groups of the other powers.

Another who has been mentioned as qualified to advise the American delegates on military subjects is Maj.-Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, former Chief of Staff and a member of the supreme military council of the Allies before he became a delegate to the Versailles Peace Conference. It is expected he will be consulted many times as the negotiations proceed.

For the Navy, it is believed Admiral Coontz, the chief of operations, will be chosen as a chief adviser to the delegation. It is not unlikely he may be seconded by Rear-Admiral Benson, retired, war-time chief of operations.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22.—The newspaper El Universal today it is informed that the heads of the important oil companies United States will leave New York Wednesday for Mexico City conference with government officials here looking toward a and definite settlement of petroleum questions. Its advices, it that the meeting has the approval of the State Department.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—American oil company officials who plan to go to Mexico City to confer with Mexican government officials on the petroleum question have been informed by the State Department that the American government would be gratified if the question of the recently imposed tax on oil could be settled amicably by the two parties to the controversy.

The attitude of the department is understood to have been set forth several days ago to representatives of some of the American oil companies, who communicated to the department a decision to confer directly with Mexican officials with a view to reduction in the recently imposed petroleum export tax. Other American companies operating properties in Mexico have not advhered to the decision to make such negotiations. It was suggested that such a move to the State Department.

BURNS WILL KEEP TABS ON CROOKS.

New Secret Service Chief Will Organize Central Bureau of Identification.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—William J. Burns, new director of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice in an interview at Scarborough today said one of his first steps will be the organization of a central bureau of identification where records of all dangerous criminals will be assembled for the information of government investigators and the police forces of the country.

Extradition of criminals and their subsequent trial in States other than in which they are arrested, away from all local pull or influence, would be materially aided by the proposed identification bureau. In particular this bureau would enable the government to keep close tabs on Bolshevists and other avowed enemies of the government. Presumably the Federal bureau would be in close touch with the national police forces of European countries and the identification and tracing of desperate criminals would be greatly facilitated.

It is regarded as certain that government agencies are close on the heels of anarchists who arranged the bomb explosion in Wall street, which killed thirty-nine innocent persons. Closer espionage will be observed in connection with the Communists who are undoubtedly making many converts in the United States and getting their agents in positions where they can do much harm, unless their teeth are pulled.

One pleasing thing about the doctrine of violence preached by the Communists, anarchists, I.W.W. and other poisonous elements is the fact that up to the present time they have defeated their own murderous ends by fighting among themselves.

Out of these battles there always emerge some scoreheads from whom the agents of justice are able to get valuable information.

MOTOR-HAULED MILK WORRY FOR FARMERS.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 22.—Farmers of Milwaukee county and adjacent territory, after being notified by internal revenue officers that they came under the 3 per cent revenue tax imposed by the government on transportation of milk by motor under a revenue law passed Nov. 1, 1917, voted $750 for the expenses of a representative who is to go to Washington to obtain a direct ruling on the law.

If the final ruling makes them liable for the tax farmers say they will return to transporting milk with a horse and wagon.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 22.—The Rev. John A. Spencer, held here on suspicion that he murdered his wife at Clear Lake July 27, will be taken to San Francisco tomorrow, according to Dist.-Atty. Churchill, who, with Sheriff Shaul of Lake county, came here today for the accused man.

The officials passed the day interviewing acquaintances of Spencer and questioning the former minister. Tonight Churchill declared he was confident that a conviction would be secured, as much valuable information had been gained. He also stated that he believed Mrs. E. D. Barber of this city is the woman who represented herself to be "Mrs. Duncks" at Santa Rosa, although Mrs. Barber has steadfastly denied this charge. Spencer still declares he is innocent of any crime and that he is the victim of revenge on the part of a "scorned woman" and a physician.

ANGELENO TO CLAIM BODY OF WOMAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MODESTO, Aug. 22.—A Coroner's jury called to hold inquests over the bodies of Lorin D. Carmichael, who, yesterday shot and killed Mrs. Clarice Swartzel and then killed himself, returned verdicts tonight that Mrs. Swartzel died of gunshot wounds inflicted by Lorin D. Carmichael with murderous intent and that he later died of a gunshot wound fired with suicidal intent. A brother of the murdered woman, Siegfriend Lundth of Los Angeles, this morning wired the Coroner that he would arrive here tomorrow to claim the body.

FEDERAL INDICTMENT RETURNED IN BOND CASE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Florence Shomo was charged with altering and concealing government securities, in an indictment returned before Federal Judge Landis today. Mrs. Shomo has been named in a similar State action.

The charges involved $15,000 in bonds alleged to be part of $300,000 in loot obtained in bank robberies at Hantontown and Van Wert, Iowa.

HUNGARIANS OCCUPY CITY.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BUDAPEST, Aug. 22.—Hungarian troops have begun occupation of the city of Funfkirchen, 105 miles southwest of this city. The town is the capital of the district of Baranya, which was awarded to Hungary upon the breaking up of the Austro-Hungarian empire. There have been no untoward incidents thus far.

DENIES MELLON WILL QUIT JOB.

President's Secretary Brands Current Rumor False.

Known at Capital Treasurer Somewhat Dissatisfied.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Reports of the resignation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, were officially denied at the White House today by George Christian, Jr., secretary to President Harding. The fact that rumors current in Washington for more than a week to the effect that Mr. Mellon contemplated leaving the Harding Cabinet had reached the point where it became necessary to dignify them with a denial, however, warrants some outline of the facts out of which the reports grew.

It has been known for some time that Mr. Mellon was not at all satisfied with the reception given by Congress to his recommendations with reference to the revision of the tax laws. In his first declaration to Congress on this subject Mr. Mellon estimated that the treasury should have for the fiscal year 1926 not less than $4,600,000,000 in receipts in which to pay government expenses and current indebtedness. These figures were approximately $600,000,000 in excess of the estimate of leaders of Congress, and it was apparent that if the Republican political promises of reduction in taxation were to be kept some desperate remedy would have to be applied.

SECRETARY CONFRONTED.

At the conference between Mr Mellon and the House Committee on Ways and Means the Secretary was confronted by an organized onslaught on his cold-blooded financial analysis of the amount of money the government must have to pay its bills and he was frankly told that Congress would not pass a revenue bill calling for the raising of any such amount as $4,600,000,000.

As a result of this conference Mr. Mellon agreed to attempt to discover ways and means of reducing his estimate to approximately $4,000,000,000, including the postponement of payment by refunding of current bills due next year amounting to $170,000,000.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT.

Next followed a conference at the White House between the President, Mr. Mellon and the members of the House Committee at which the President and the House leaders agreed upon a series of economies and tax reductions intended to bridge over the difference between Mr. Mellon's first estimate and his revised estimate.

Besides this cause of discord, Mr. Mellon, who is known to be of a somewhat sensitive disposition, his friends have not hesitated to say he was not entirely satisfied with some developments.

When the White House statement on the work of the Harding administration was made public three weeks ago it was found to contain almost exclusively achievements relating to matters of finance. There has been a good deal of speculation in Washington since the statement made its appearance as to why it was not given out through the Treasury Department rather than through the White House.

LEGION ATTENDS TO ROUTINE BUSINESS.

GOVERNOR ADDRESSES WOMEN'S AUXILIARY AT CAMP CURRY CONVENTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YOSEMITE, Aug. 22.—Only routine business was before the afternoon session of the third annual convention of the American Legion, Department of California, which opened at Camp Curry today.

The women's auxiliary also opened its sessions this afternoon with Gov. Stephens as the principal speaker.

The Governor repeated in general the substance of his address made earlier before the Legion's convention, in which he said that California is preparing to pay its debt to the nation's defenders and urging that "California be kept free of all races that cannot assimilate with our peoples."

Department Commander Fitts also delivered a short address.

STRIKING MINERS ARE ORDERED TO WORK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Aug. 22. Miners on strike at the Dean Milling Company and the Reliance Coal Company, in the Kansas coal fields, have been ordered to return to work, it was announced today at international headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America.

The executive board authorised continuance of the strike in the Mingo county (West Virginia) field and ordered support for miners declared to have been locked out in Western Washington.

FIVE MEN ARE KILLED IN BOILER EXPLOSION.

MECHANICSVILLE (N. Y.) Aug. 22.—Five men were killed and a sixth probably fatally injured, by the explosion today of a battery of three high-pressure boilers in the plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. The force of the explosion, the origin of which is not known, tore the roof from the building and hurled it into the Hudson River, 100 feet away.

The dead were employed in or near the boiler-room.

CLASH AT REOPENING OF WASHINGTON MINES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 22.—First trouble in the reopening of the Washington coal mines on an open-shop basis was reported at New Castle, east of here tonight when, following threatening violence, three men were arrested, two of them reported union men on strike and one said to be a nonunion miner.

Good Will

If you advertised fish eyes, or a job lot of flake soap, or a barge load of brick, not only the immediate but the entire purpose is to sell one batch of goods; but when "Royal" or "Ivory" advertise it is not only to sell a case of baking powder or soap, but vastly more important, to make or hold reputation.

In these days buyers are "choosey."

The better and stronger the reputation, the more likely the sale.

RAIL FUNDING BILL PASSES.

House Favors Administration's Measure by Vote of 214 to 123; Motions to Amend Are Lost.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The administration's railroad funding bill was passed tonight by the House. The measure now goes to the Senate. The vote was 214 to 123. It is not the present intention of the Senate to take up the bill before the recess. An unsuccessful effort was made to eliminate a section which provides that no payments shall be made by the government to any carriers on account of the so-called inefficiency of labor during Federal control. An amendment to strike out this provision, offered by Representative Webster, Washington, a Republican member of the Commerce Committee, which had favorably reported the bill, was rejected, 145 to 17.

Another provision of the section which Mr. Webster failed to have stricken out stipulates that no funds shall be used in making settlements with carriers who do not "forever bar such carriers from setting up any further claim, right or demands of any kind, or character against the United States growing out of, or connected with, the possession, use or operation of such carrier's property by the United States during the period of Federal control."

Proponents of the measure succeeded in voting down all motions to amend the bill in important particulars, and as passed the measure, except for a few minor changes, is in the form in which it was reported to the House.

Contending the government was bound by previous legislation to recognize claims growing out of labor inefficiency, Mr. Webster said passage of the bill without elimination of the clause to which he objected would be "a monstrous repudiation of a solemn contract."

Representative Mondell, Republican leader, asserted enactment of the bill would do more than anything else to hasten the day when transportation rates could be reduced. The benefit that will accrue to the general public, he held, will be infinitely greater than that of the benefit to the railroads.

DEADLOCK ANTIBEER BILL.

Situation More Uncertain as Senate Is Determined to Stand by Government.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The deadlock between the Senate and House over the Campbell-Willis anti-beer bill grew tighter today and recess prospects were rendered still more uncertain.

The conference report containing the mild substitute reported Saturday for the Stanley search and seizure amendment, is scheduled to come before the house tomorrow.

Representative Mondell, republican leader of the House, conferred with Senator Lodge, republican leader in the Senate, and informed him that the House would insist upon the passage of the beer bill minus the Stanley amendment before adjournment Wednesday.

Senator Lodge is understood to have informed him that there was little possibility of putting the anti-beer bill through the Senate in its present form.

Indications are that when time for the recess gong approaches, Congress will be faced by the alternative of giving up its vacation or abandoning the beer bill. If such a situation develops betting odds probably will favor abandonment of the beer bill.

The Minnesota delegation in the House held a caucus today and decided to present a resolution demanding that Senator Reed's recent attack on Representative Volstead of Minnesota, leader of the radical "drys" be expunged from the record. Senator Reed issued a statement declaring that the issue before Congress was not prohibition but the preservation of constitutional rights.

No action will be taken by the treasury department in regard to the issuance of so called beer regulations until Congress has been given a little more time to decide upon its course in connection with the Willis-Campbell beer bill, it was stated today.

CLANSMEN SEARCHED AT MURDER TRIAL.

SPECTATORS AT SEQUEL TO KENTUCKY FEUD FRISKED FOR WEAPONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MT. VERNON (Ky.) Aug. 22.—The first day of the John Bailey murder trial, growing out of the Bailey-White mountain feud, was productive of nothing more thrilling than the search of every person who entered the courtroom for weapons. Soldiers and deputy sheriffs stopped each clansman as he entered the doorway. None resisted the search and no weapons except a few pocket knives were found. Even the women were not exempt.

When the case was called both the commonwealth and the defense asked for a continuance because essential witnesses were absent. The prosecution asked for attachments for four and the defense for nine material witnesses. Circuit Judge Bethurum appointed Sheriff Walker to deputize two soldiers to bring the desired witnesses into court and adjourned court until tomorrow. The Sheriff also was ordered to establish a censorship of telephone wires and instructed to prevent the transmission of any messages which might inform the missing witnesses of his order.

SEARCH OF 25 YEARS ENDS WITH REUNION.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—After a twenty-five-year search, during which time both have been in Chicago, Mrs. Sophie Wheeler Ruff has been reunited with her daughter, Edna Hope Benson, the name chosen by the daughter when, as a little girl, she was told that somewhere she had a mother and that perhaps some day she would see her.

Mrs. Ruff's story tells of her marriage at the age of 15, and the birth of two children—a son and Edna. When Edna was not yet a year old her husband, whose name was Wheeler, died. The son was ill, and the mother, unable to care for the daughter, left her at Hull House with the understanding that she would support her out of her earnings. But a nurse at Hull House took a fancy to the child and took her to her home without notifying her superiors.

The nurse died suddenly. She had told no one that the baby belonged at Hull House, and the family with whom she lived, continued to care for Edna. The reunion was brought about through a personal advertisement in a local paper.

UNRELENTING SEARCH BY WIFE IS SUCCESS.

HAS HUSBAND ARRESTED IN EAST ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY; FOLLOWED GOOD CLEW.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—More than two years of unrelenting search by Mrs. Earl W. Hentz of Salt Lake City, for her husband, a bridge engineer, resulted today in the arrest of Hentz on a charge of bigamy at his home in Elmhurst.

Mrs. Hentz, mother of three children, had discovered her husband through an application he had made to the government for war compensation. She swore out a warrant for his arrest, charging that on July 18, last, he had married a Miss Mary Shanney of this city. Armed with an extradition warrant, signed by Gov. Mabey of Utah, Sheriff Benjamin F. Aldrich of Salt Lake, arrived today to take Hentz back.

AMERICAN VALUATION PLAN INVESTIGATION.

SENATE APPROPRIATES $100,000 FOR CUSTOMS MEN TO USE IN WORK.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Senate tonight passed a resolution appropriating $100,000 for an investigation by customs agents preparatory to the operation of the American valuation plan in the permanent tariff. Chairman Penrose of the Senate Finance Committee introduced the bill explaining that it was intended to cover salaries and expenses of fifty additional experts whose employment was urged by the treasury.

In connection with the American valuation investigations, Mr. Penrose said his committee would not attempt to rewrite the rates in the House tariff bill until all data on American wholesale selling prices was ascertained. It was very evident that many of the rates were not properly based, he declared, adding that the committee desired to have a solid foundation upon which to work before it fixed import duties. Customs agents attached to the finance committee have estimated it will require at least six weeks to gather the information, and for this reason a further delay in completing the tariff measure is expected.

SEEK HABEAS CORPUS FOR HIGHTOWER.

REDWOOD CITY, Aug. 22.—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus for William A. Hightower, held here on a charge of murdering Father Patrick E. Heslin, a Catholic priest, was received here today by Superior Judge George H. Buck from William F. Herron, a San Francisco attorney. Judge Buck said he expected to decide tomorrow whether the writ would be granted.

The petition alleged that Hightower was held without probable cause and that no evidence had been given to show that he committed the crime. Herron said he was not employed by Hightower but by San Francisco men who did not believe the prisoner had been fairly treated.

WILL NOT CARRY FLAG INTO SOVIET RUSSIA.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

RIGA, Aug. 22.—The American Relief Administration will not carry the Stars and Stripes into soviet Russia while relieving the people there from the famine.

Whereas, in most of the countries aided by the Relief Administration, the American flag has appeared on posters and flown from warehouses and kitchens and on the automobiles used, the Russo-American political situation is considered to be so delicate that even this official symbol of the United States will be missing, by orders of the Relief Administration headquarters in the United States.

OIL DIVIDEND DECLARED.

ALTER ATTITUDE ON SEMENOFF.

Vladivostok Usurper Isn't Popular in Army.

Consular Corps Also Opposes Russian Renegade.

Tokio Trying to Conciliate Far Eastern Republic.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PEKING, Aug. 22. — Copies of official telegrams sent by Gen. Tachibana of the Japanese expeditionary force in Vladivostok, to his superiors in Tokio, indicate to some extent the interest felt in the effort of Semenoff to re-establish himself in Siberia, and in the fortune of Baron Unger-Sternberg in Mongolia.

Opposition by the consular corps at Vladivostok to Semenoff's return to power, coupled with antagonism to him in the Japanese army itself, has created a situation which the Japanese commander declares has forced an "attitude of conciliation" toward the Far Eastern republic and has caused the Japanese command to alter its plans for operations in Siberia.

Both telegrams were dated June 20. The first, addressed to Gen. Ouikhara, Tokio, is as follows:

TEXT OF TELEGRAMS.

"In view of Seo's (a Japanese officer on Semenoff's staff) reports in regard to continuance of negotiations between the Merkuloff government and Ataman Semenoff, I am taking an attitude of 'expectation.' I have informed Seo that my attitude would change as soon as the Mongolian group opens general activities and shows some actual results in the Transbaikalia region. The present situation, I believe, is due to the underground work of some of the extreme radical parties supported by the whole personnel of the Vladivostok consuls. They are entirely ignorant of the real Russian question and are being led by the American representative, who has adopted an irreconcilable attitude toward our influence in the Far East. I have commenced negotiations to counteract this movement with several of the non-Socialist groups and expect to find a peaceful way out of the present situation, which is very precarious to the budget question for the Siberian expeditionary force."

OPPOSED TO SEMENOFF.

The second dispatch, sent by Gen. Tachibana to Gen. Sudzuki, Tokio, four hours later on the same day, follows:

"From all my reports to the supreme military council you may judge whether the situation is truly abnormal so far as our expeditionary corps is concerned. Among our own forces a group has formed which is opposed to Ataman Semenoff and is supporting the opposition in the army and among the people. Their position is strengthened by the consular corps, while members have adopted a hostile attitude toward Semenoff.

"The general situation now tends to force us back to an attitude of conciliation with regard to the Far Eastern republic, which annuls the plan worked out. The position in which we find the Mongolian army, so small in numbers that it is out of all proportion to the area of territory occupied and to the military operations on three fronts, naturally delays the solution of the Semenoff problem.

"The appropriation as assigned by the budget confirmed by the supreme military council, to support the Semenoff units, is exhausted. This condition I ascribe to the frequent changes made in our program and the hesitating attitude adopted by the military council as to putting an end to noninterference in Russian domestic affairs. The delay in making a decision may bring very undesirable consequences. The situation of our army demands an immediate clearing up in regard to the Russian question. Knowing your point of view, I request you to use your influence in the matter."

W.C.T.U. HEARS DRY LAW EFFECT.

Not to Blame for Gain in Crime, Says Speaker.

Eighteenth Amendment Finds Staunch Champion.

Convention Re-elects All of Its Officers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—A crime wave at present sweeping England, Ireland and France is proof that crime in the United States today cannot be attributed to prohibition, Dr. Robert O. Matthews of Washington, representing the National Prohibition Commissioner, declared in an address tonight at the national W.C.T.U. convention.

He likened the personal liberty argument against prohibition to a soap bubble, iridescent and apparently real, but easily punctured. Dr. Matthews said the statement that prohibition was the product of wartime hysteria was amusing.

EDUCATOR SPEAKS.

Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, president of Mills College, in a discussion of peace and arbitration, said that since children only spent 4 per cent of their time in school, all of the burden of educating them to the need of peace should not be avoided by the church and the home. As the W.C.T.U. had made the people of the United States think that prohibition was a possible achievement, so peace also could be realized, she added.

Selection of the next convention city and the election of delegates to the world's convention in 1922 will be part of the business at the final session tomorrow.

"Some of the most venomous attacks on the Eighteenth Amendment are camouflaged as personal liberty, Americanism, humanitarianism and patriotism," said Dr. Matthews.

"The Eighteenth Amendment is an integral part of our Constitution, a document which represents the wisdom, foresight and discretion of the American people, articulating through a legislative system second to none on earth. This amendment is not the result of a hectic movement 'put over' while the boys were overseas. It is a product of evolution, as are all other reforms."

All officers of the Temperance Union were re-elected today for another year by large majorities. Miss Anna A. Gordon of Evanston, Ill., was retained as president. Other officers are:

Vice-president, Mrs. Ella A. Poole, Brooklyn, N. Y.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frances C. Parks, Evanston, Ill.; recording secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Anderson, Fargo, N. D.; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Sarah H. Hogue, Lincoln, Va.; secretary, Mrs. Margaret C. Manus, Evanston, Ill.

POLICE WORK TOLD.

Prior to the election, Capt. Charles Goff of the San Francisco police department, told of efforts being made to suppress illicit dealing in liquor.

Lieut.-Gov. Young of California spoke of the interest with which he had watched the W.C.T.U. grow into a great organization for good.

He urged the delegates to "keep plugging along."

"You have already moved mountains," he said.

The well wishes of the San Francisco police department were extended by Capt. Goff. Miss Anna Adams Gordon, president of the union responded.

FORCED TO PAY BILL, SHE SAYS.

Bride Declares She Had to Settle for First Night in Hotel Room.

Charging that her husband forced her to pay their bridal hotel bill at the Alexandria and afterward refused to provide a home for her, Mrs. Anthony T. Carpi yesterday filed suit for divorce.

Mrs. Carpi's complaint recites that she married Mr. Carpi Dec. 17, 1917. The following morning the bridegroom compelled her to pay their hotel bill and later declared he did not know when he would provide a home for her, she further asserts.

Mr. Carpi never provided a home, Mrs. Carpi declares.

TOUR OVER CONTINENT IS CLOSED BY DEATH.

BENICIA, Aug. 22.—Mrs. W. D. Wells of Michigan was killed at Goodyear bar near here this afternoon when a sedan driven by Mrs. N. T. Elbe of Dixon, crashed into the auto driven by Mr. Wells. Mrs. Elbe and two children were slightly injured.

Mrs. Elbe was rushing back to her home in Dixon from the bay having received a telephone call that her home was burning. Mr. and Mrs. Wells were completing a transcontinental tour to visit a daughter in Martinez, just a few miles from here.

TRAFFIC STATISTICS GIVEN IN TESTIMONY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Testimony in the case brought before the Interstate Commerce Commission by grain men of the West proposing a reduction of rates on grain and hay consisted today of statistics showing the costs of other traffic.

C. W. Hillman of Newark, N. J., testified that it cost the carriers 74.13 cents of every dollar of revenue from freight to transport all freight, while the operating expenses of the roads in handling grain was 61.75 per cent of revenues received from that traffic.

BAGOBOS DON'T LIKE JAPANESE.

Hill Tribes of Davao Province Resent Intrusion.

Sixty of Colony Have Been Killed by Natives.

Philippines' Problem Similar to That of California.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, Chicago Tribune.]

MANILA, Aug. 22.—The situation in Davao province, where the only big Japanese colony in the Philippine Islands is located, is similar to that in California and presents a potential source for international complications. Maj.-Gen. Wood spent two days investigating the province and the gulf towns, but he found nothing critical nor any cause for immediate apprehension from this standpoint.

A recent law prohibits further expansion by the Japanese or the nationals of any other nation. President Harding signed a law several days ago confirming the titles of Japanese who already have invested in lands obtained under the old homestead laws.

HAVE KILLED SIXTY.

Trouble in the future may come through murders of Japanese by wild tribesmen, who have killed sixty Japanese in this district since 1907. It would be possible for the Japanese to set forth claims, and to move here in force to protect their citizens if America were not here. The chief trouble has been with the Bagobos, who have held this land for centuries. They resented the presence of others, and the killing of the Japanese resulted. Now they have been disarmed by the Filipinos and are being driven back farther into the hills.

In this province there are at present 5000 Japanese, whereas there used to be 12,000. Only a handful of Americans live here, and it is the Japanese who have developed the country. There are about 60,000 Christian Filipinos and at least 70,000 wild men.

IMMENSE HARBOR.

From a strategic point of view the Japanese chose a great place, for the Gulf of Davao is big enough to hold all the navies of the world and has a straight path only a few miles to the section of the Pacific Ocean where the Japanese mandated islands are located. This country is a great trading center and it is certain that there will be a city as large as Manila here some day. It is near to the Dutch East Indies and to the trade of the southern seas.

The Japanese are said to have corrupted certain Filipino land and forestry officials and through them obtained land. On the other hand they have been persecuted in many ways besides being killed. They told Gen. Wood that the Philippine officials had hampered them in all possible ways.

CONTRACT LABORERS.

The Japanese brought into the country 1000 contract laborers in violation of the gentlemen's agreement, but they will return to their country as their employers do not believe the hemp industry in which the laborers were employed is longer profitable. With the new land laws it is not probable that there will be a great development of the Japanese colonies here.

There is little Japanese propaganda to be found here now, although there was a great deal in 1916, when it was believed that independence would be granted to the islands. As long as America stays here it is not likely that they will commit any overt acts, but in the long run their expansion looks this way and the United States must be prepared to defend its rights.

MOTHER IS CHARGED WITH KILLING BABY.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22.—Alleged to have preferred to see her baby dead than to have face a life of poverty, Mrs. Mary Soltis, 24 years old, was under arrest at police headquarters today on a charge of murder. Police Sergeant McCarthy declares the young mother admitted she smothered her week-old child, McCarthy questioned Mrs. Soltis after the baby's body had been taken to the morgue. He found two other children, John, 7 years old and Mary 4 years old, clinging to their mother's skirts crying with hunger.

"I smothered the baby with the bed clothes," Mrs. Soltis is said to have declared. "I did not want to see him grow up with nothing ahead. There is no money—nothing. What could I do? He would be better dead. She said her husband, John, went away some time ago in search of work.

QUINTUPLE PARACHUTE JUMP ACCOMPLISHED.

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Aug. 22.—A quintupl parachute jump — five chutes released one after the other in a 5000-foot fall—was accomplished for what was said to be the first time here yesterday by Col. W. B. Bottenfield of Nelson, Neb. Several thousand persons witnessed the feat.

Bottenfield, a former Army aviator, was taken by Capt. Ray Miller. He had five chutes of varying sizes fitted into a mesh-like arrangement above his head and attached to his harness. After he had leaped from the plane and dropped 200 feet his first parachute opened. This he cut loose with a knife and dropped rapidly until the second chute opened, which also was cut. This was repeated with two more and the fifth carried him safely to the ground.

INQUIRY ON SLAYING ABOARD SCHOONER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—An investigation into the killing of Capt. Michael McCarron of the schooner Sophie Christensen by a Japanese cook, said to have been insane and the death of the cook at the hands of the first mate, Charles Ferris, soon after the vessel left Gray's Harbor for Callao, Peru, May 5, was started today by E. M. Blanford, special agent of the Department of Justice. Several members of the crew appeared to tell their story that Ferris acted in self-defense, the cook having run amuck.

CITY OF MEXICO SOON TO GO DRY?

Movement on Foot at Capital to Bring Prohibition on by September First.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—There is a well-defined movement here, which is said to have some official backing to make the Federal District, which embraces Mexico City bone dry by September 1. It is proposed to close all saloons and cantinas and to stop the sale of all intoxicants. During the administration of Provisional President De la Huerta several prohibition measures were enforced, but eventually were lifted after violent protests had been made by liquor vendors and their thirsty customers.

JAP SMUGGLING "PLOT" EXPLAINED TO SENATORS

REPORTS OF WHOLESALE INVASION UNFOUNDED, INVESTIGATION SHOWS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Senator Shortridge today was advised by Federal authorities that reports of wholesale smuggling of Japanese through Cuba and Key West was without foundation and fact. Thorough examination showed that the report originated from the transfer of Chinese labor across the continent in bond.

A loyal American citizen being suspicious of the activities of Japanese colonization groups, although he resides in Newport, R. I., informed Senator Shortridge some time ago that he had observed several trainloads of Japanese passing along the Atlantic Coast from Key West. An investigation conducted at the instance of the California Senator showed that the immigration authorities were transferring Chinese contract laborers from Cuban plantations to their homes. The trains carrying the Orientals were heavily guarded, and each Chinaman was under immigration bond.

BAKERSFIELD BANKS BECOME BRANCHES.

FIRST NATIONAL AND ARDIZZI-OICES TAKEN OVER BY BANK OF ITALY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The First National Bank and Ardizzi-Oices banks of Bakersfield were taken over by the Bank of Italy and will be run as branches of the larger bank, it was announced here today by Bank of Italy officials. The banks are among the oldest in the oil-producing section. They have combined deposits of $4,000,000 and $7,000,000.

W. E. Benn, president of the First National, and L. V. Oices, president of the Ardizzi-Oices Bank, will remain at the head of these respective institutions with the position of vice-presidents of the Bank of Italy.

HEARING IN MILLER ESTATE UNDER WAY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Preliminary procedure in a hearing before H. M. Wright, special master in chancery, to determine the valuation of the estate of the late Henry Miller for Federal inheritance tax purposes, was begun here today. The first evidence will be taken tomorrow.

The heirs of California's noted cattle king have set the value at approximately $32,000,000, while the government contends the estate had been appraised at about $39,000,000.

POSTMASTERS FOR STATE NOMINATED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—President Harding today sent to the Senate the nominations of the following postmasters from California: Anthony F. Sonke, Lemon Grove; Edith B. Smith, Patton, and Fred C. Skinner, Pine Knot.

The civil service examinations for postmasters will be held for the following vacancies in California at a date to be announced later: Holtville, Point Loma, San Jacinto, Spreckles, Visalia and Wood Lake.

NEW YORK WILL GET SURVEY ON IDLENESS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Mayor Hylan today appointed a committee of three, headed by Bird S. Coler, commissioner of general welfare to make a survey of the unemployment situation here and report its findings to the board of estimate September 7. He suggested an industrial aid bureau be established.

Commissioner Coler reported he had made a preliminary investigation and had concluded this fall and winter would see the greatest lack of employment in this city in its experience.

WOOD-FORBES BODY ENDS INVESTIGATION.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MANILA, Aug. 22. — The personal investigation of Philippines conditions by the Wood-Forbes mission practically closed today. The mission sailed from Jolo today still with a number of islands to visit, but the conditions in the unvisited places probably will have no important bearing on the final report to the President.

All of the principal provinces of the archipelago have been visited and the work of preparing the report will begin as soon as the mission returns to Manila, which will be about September 3.

WRITERS TO SEE DIFFERENT LAND.

Newspaper Men's Congress in Hawaii in October.

Most Cosmopolitan District Under the Flag.

Many Different Words Used by the Natives.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) Aug. 22.—Mainland newspaper men arriving in Honolulu for the first time to attend the World Press Congress sessions here in October will find it hard to believe at first that they are trodding United States territory. For in idiomatic language, customs, many foods, traditions, vegetation and climate, this far-flung outpost of the United States differs from the mainland as night differs from day.

As befits its position—"at the crossroads of the Pacific"—Honolulu probably is the most cosmopolitan community under the American flag. Here are Filipinos, Japanese, Chinese and natives of all other Pacific Ocean lands and islands in profusion.

Bearded and turbaned Hindus stalk majestically the narrow streets, and representatives of practically every other race and nation in the world are seen in town or along the exceptionally well built and maintained automobile boulevards that thread the island of Oahu, on which Honolulu is situated.

WILL EAT "POI."

Visiting newspaper men will walk through shaded lanes of giant royal palm trees, crowned with bunches of green cocoanuts. In other districts they will crunch fallen dates which carpet the earth. They will eat "poi," to which is attributed the mighty athlete prowess of Hawaiians. "Poi" is made by crushing the roots of the taro plant, which resembles the sweet potato or yam of the mainland. Hawaiians eat it with their fingers and the varieties range from "one finger Poi" to "four finger poi," the variation being in the consistency.

The newspaper men will find alligator pears, which are an expensive luxury on the mainland, common and comparatively cheap in Hawaii.

But perhaps the greatest difference between Honoluiu and the mainland is in the adoption by nearly all residents of several dozen native words which are used in preference to English equivalents.

There is, for instance, no north, south, east or west. Instead of north it is "ewa," toward the Ewa plantation in the northern portion of Oahu. South is "waikiki," for the famed beach. "Mauku," toward the mountains, is east, and "makai," toward the sea, is west.

KEEP OUT IS KAPU.

No "kamaaina" or old-time residents ever thinks of saying "I am done." He says "I am pau," pronounced "pow," which also means to stop. Instead of saying, "Stop that," one says "pau." A "keep out" sign is never seen in Honoluiu. Instead it is "kapu."

To almost all mainland Americans the word "kanaka" designates a race of people—the Hawaiians. As a matter of fact the word in Hawaiian means "man." "A "kanaka" is a man; a woman is a "wahine."

Practically every Hawaiian proper name has a meaning. That of Duke Kahanamoku, world's champion short-distance swimmer, as an example, means "The Boatbuilder." "Ka" means the; "hana" to work, and "moku" means boat.

Haleakala, the great extinct volcanic crater on the island of Maui means "House of the Sun." Halemaumau, the mighty fire pit in the volcano of Kilauea means "House of Everlasting Fire." All the names of Hawaiian priests, priestesses, chiefs and kings ending in "lani" or "Kalani" signified that persons bearing those names were associated with heaven.

"BOUNCING FLEA."

A literal translation of ukulele, musical instrument of wide renewn it is the "bouncing flea," as "uku" means flea and "lele" to jump. Anything that is good is "ono," but "ona" means intoxicated. "pua" is flower, but "puaa" is a pig, a distinction which makes an Hawaiian lover extremely careful of his pronunciation.

"Aloha," one of the widest known Hawaiian word on the mainland, is a greeting and an expression of farewell at the same time, circumstances dictating whether it means "hello" or "good-by."

If one thirsts and asks an Hawaiian whether he has water a mainland visitor usually is downcast when the Hawaiian seems to reply, "Why, no." What he really says is "Wai no," which means that he has plenty of water and that the questioner is welcome to help himself.

It is expected that with all these words of general use and many more which are common the visiting newspaper men will return to the mainland with far greater vocabularies than were theirs when they came to Honolulu.

Scotchman Who Tries to Have Bartender Arrested fro Refusing Drink Wiser.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Sandis Duncan, a Scotch sailor, who, for four years, has been sailing between Calcutta and Shanghai, learned today that the United States had gone dry. He tried to have a bartender arrested for refusing to sell him whisky. When he learned the truth he said he'd select a ship sailing east of Suez hereafter.

AMERICANS EXONERATE CIGARETTE, COCKTAIL.

BEAUTY SPECIALISTS DECLARE WHISKERS IS RIDICULOUS. CHARGE THEY GIVE WOMEN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Physicians and beauty specialists smiled today over the story from Paris that cigarette smoking and cocktail drinking were accountable for the alarming increase in women's mustaches and beards in European countries.

Cigarettes and liquor have nothing to do with the growth of "spinach" on the femine countenance, they declare. "The fair-skinned Anglo-Saxon women need have no fear of a budding mustache or a beard," said Dr. Emma Salisbury Peterson, a well-known beauty specialist. "They run less to hair than do their darker Latin sisters," said the doctor. "Then, too, the French women are more voluptuous than the women of the northern climes, and for that reason have more luxuriant growths of hair. But it is nonsense to say this is attributable either to smoking or drinking."

Mme. Grace Earle, who, for fifteen years has been plucking hairs from feminine lips and cheeks, said she had never heard such nonsense. "Women who have hair on their faces to the extent of actual beards and mustaches have a masculine trend in physical strength and appearance," she said.

Other beauty specialists and even members of the Anti-Saloon League ridiculed the idea. Miss Lucy Page Gaston, head of the Anti-Cigarette League, could not be located for an interview.

GERMANS AT SEA ON PEACE WITH AMERICA.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Aug. 22. — The German newspapers continue wholly uninformed with respect to the progress of the peace negotiations between the United States and Germany. In the absence of authenticated information from official sources they continue to give prominence to reports gathered from the newspapers of London as to the nature of the forthcoming treaty.

Notwithstanding the secretiveness maintained, it is known that the parleys have virtually been concluded and that the treaty now only awaits the final approval of Secretary of State Hughes. Contrary to rumors emanating from Washington, no commercial treaty will preface the formal peace pact. The latter, while general in outline, nevertheless will be a formal treaty which will provide for the immediate re-establishment of normal diplomatic missions and consular organizations.

MAYOR IN LOUISVILLE AGAINST KU KLUX KLAN

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 22.—Terming the Ku Klux Klan an organization which "all thoughtful men must be convinced must be a menace to the peace and good understanding between the people of Louisville," Mayor Smith today issued a statement asserting that he would use every lawful means to prevent and suppress its growth.

The Mayor's statement came on the heels of announcement in local newspapers advertising for recruits for the order.

MURDERER SENTENCED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Roberto Raffaele, convicted last week of murder in the first degree for the killing of five-year-old Giuseppe Varotta, who was drowned in the Hudson River after being kidnaped, today was sentenced to be electrocuted during the week of October 3. Six others are to be tried for the same crime.

UNEMPLOYMENT CALLED CRIME.

Gompers Estimates Wage Loss at $27,500,000 a Day.

Wage Reductions Won't Help Situation, He Wails.

Wants Union Man to Sit in Disarmament Meeting.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Aug. 22. The present unemployment situation is an economic crime, resulting in a loss of $27,500,000 a day in wages to the workers of the country, President Gompers declared tonight, following a session of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, at which unemployment conditions were discussed.

Wage reductions will not relieve the situation, the veteran labor-union chief said, adding that such action will further curtail our domestic purchasing power, and more factories will close because the people haven't the money to buy their products.

"The present depression," he added, "will become even more acute and the reductions, if they can be forced upon us, will not only prove a boomerang to the employer, but a menace to our economic, financial and political structures.

"In all this talk about readjustment and reconstruction, why is it that the pressure is always brought to bear upon those whose standards of life and every-day existence would be demoralized and deteriorated by a reduction in wages, and why this drive to reduces their wages first? The rank and file cannot understand how readjustment and reconstruction can mean only reduction of their wages.

"I have been asked who, among the capitalists, has suggested a reduction in the rate in interest on a loan or a reduction of profits, or even a simultaneous reduction of wages and profits.

RENTS GOING UP.

"The cost of living has not come down. Instead, with profiteering unchecked and unrestrained, it is going up, especially rents. Ninety per cent of the homes in the United States were built before the war, but the exorbitant rents gouged out of the tenants by the profiteering and unscrupulous landlords is blamed on the high cost of labor during the war."

The council had before it a proposal to call upon Congress to take steps to relieve the present unemployment situation by legislation and making appropriations that would aid in speeding up public work. Action on this will probably be taken later.

President Gompers also reported to the council that he had called at the White House and asked President Harding to take steps to have the government protect the small investors from fraudulent and fake stock schemes, to urge the continuance of the insurance of treasury savings securities and to make them an attractive investment for the average American worker.

He said President Harding had agreed to bring the matter to the attention of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and co-operate to bring about methods to rid the country of these fraudulent schemes. The question is also to be brought to the attention of the governors of the twelve Federal reserve banks.

The labor chief declared the public had been swindled out of about $5,000,000 last year by the sale of worthless and fraudulent stocks and securities.

Gompers also reported that President Harding with whom he had conferred on the question of appointing a representative of union labor on the American delegation to the coming disarmament conference, looked with favor upon the proposition. A definite decision is expected shortly, he added.

ARMED BAND IN CAMP PLANS DEMONSTRATION

CHARLESTON POLICE PLAN TO MEET ADVANCING MEN AT CITY LINE.

CHARLESTON (W. Va.) Aug. 22. The armed men who are in camp near Marmet (W. Va.) plan to pass through Charleston and stage a demonstration before Gov. Morgan's residence when they start their march toward Mingo county, according to reports received here today by J. H. Charnock, Chief of Police. The police executive declared that in event the men started for Charleston he was prepared to meet them at the city line and turn them back.

Numerous robberies in the vicinity of the camp have been reported to the authorities. According to these reports several officers have been held up and threatened with death if they remained in the region.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Aug. 22.—Detroit police refuse to give much credence to reports that bodies of victims of the black hand gang are buried in fields near Gratiot avenue and the Seven Mile Road.

A case of beri-beri, a tropical disease, said to be the only one on record in this country, has been diagnosed by Flint physicians who examined Bernard Benson, former British soldier, now living here. Benson's legs and feet have shrunk until only the skin drawn tightly over the bones are left.

While his eight little children, the oldest of whom is 11, played about their home, Anthony Rokowski, proprietor of a bicycle repair shop at Grand Rapids, shot and killed himself.

MINNEAPOLIS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 22.—After presistently battling illness for the last four years, J. E. Meyers, former Mayor, is in the hospital facing prospects of an operation for gallstones.

The infantile paralysis epidemic has passed its peak with the number of cases now 324, Dr. A. J. Chesley, secretary of the State Board of Health, reported.

The city of Minneapolis will be compelled to resort to some extraordinary means to obtain additional revenue, or approximately $500,000 will have to be sliced from city department requests for current expenses during 1922.

DENVER.

DENVER, Aug. 22.—William Sachs, founder of the Sachs-Lawlor Company, and for twenty-two years in business in Denver, is dead.

Denver's criminal forces are as strongly organized to violate the law as the police department is to enforce it, declares Dist.-Atty. Van Cise. Mr. Van Cise added that law enforcement is up to the public.

Harvesting of early potatoes virtually has ceased in Montrose county through a strike of raisers for higher prices.

The live stock of W. N. W. Blayney of Denver captured for Colorado a big share of awards in the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia, Mo

ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—A number of guests assembled in the rose room at the Buckingham Hotel for the reception following the marriage of Miss Corinne Erlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Erlich, Pershing avenue, to Monroe Lavoy of New York, were disappointed after waiting more than an hour, when it was announced that the plans for the marriage had been indefinitely suspended. No reason was given.

The Building Trades Council, by refusing to abrogate existing contracts and submit the wage question to arbitration, deferred for an indefinite period the rehabilitation of the building industry, F. G. Boyd, secretary of the Building Industries Association said.

The Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from the Building Trades Council voicing disapproval of a referendum vote now being taken by that organization on the open and closed-shop question.

AKRON.

AKRON, Aug. 22.—An inspection tour of Goodyear subsidiaries will be made during the next month by President W. G. Wilmer and other Goodyear officials. Their trip will take them to Canada, Los Angeles and Phoenix.

Damage due to last week's storm is the heaviest of the year so far, with reports still coming in. There are many bad washouts and damage to private property will be high.

Penfield Seiberling, aged 25, son of Frank A. Seiberling, former Goodyear president, had a narrow escape from drowning in Lake Huron when his motor boat crashed into a submerged rock and sank.

MILWAUKEE.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 22.—"Wisconsin farmers will be among the first to feel the return to better times, and in my opinion we are right now near the bottom of the depression, if not at the bottom," is the encouraging note sounded by W. A. Henry, veteran leader in Wisconsin agriculture.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Bertha Calkins of Green Bay to Lincoln Grant Titus, New York clothing manufacturer. The marriage took place in Cincinnati.

Despite the fact that it was predicted for weeks that the potato yield of Northern Wisconsin would be a bumper crop, farmers are reporting the crop below normal and of a poorer variety.

ST. PAUL.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 22.—J. J. Gleason, president of the St. Paul Typothetae, announced that members of the organization would act according to individual judgment in taking back striking printers, but that their first duty is to the men now working for them.

Charles Forsberg, general trackage manager of the St. Paul City Railway, was shot and killed by Gus Peterson, an employee following Peterson's discharge. Peterson committed suicide.

For the first time in the history of the Minnesota State Fair practically all available concessions space has been sold nearly three weeks in advance of the big exposition, September 3 to 10.

Helping Industry—

Untold resources of Southern California are constantly being brought into utility by new industries, forcing Los Angeles ahead as one of the world's fastest growing cities. Capital is fundamental to industry. That's where banking comes in. This bank devotes its resources to the commercial and industrial development of Los Angeles and contiguous territory, believing that such a policy adds most to the upbuilding of the community.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The steamer Mexico is to depart from this city on Saturday to inaugurate a new freight and passenger service between United States and Mexican Pacific ports, the Anglo-Southern Company importers and exporters, and agents for the line, announced today. Later the steamer Hidalgo will be added to the line.

The Mexican ports of call are Ensenada, Guaymas, Mazatlan, Manzanillo, San Blas, Acapulco and Salina Cruz.

RED CROSS OFFICER IS FACING CHARGES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22. — C. E. Wilson, second assistant treasurer of the American Red Cross, was arrested today charged with larceny following an audit of his books which showed, according to Director Livingston Farrand, a shortage of about $14,000. The warrant specifically charged the theft of $900, but Red Cross officials said this was only one of a number of charges against him.

According to the police, Wilson admitted shortage of more than $12,000 and attributed his misfortune to gambling on horse races.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Two Important Factors Point the Way to Business Stability in Los Angeles; Offices Scarce.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

It is not sufficient to assert that Los Angeles is the business white spot of the country, without backing up such assertion with the facts in the case. These are available in the form of statistics having to do with the financial, trade, industrial and general productivity of the community, the figures in every department bearing out the findings of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Seeking to carry the comparative lesson a step further, Trade Talk has made an informal survey of the office buildings of Los Angeles, having in mind the addition of hundreds of rooms and acres of floor space during recent months.

These figures completely sustain other comparisons, and so far as the record is made up indicates that the percentage of vacancies in Los Angeles is low than in any other city in the United States.

On August 16 San Francisco reported through its branch of the Business Property Owners' and Managers' Association that out of a total of 13,467 offices in that city there was a percentage of vacancies of only 1.5 per cent.

In Los Angeles the percentage of vacancies estimated by F. R. Kent, assistant secretary of the local branch of the association is 1.5 per cent, or approximately one-half the number of empty offices recorded in San Francisco.

The New York Tribune estimates a vacancy percentage of 5 per cent for the office-building district south of Chambers street. Reports for a number of eastern cities given in a recent issue of the Office Building and Management Magazine show percentages ranging from 2 to 5 per cent, with an average around 3.5 per cent, or twice the Los Angeles figure.

There are several large office buildings under construction in Los Angeles in the Sixth and Seventh-street districts, but the increase soon to be available from this added source is expected to no more than equal the present demand for high-class space, according to H. A. Belcher, manager of the retail department of the R. A. Rowan Company. This company, which is agent for several large downtown buildings, is unable to report a single vacancy at this time.

Rental prices have remained unchanged since this period last year, when there was an actual shortage. This is said to be a good indication that demand for first-class offices is still largely in excess of the supply.

HOUSES IN DEMAND.

From offices it is but a step to discussion of the consistent demand for houses, and here is also found a most encouraging situation. A recent report on the activities of the Los Angeles Investment Company shows record net earnings for that corporation in July of $50,000, with a total of $228,000 so far this year. July earnings are at the rate of 34 cents per share per annum.

The company is selling houses practically as fast as they can build them, and a healthy lot sale is also reported. On one day thirty-five lots were sold in the Slauson district. At this time the company is doing considerable work in the Inglewood section, where twenty-five houses are said to be under construction, while an average of forty residences are being finished every month, many of which are sold before completion.

At the end of the year, after paying 8 per cent, the book value of the stock will be about $2.38, and relative to future dividends it is expected, according to company officials the rate will certainly not be less than 4 per cent and may go between 8 and 10 per cent.

Yesterday there was consistent bidding for L.A.I. at 85 cents, but not a share was offered at less than 90, which is the high point for the year. There has been a quiet accumulation for some time.

With office space practically absorbed in the face of heavy and consistent building, and with large construction companies disposing of their wares before completion the position of Los Angeles is strengthened and sound basis given her claims to business supremacy.

CALIFORNIA OIL.

The statistical bureau of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency of Los Angeles, has prepared the following summary of conditions in this State for the month of July:

Of the 329,833 barrels of crude oil produced daily in California during July, 273,185 barrels were consumed and the balance, 56,659 barrels, were placed in storage.

The daily production and shipments show a decrease of 7201 barrels and 4195 barrels respectively, while the surplus accumulated during July is 2016 barrels less per day than the increase in stocks during June.

The disparity between the monthly production of 10,228,171 barrels and the shipments of 8,468,739 barrels resulted in a surplus for the month of 1,756,432 barrels, which brought the yearly surplus to 7,319,764 barrels.

During the month, eighty new rigs were erected and 573 wells were drilling, a decrease of twenty-four rigs and twenty-one strings. The seventy-five completions during the month aided in bringing the active producing wells to 9937, which registers an increase of fifty-one over the same corresponding figures of the previous month.

PETROLEUM FREIGHT RATES.

The proportion of refined petroleum products moved by rail at the present time is astonishingly small, according to Fayette B. Dow of the petroleum rate committee of the American Petroleum Institute, and the increasing use of other transportation facilities indicates that it will continue to diminish if rail rates are maintained at their present level.

The petroleum rate committee has recently made a statement to the railroad executives of the eastern, western and southern territories urging a reduction in transportation costs that will be something in proportion to decreased petroleum prices. It is shown, in this statement, that in the first quarter of this year the ratio of rail movement to the output of petroleum products, minus exports, was 29.5 per cent, or a decrease of 6.2 per cent compared to the same quarter of 1920. During the same period the output of such products increased 19.8 per cent. The railroads also moved 24.8 per cent less crude oil, although the production increased 11.6 per cent.

The effect of the present high rail rates, says the report, is to divert the petroleum traffic from the rail lines to other forms of transportation, such as by water, motor truck and pipe lines. The investigation carried on by the committee shows that the petroleum shippers are amply supplied with tank cars and that with a more moderate level of freight rates, they would increase rather than decrease their shipments of petroleum products by railroad.

BUYS TWO BANKS.

The Bank of Italy yesterday purchased two banks in Bakersfield, the Ardizzi-Olcese Bank and the First National Bank of Bakersfield, with total deposits in excess of $5,000,000. L. V. Olcese, who is now president of the Ardizzi-Olcese Bank and Mr. W. E. Benz, who is president of the First National Bank of Bakersfield, will become vice-presidents of the Bank of Italy. This transaction brings the Bank of Italy into the oil and mining fields.

MARKET IS SOFT.

Prevailing Weakness Due to Professional Pressure; Call Rates Remain at 5½ Per Cent.

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES,
Financial Editor New York "Times."
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The weakness which prevailed on the stock exchange today, with only a moderate volume of business done, affected both industrial and railway shares.

It appeared to be again the result of pressure from professional speculators and it did not arise from any news of the day. The probability is that this pressure on the market has been effective chiefly because of the financial community's mood, which in turn had been affected by the ramifications of the recent unlucky ventures in South American trade.

Any situation which, like the Marcantile Bank of the Americas incident, calling for organized banking relief, is bound to disturb financial sentiment, and this particular episode cannot have failed to exert at least a deterrent influence. Such influence must always be recognized and allowed for; it is apt to be greater when people in general have been in the dark as to the exact nature and scope of the matter, and it does not always disappear at once, even when the relief measures have been made effective.

No change occurred in today's money market; rates for call loans remained all day at last week's low rate of 5½ per cent. Foreign exchange was slightly lower in the case of most European markets, and distinctly weak in the case of Berlin.

The mark, which fell from 1.19 cents on Monday last week to 1.06¼ on Tuesday, recovering by Thursday to 1.22, got down again today to 1.12. Apparently today's pressure on the market for German exchange originated in London, where speculation for the fall in the market has seemed to be based partly on general principles and the future of the financial necessities of Germany and partly on possible disturbances incident to the final payment which must be made by the end of August; but the best information obtainable has been to the effect that it is already virtually provided for.

Western States Gas and Electric Company
6% Gold Notes

Authorized by the Railroad Commission of California

Dated February 1, 1917. Due February 1, 1937.
Coupon Notes in $100, $500 and $1000 denominations, registerable as to principal, exchangeable into fully registered Notes of $1000 denominations. Callable on 30 days' notice at 102 and interest until February 1, 1925, and at 100 and interest thereafter. Principal and semi-annual interest (February 1 and August 1) payable at Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Trustee

That the securities of established, well-managed gas and electric companies in California are entitled to high regard by investors, has been well demonstrated during the last twenty years. The fact that they supply an indispensible commodity, under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission, assures permanence, stability and dependable earnings.

From a letter to us from Mr. Samuel Kahn, Vice-President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

BUSINESS. The Company owns and controls water-power, electric and gas utilities in Central California, supplying more than thirty communities of well diversified interests and with a population of about 100,000. Territory includes Stockton, Richmond and Eureka.

SECURITY. These Notes are a direct obligation of the Company. Trust Agreement provides no new mortgage may be created upon present properties without equally securing this issue.

RESTRICTIONS OF ISSUE. Additional Notes may be issued only when net earnings, after providing interest upon all prior charges, are equal to three times annual interest charges on all Notes outstanding, including those about to be issued, as well as interest on all floating debt.

EARNINGS. Gross Earnings have increased steadily since incorporation of Company. Net Earnings for year ended June 30, 1921, were equal to over 1.9 times total annual interest charges on Bonds and Notes now outstanding. Net Earnings after deducting annual bond interest charges, equal over 4 times annual interest requirements on these Notes.

EQUITY. This issue is followed by Preferred and Common Stocks representing an equity, based upon recent market quotations, exceeding $3,000,000. The reproduction cost of the physical properties is largely in excess of the total funded debt, including these Notes. Conservative estimate places reproduction value at over $9,700,000.

TAXES. The Company pays the normal Federal income taxes not exceeding two per cent.

All legal matters passed upon by Cummins, Boomer & Flynn, Chicago, and Chickering & Gregory, San Francisco. Audits by Haskins & Sells, and physical property examinations and reports by H. M. Byllesby & Company.

Not a Penny Has Ever Been Lost Through Investment in Our Guaranteed First Mortgage Certificates

—a record we're justly proud of. It's not every investment that can boast such an enviable record, in fact there are few on the market today that have not suffered a loss of principal or a fluctuation in value.

The very nature of these investments makes them immune from loss. Each separate certificate represents part ownership in a group of widely distributed first mortgages on income-producing real estate. They are further protected by our resources of more than $16,000,000.00 and are productive of a dependable income that is always paid twice a year.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Further liquidation and short selling of various shares marked the opening of the week on the stock exchange. Many new low records for the year were recorded.

Offerings for both accounts derived fresh impetus from the suspension of a prominent commission house whose embarrassment was hastened, according to reports, by severe shrinkage of market values and failure of customers to meet impaired margins.

Oils, motors, equipments, steels, rubbers, tobaccos and numerous issues of no definite description sustained additional losses. Among leaders these ranged from 1 to 4 points, but some obscure shares suffered greater declines.

Rails resisted pressure until the final hour, when Pacifics, grangers and coalers, as represented by Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Reading, reacted 2 to 3 points.

The outstanding feature of weakness was Pierce Oil preferred, which made a net decline of 14 points.

Mexican and Pan-American petroleums, General Asphalt, Royal Dutch, Shell Transport, Houston and Goodyear also eased substantially.

Other backward stocks included Pierce-Arrow common and preferred, Sears-Roebuck, International Harvester, United States Rubber, International Paper, American Sugar, General Electric, Westinghouse, Sumatra Tobacco, American Woolen and Famous Players.

Sales amounted to 450,000 shares.

Money rates for call and time accommodations were unchanged, but foreign exchanges again reacted. Sterling fell 1 cent and all continentals were lower by three to ten points, the Copenhagen rate proving the only exception at a slight gain.

Virtually all Liberty issues were lower, especially the 3½s and the general bond list was disposed to make irregular concessions. Cuba cane 6s were weakest of the foreign division. Sales, par value, $5,675,000.

Wheat Rallies Late in Session to Top Figures.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Wheat staged a rally late in the session and the market closed at top figures. The unexpected decrease in the visible supply led to covering on the part of shorts and later a report to the effect that the House of Representatives at Washington had passed a bill authorizing the War Finance Corporation to loan $1,000,000,000 on assist farmers in marketing their crops brought on an additional wave of buying, causing a big advance. At the finish wheat was 3¾ to 5 cents higher, corn 1¾ to 1¾ cents up and oats ¼ to ¾ cents higher. Provisions were weak. Vessel room was chartered for 100,000 bushels wheat, 150,000 bushels corn and 475,000 bushels oats at 1¾ cents to Buffalo. Cash wheat premiums were unchanged, save red winter, which ruled higher; corn and oats were easier.

Wheat market was advanced to a fair extent in the forenoon part of the session, but in the later trading all of the grain was eliminated. Early trade was featured by good purchases by a prominent shipping concern, which some close observers were inclined to credit to a local operator who was covering his short lines. Locals followed this buying, but they were compelled to retrace their steps later when commission houses became free sellers because of a surprisingly big movement of winter wheat in the Southwest. Kansas City receiving 770 cars for the day. This continued selling forced the market back to the previous finish. Bearish reports, showing the offerings on this break. For marketing of spring wheat is fairly liberal, but somewhat below general expectations. Receipts locally were estimated at 400 cars.

Corn prices were kept above the close of Saturday, (Sunday) interest displayed in this cereal was light. Locals were sellers on the heavy arrivals here, the estimate calling for 900 cars. The December delivery was picked up by shipping interests. Commission-house trade was mixed, being featured toward a big business worked for export account, the amount being placed at 800,000 bushels on overnight orders. Domestic shipping demand was fair and sales of 60,000 bushels were made.

Data relating the prevailing local opinion that the bottom has been reached, many traders who put out lines on last week's break covering this morning. The commission house was on a worth brought while and of an excellent character. Oats also displayed good strength from the start, opening ¼ cent higher. Shipping sales of 80,000 bushels early gave indications of a return of fair active demand. Country offerings of oats to arrive again were light.

Quiet, was closed 1 to 1¾ cents lower; No. 2 sold at 39 to 39½ cents; No. 3 at 40 to 40½ cents.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The cotton market showed considerable firmness during today's early trading owing to reports of very high temperatures in the Southwest, and relatively strong Liverpool cables. Liverpool cables attributed the advance there to unfavorable crop reports.

Profit-taking featured quiet during the middle of the afternoon but prices showed considerable steadiness on the detailed weather reports confirming early reports of hot weather in the Southwest. December sold around 13.85 to 13.70 cents compared with 13.47 cents at the close last week.

After advancing to 13.70 for December, or 23 points net higher, the market became less active, and there were reactions of several points from the best under-realizing. A good part of the early buying was attributed to covering which was supposed to have eased the technical position of the market to some extent.

Except for thinking there was no selling pressure of consequence, however, and the market held steady after the publication of the weather bell forecast for continued fair weather, with December rallying around 13.97 at midday, or about 20 points net higher.

MANY PRICE CHANGES ON PRODUCE MARKET.

LIGHT SUPPLIES CAUSE FIRM TENDENCY IN LIMA AND STRING BEANS.

Many price changes and a slight improvement in demand were features of the produce market yesterday. Lemons dropped sharply, market pads selling mostly at $2.50 a box and loose boxes from $2 to $2.50, compared to $4 for market pack and $2.50 to $3 for loose boxes last week. Oranges and grapefruit remained at practically the same figures.

Cantaloupes continue to be offered liberally and the price is still low. Tiptops sold mostly at 50 cents a crate. Watermelons are slow and are bringing comparatively low prices. Local Klondikes sold at 1½ cents a pound. The supplies of Persians are liberal and the demand poor at 2 cents a pound.

Lima beans and string beans were five cents per day and sold at 5 cents a pound. The offerings of both are light. Tomatoes range in price from 50 cents a lug to as high as $1.50, depending on quality. Most of the tomatoes now being marketed locally are of only fair to ordinary quality and the bulk of the sales were made from 75 cents to $1 per lug.

Sweet potatoes dropped in price partly because of a slow demand and also because of heavy supplies. Sweet potatoes of good quality sold from 6 to 7 cents a pound compared to 8 to 10 cents last week. Poor stock sold for as low as 2½ cents to $1 a lug.

Heavier supplies of grapes lowered the price of Muscats and Tokays, the former selling at 4 and 5 cents and Malagas and Muscats from 3 to 7 cents. The demand continues to be very slow.

To holders of Authorized, Subscribed and Issued Capital Stock of Miley Keck Oil Company:

Please take notice that the following resolutions were duly adopted by the Board of Directors of Miley-Keck Oil Company at a regular meeting of said Board duly convened and held July 8, 1922:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Directors of Miley-Keck Oil Company does hereby, by unanimous vote of all the members of said Board, in regular meeting assembled, order that a special meeting of the holders of the subscribed and issued capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company be called to be held at the principal place of business of the corporation in its building on Block 1800 of Tract No. 12, corner of Springfield Avenue and Lake Street, in the city of Huntington Beach, Orange County, California, at 10 a.m. of the 21st day of September, A. D. 1922, said Union Oil Building being the building where the Board of Directors usually meet; and that the following resolutions, numbered respectively, I, II, and III, be submitted to said stockholders at such meeting of said stockholders for adoption or rejection by said stockholders, as shall to them seem fit.

I. RESOLVED, That the capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company be and hereby is increased from the amount of One Million Dollars, divided into one million shares, each share having a par value of one dollar, to the amount of Two Million Dollars, divided into two million shares, each share having a par value of one dollar, and that all said capital stock shall be common capital stock.

II. RESOLVED, That the Sixth Article of the Articles of Incorporation of Miley-Keck Oil Company, dated December 11, 1920, be and hereby is amended so that, as amended, the same shall read as follows:

SIXTH: The amount of the capital stock of said corporation is Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000), and the number of shares into which it is divided is Two Million (2,000,000) shares, each share having a par value of One Dollar ($1.00). All of said capital stock is and shall be classified as common capital stock.

III. RESOLVED, That Article V of the By-laws be amended so that, as amended, the same shall read as follows:

Notices required to be given to stockholders or for other purposes, by publication, shall be published in Santa Ana Daily Evening Register, a newspaper published in Orange County, California.

RESOLVED, That notice of said meetings called to be held as above be given by the Secretary to holders of authorized, subscribed and issued capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company, by publication, mailing and / or otherwise, as required by law.

You are hereby notified, pursuant of the foregoing resolutions of the Board of Directors of Miley-Keck Oil Company that a meeting of the holders of the authorized, subscribed and issued capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company will be held at the principal place of business of the corporation, in its building on Block 1800 of Tract No. 12, corner of Springfield Avenue and Lake Street, in the city of Huntington Beach, Orange County, California, at 10 a.m. of the 21st day of September, A. D. 1922, said Union Oil Building being the building where the Board of Directors usually meet; and that the resolutions numbered, respectively, I, II, and III, above set forth, will then and there be submitted to the stockholders at such meeting of said stockholders for adoption or rejection by said stockholders, as shall to them seem fit.

Dated July 8, 1922.

ANTIPROHIBITIONISTS FORM CENTRAL BODY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—All anti-prohibition organizations in the United States were merged today when it was reported that executive officers of the various organizations working for the modification or repeal of the Volstead law and supporting State statutes had effected a central organization. The new central body is named the Committee of Allied Organization for the Restoration of Constitutional Government.

Headquarters of the new central body are at 25 Church street. The advisory board is composed of Hudson Maxim, Dr. A. A. Brill, George F. Parker, Dr. J. J. MacPhee, Appleton Morgan and Benjamin Decasseres. The merger includes the American Liberties League, Society of 1776, Self-Determination League of Liberty National Order Sphinx, Antiprohibition Society of America League of Liberty of New Jersey and the Temperance League of America. Other organizations are invited to affiliate.

The new organization issued a lengthy statement in which it insists that the prohibitionists have usurped the constitutional rights of doctors, courts, chemists and others, including common citizens, and have overburdened the taxpayers and overridden State's rights.

NEW CHILD LABOR LAW HELD VOID.

Federal Judge Calls It Attempt to Avoid Finding on Earlier Act.

GREENSBORO (N. C.) Aug. 22.—Judge James E. Boyd, in Federal court, today held the new Federal child-labor law unconstitutional. The Owen-Keating child-labor law also was held unconstitutional by Judge Boyd two years ago and that ruling was upheld by the Supreme Court the United States.

The opinion today was rendered in the case of the Vivian Spinning Mills of Cherrydale, N. C., who asked an order restraining J. W. Bailey, collector of internal revenue, from enforcing the act. The law imposed a Federal tax of 10 per cent on the profits derived from products on which child labor was employed.

Regulation of labor, Judge Boyd held in his decision today, is one of the powers retained by the States and not delegated to the Federal government.

The attempt of the Federal government to regulate labor within the States is a usurpation of authority and a violation of the sovereign rights of the State, concludes the ruling.

The decision recalled the case of Hammer versus Dagenhart in which the Supreme Court held the Owen-Keating child-labor law unconstitutional and says the "present Child-Labor Act is an effort on the part of the Congress to standardize labor in the State which right is reserved by the States."

Judge Boyd's ruling declared that following the decision against the Owen-Keating Act, Congress "in order to avoid the effect of the court's decision re-enacted the Owen-Keating law incorporating in it an internal revenue bill providing a tax on the products of a corporation using child labor."

The order further declared that if the regulation of labor is a State function guaranteed by the Constitution then the United States cannot invade the power either directly or indirectly.

MANY ROADS IN NEW FREIGHT RATE CUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Railroads operating east of the Mississippi River and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, in what is known as southeastern territory, are to participate in reduced through rates from Pacific Coast territory, according to a notice filed today with the Chamber of Commerce by Charles A. Forrest, Pacific Coast general agent of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway Company.

Dried fruits, canned goods, beans and rice will be particularly affected by the new rates which, it is said, will approximate those recently announced for territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

Four solid trainloads of raisins, a total of 152 cars, had left the Fresno district for eastern markets over the Southern Pacific lines up to 10 o'clock tonight, under the reduced transportation rates which became effective today, railway officials said here tonight.

STREET-CAR TANGLE WORRIES DES MOINES.

DES MOINES, Aug. 22—Resumption of street car service here under a service-at-cost plan, contemplating an initial eight-cent fare and designed to produce a return of approximately 5¼ per cent on a $7,000,000 valuation, was proposed today to a merchants' committee by Receiver F. C. Chambers, speaking for the property owners.

Service would not be resumed, however, until the new franchise had been approved by the people. Hence, virtually all hope for street-car service during the State fair, starting Friday, passes.

Several counter-suggestions were made the merchants' committee and Chambers left tonight for Chicago to submit them to A. W. Harris, acting for the bondholders. After further preliminary conferences here, Harris will be asked to meet with the merchants' committee. The merchants want primarily a lower initial fare for trial purposes, but the company maintains eight cents is the minimum possible under present costs of production.

Des Moines now has been without car service since August 4.

LEGION DELEGATE DROWNS IN MERCED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YOSEMITE, Aug. 22.—Dale Talbott of Santa Ana, a delegate to the American Legion convention from Santa Ana Post No. 131, was drowned today in the Merced River at Steamboat Bay, near Arch Rock, while bathing with four other persons, none of whom could swim.

Talbott fell and his head struck a rock. Two women members of the party looked on helpless and watched him drown while the others were running to summon aid.

WOULD ADD TO POWER OF VICE-PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Vice-President would take over all duties of the President when the latter is away from Washington for more than forty-eight hours, under a bill introduced today by Representative Kissel, Republican, New York. In event both the President and Vice-President were out of town the Speaker of the House would assume powers of the President.

The bill would make it unlawful for the President at any time to absent himself from the territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

THREE HURT IN WRECK.

HUGO (Okla.) Aug. 22.—A St. Louis and San Francisco passenger train, going from Hugo to Hope (Ark.) late today, collided with a westbound freight train at Sawyer, Okla. Three persons were seriously injured and thirty-six others cut and bruised.

Labor of Years to Get New Leg Gone for Naught.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—For ten years Thomas Sgnaw, an Indian from Grand Canyon, Ariz., guided tourists to get enough money to buy a wooden leg to replace one lost in a tribal battle.

He arrived here Sunday with $400 and asked a stranger where to buy a leg. The man, he said, took him to a saloon. He woke up hours later with all his money gone.

Arraigned in court today on a charge of disorderly conduct, he was released on his promise to return to Grand Canyon as soon as possible.

CHIROPRACTORS OPEN NATIONAL CONVENTION

DAVENPORT (Iowa) Aug. 22.—More than 7000 chiropractors from all parts of the country attending the sixteenth annual convention here today, were present at the unveiling of the D. D. Palmer memorial bust. The statue was erected by the chiropractors of the world as a tribute to the discoverer of this new science.

SCALP TROUBLES ARE MANY

Specialist Says Different Hair and Scalp Ailments Require Different Treatment.

Prof. John H. Austin of Chicago, who now has offices at Hamburger's

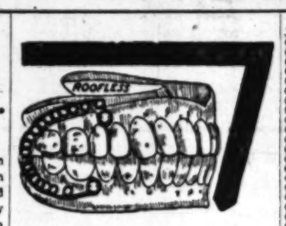
has devoted over forty years to the study of hair and scalp troubles. He has found that only with the aid of a most powerful microscope is it possible to determine the exact trouble with which the hair or scalp is afflicted.

People who really value their hair have come to consider a hair specialist of as much importance as a doctor or dentist, for how can anyone without the knowledge of experience distinguish between such scalp disorders as seborrhea oleosa, seborrhea sicca, alopecia pityrodes, etc.

Prof. Austin says that the use of mange cures, dandruff cures, hair tonics and vaseline without proper advice is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

Men and women troubled with scalp ailments should see Prof. Austin, and be convinced that the particular trouble must be known before each case can be intelligently treated.

FREE, MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION of the hair and scalp—both men and women invited. Private Office, Second Floor, Hamburger's. Hours, 10 to 12 and 2 to 4.—[Advertisement.



I have the most modern and scientific equipment and the exclusive rights to the Donnellon device for securing artificial teeth.

Our method of replacing missing teeth is so exact and of such a scientific nature that you will find it difficult to distinguish between your natural teeth and those we bridge in for you. Years of expert study guarantees this to you when you come to these offices for your dental work.

ANTIPROHIBITIONISTS FORM CENTRAL BODY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—All antiprohibition organizations in the United States were merged today when it was reported that executive officers of the various organizations working for the modification or repeal of the Volstead law and supporting State statutes had effected a central organization. The new central body is named the Committee of Allied Organization for the Restoration of Constitutional Government.

Headquarters of the new central body are at 25 Church street. The advisory board is composed of Hudson Maxim, Dr. A. A. Brill, George F. Parker, Dr. J. J. MacPhee, Appleton Morgan and Benjamin Decasseres. The merger includes the American Liberties League, Society of 1776, Self-Determination League of Liberty National Order Sphinx, Antiprohibition Society of America League of Liberty of New Jersey and the Temperance League of America. Other organizations are invited to affiliate.

The new organization issued a lengthy statement in which it insists that the prohibitionists have usurped the constitutional rights of doctors, courts, chemists and others, including common citizens, and have overburdened the taxpayers and overridden State's rights.

NEW CHILD LABOR LAW HELD VOID.

GREENSBORO (N. C.) Aug. 22.—Judge James E. Boyd, in Federal court, today held the new Federal child-labor law unconstitutional. The Owen-Keating child-labor law also was held unconstitutional by Judge Boyd two years ago and that ruling was upheld by the Supreme Court the United States.

The opinion today was rendered in the case of the Vivian Spinning Mills of Cherrydale, N. C., who asked an order restraining J. W. Bailey, collector of internal revenue, from enforcing the act. The law imposed a Federal tax of 10 per cent on the profits derived from products on which child labor was employed.

Regulation of labor, Judge Boyd held in his decision today, is one of the powers retained by the States and not delegated to the Federal government.

The attempt of the Federal government to regulate labor within the States is a usurpation of authority and a violation of the sovereign rights of the State, concludes the ruling.

The decision recalled the case of Hamner versus Dagenhart in which the Supreme Court held the Owen-Keating child-labor law unconstitutional and says the "present Child-Labor Act is an effort on the part of the Congress to standardize labor in the State which right is reserved by the States."

Judge Boyd's ruling declared that following the decision against the Owen-Keating Act, Congress "in order to avoid the effect of the court's decision re-enacted the Owen-Keating law incorporating in it an internal revenue bill providing a tax on the products of a corporation using child labor."

The order further declared that if the regulation of labor is a State function guaranteed by the Constitution then the United States cannot invade the power either directly or indirectly.

MANY ROADS IN NEW FREIGHT RATE CUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—Railroads operating east of the Mississippi River and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, in what is known as southeastern territory, are to participate in reduced through rates from Pacific Coast territory, according to a notice filed today with the Chamber of Commerce by Charles A. Forrest, Pacific Coast general agent of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway Company.

Dried fruits, canned goods, beans and rice will be particularly affected by the new rates which, it is said, will approximate those recently announced for territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

STREET-CAR TANGLE WORRIES DES MOINES.

DES MOINES, Aug. 22—Resumption of street car service here under a service-at-cost plan, contemplating an initial eight-cent fare and designed to produce a return of approximately 5½ per cent on a $7,000,000 valuation, was proposed today to a merchants' committee by Receiver F. C. Chambers, speaking for the property owners.

Service would not be resumed, however, until the new franchise had been approved by the people. Hence, virtually all hope for street-car service during the State fair, starting Friday, passes.

Several counter-suggestions were made the merchants' committee and Chambers left tonight for Chicago to submit them to A. W. Harris, acting for the bondholders. After further preliminary conferences here, Harris will be asked to meet with the merchants' committee. The merchants want primarily a lower initial fare for trial purposes, but the company maintains eight cents is the minimum possible under present costs of production.

Des Moines now has been without car service since August 4.

LEGION DELEGATE DROWNS IN MERCED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

YOSEMITE, Aug. 22.—Dale Talbott of Santa Ana, a delegate to the American Legion convention from Santa Ana Post No. 131, was drowned today in the Merced River at Steamboat Bay, near Arch Rock, while bathing with four other persons, none of whom could swim.

Talbott fell and his head struck a rock. Two women members of the party looked on helpless and watched him drown while the others were running to summon aid.

WOULD ADD TO POWER OF VICE-PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Vice-President would take over all duties of the President when the latter is away from Washington for more than forty-eight hours, under a bill introduced today by Representative Kissel, Republican, New York. In event both the President and Vice-President were out of town the Speaker of the House would assume powers of the President.

The bill would make it unlawful for the President at any time to absent himself from the territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

THREE HURT IN WRECK.

HUGO (Okla.) Aug. 22.—A St. Louis and San Francisco passenger train, going from Hugo to Hope (Ark.) late today, collided with a westbound freight train at Sawyer, Okla. Three persons were seriously injured and thirty-six others cut and bruised.

Labor of Years to Get New Leg Gone for Naught.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—For ten years Thomas Sgnaw, an Indian from Grand Canyon, Ariz., guided tourists to get enough money to buy a wooden leg to replace one lost in a tribal battle.

He arrived here Sunday with $400 and asked a stranger where to buy a leg. The man, he said, took him to a saloon. He woke up hours later with all his money gone.

Arraigned in court today on a charge of disorderly conduct, he was released on his promise to return to Grand Canyon as soon as possible.

CHIROPRACTORS OPEN NATIONAL CONVENTION

DAVENPORT (Iowa) Aug. 22.—More than 7000 chiropractors from all parts of the country attending the sixteenth annual convention here today, were present at the unveiling of the D. D. Palmer memorial bust. The statue was erected by the chiropractors of the world as a tribute to the discoverer of this new science.

SCALP TROUBLES ARE MANY

Specialist Says Different Hair and Scalp Ailments Require Different Treatment.

has devoted over forty years to the study of hair and scalp troubles. He has found that only with the aid of a most powerful microscope is it possible to determine the exact trouble with which the hair or scalp is afflicted.

People who really value their hair have come to consider a hair specialist of as much importance as a doctor or dentist, for how can anyone without the knowledge of experience distinguish between such scalp disorders as seborrhea oleosa, seborrhea sicca, alopecia pityrodes, etc.

Prof. Austin says that the use of mange cures, dandruff cures, hair tonics and vaseline without proper advice is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

Men and women troubled with scalp ailments should see Prof. Austin, and be convinced that the particular trouble must be known before each case can be intelligently treated.

FREE—MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION of the hair and scalp—both men and women invited. Private Office, Second Floor, Hamburger's. Hours, 10 to 12 and 2 to 4.—[Advertisement.

Restores Original Color to Gray Hair

Co-Lo restores the natural color, life and luster to gray and faded hair in a manner nature approves—a scientific process perfected by Prof. John H. Austin of Chicago, over 40 years a hair and scalp specialist.

Secrets of Co-Lo Success

Co-Lo is a wonderful liquid. Clear, odorless, greaseless. Without lead or sulphur. Without sediment. Will not wash or rub off. Will not injure hair or scalp. Pleasing and simple to apply. Cannot be detected like ordinary hair tints and dyes. Will not cause the hair to split or break off.

Co-Lo Hair Restorer for every natural shade of hair—A6, for black and dark shades of brown; A7, for jet black hair, A5, for medium brown shades; A3, for light brown drab and auburn shades.

Sold by Hamburger's, Main and Second Floors; Owl Drug Stores, and all druggists.

REPORT ON BOND SALE IS ADOPTED.

Mushet Only Councilman to Vote "No" on Committee "Whitewash" Figures.

Councilman Mushet alone voted "No" at yesterday's session of the City Council on the adoption of a report from the public service committee of that body, which presented a set of figures designed to "whitewash" and justify the recent sale at a discount of $13,500,000 of city bonds, issued for the purchase of the distributing lines in Los Angeles of the Southern California Edison Company.

"I challenge these figures," said Councilman Mushet, "and I oppose this body's giving its hasty approval to them. The report says that the bonds were sold after 'long and serious consideration,' and such was not the fact."

The committee report was signed by President Criswell and Councilmen Sparks and Wheeler, and Councilman Sparks stated to the Council his approval of all of the report except the statement that the bonds had been sold after the matter had been given serious consideration.

Those voting for the approval of the report were President Criswell and Councilmen Allan, Langdon, Mallard, Sanborn and Sparks. Councilman Conaway was absent on vacation, and Councilman Wheeler was in Fresno.

The committee report adopted yesterday says that the loss to the city of $1,535,000 due to the sale of the bonds at a discount will be wiped out and a final profit of $1,925,000 a year made, as the result of the city's operation of the Edison system.

Former Bank Employee Admits That He is Defaulter.

Sydney Stott, formerly an employee of the Commercial National Bank, yesterday in Justice Hinshaw's court confessed to having diverted bank funds. He was held to answer on two charges of embezzlement.

He is accused of defrauding the bank of $1000 out of $5000 sent by the institution to a Compton bank, and of $435 on last June 25, from two dormant accounts at the bank. It is charged by the prosecution, represented by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello, that the defendant diverted various sums from the dormant accounts to an asserted fictitious account, from which he drew.

Bail was fixed at $2000 and the defendant was lodged in the County Jail in default of that sum.

"MYSTIC LOVE" DEATH MOTIVE?

Occult Influence Figures in Kennedy Case.

May Prove Burch Visited by Mrs. Obenchain.

Prisoners in Court; Pleas Delayed One Week.

Strong, weird emotions, characterized as "hard to put into words," will be pictured by the State as the motive in the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, it was learned at the District Attorney's office yesterday. This asserted occult influence, termed by some investigators in charge of the case as "a mystic love of great power," will be one of the principal links with which the prosecution will seek to connect Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch with the murder of the young broker last August 6.

This announcement, coupled with the additional information that the State now has what it considers to be sufficient proof of this motive, marked a new stage in the Kennedy murder investigation, and for the first time since the arrest of Mrs. Obenchain and Burch seemed to supply the most important part of the State's case against them.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Obenchain and Burch were brought before Judge Reeve for arraignment, but did not enter any pleas, because Paul W. Schenck, chief counsel for the defense, was unable to leave Flagstaff, Ariz., where he is attending a murder trial, in time to be present. By stipulation the case was continued one week, Mrs. Obenchain and Burch will again come up before Judge Reeve on Monday, the 29th inst., at 9:30 a.m., and at that time are expected to enter pleas of not guilty.

STRONG EVIDENCE?

Although neither Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes nor Malcolm McLaren, who are handling the investigation, was willing to go into details on the subject of motive, neither denied that they have evidence with which they believe they will be able to establish the motive to the satisfaction of the jury.

"We cannot state at this time what our evidence is on this point, but it is true that the State has a complete motive in this case," Mr. McLaren said just before leaving the office for the day. He added that the motive may be "hard to put into words," but that it will be presented to the jury in proper form at the proper time.

Mr. Keyes confirmed, in part, the statements of Mr. McLaren.

"Burch denied that he was interested in the occult or was ever interested in 'mystic love,'" Mr. Keyes was told.

"But Mrs. Obenchain did not deny that she was, did she?" was Mr. Keyes only reply to this.

MAY PROVE VISITS.

"We know enough of Mrs. Obenchain's relations with Burch to prove a strong binding motive in this murder," was Mr. McLaren's other statement in this connection. From other sources it was learned that the State anticipates no trouble in proving that Mrs. Obenchain visited the room occupied by Burch at the Russell Hotel, opposite the office of Mr. Kennedy, and that it expects to prove this fact by "several witnesses" and "fix several different visits."

This new attack upon Mrs. Obenchain, made shortly after she and Burch were arraigned in Judge Reeve's court, brought a sharp response from the attorneys for the defense and resulted in the accusation that the District Attorney's office is using unfair tactics.

"I had hoped that it would not become necessary for the defense to make any statements and that we would fight this case in the courts," said Richard Kittrelle, law partner of Counsel Schenck. "But the statement published in the afternoon papers cannot be passed unnoticed. We do not think it fair to the defendants to insinuate that the relations between Mrs. Obenchain and Mr. Burch were not of the most proper kind.

CHARGES UNFAIRNESS.

"It is not the duty or the province of the District Attorney's office to persecute as well as prosecute. The Supreme Court has held time and again that the District Attorney's duty is to present all the evidence in an impartial manner and leave the task of convicting the defendants to the court and jury."

Burch, following his arrest at Las Vegas, Nev., was reported as having told Deputy Sheriff Nolan that the mysterious "cousin" who visited his room at the Russell Hotel was Mrs. Obenchain, Mrs. Obenchain's answer to that was that she did not believe Burch ever said that.

Thomas M. Haley, the proprietor, and Blanche Rogers, maid at the Russell Hotel, told the investigators that the mysterious "cousin" visited Burch several times, and that during each visit the door of Burch's room was left open, as a result of an agreement made with Burch at the time he rented the room.

SUSPECTS IN COURT.

Long before the time set for arraignment of the two suspects the crowd began to gather in front of the County Jail and along the east sidewalk of Buena Vista street, between the jail and the Hall of Justice. Six deputy sheriffs were pressed into service to keep the sidewalk clear for Mrs. Obenchain when she walked to court. A motion-picture camera was placed in position by an enterprising "news

CLARA S. HAMON WEDS DIRECTOR.

Woman in Oklahoma Slaying Case Marries Here.

Work on Film Leads to Altar With J. W. Gorman.

Couple to Take Short Trip as Honeymoon.

Mrs. Clara Smith Hamon, who was the principal figure in the Jake L. Hamon murder trial, was married here yesterday to John W. Gorman, director and producer of the motion picture in which she has portrayed her life, not excluding her trial at Ardmore, Okla., for the murder of the oil operator and one-time Republican national committeeman. Rev. M. Howard Fagan, pastor of the Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church, married them at his residence, First and Serrano streets.

Acting for the picture has been completed at Hollywood studios, and after a trip of a day or two Mr. and Mrs. Gorman will return to complete the business in connection with the release.

Mr. Gorman met Mrs. Hamon soon after she arrived here in April and he has been her associate ever since, directing the picture, which was produced by the John Gorman Film Company.

"WONDERFUL WOMAN."

"She is a wonderful woman—a wonderful 'woman,'" Mr. Gorman said last evening at the Hollywood Hotel, where he lives.

"Of course, we saw one another every day while filming the picture, and, well, that was the way it started. When I saw her portrayal of the murder trial—it was wonderful! She is a wonderful woman."

Mr. and Mrs. Gorman in their motion-picture venture have weathered protests from the Hamon family, clergymen of many cities and finally the motion-picture producers. Amid this Mrs. Hamon insisted she had a sincere desire to give a warning to all women against the pitfalls she had encountered; that motive, she said, came before any money she might make out of the venture. But many motion-picture concerns declared their refusal to make or show the picture.

MEMBER OF CHURCH.

Mrs. Hamon before she came here joined a church of the Christian denomination and latterly she has been attending Mr. Fagan's church here.

James Barton Smith, Mrs. Hamon's brother, was best man, and Mrs. Van James, her sister, matron of honor.

Mrs. Hamon and Mr. Gorman obtained the marriage license yesterday morning and were married at 2:30 p.m. She gave her age as 28 and he his as 39.

Seeks Son, Lost, Found, Only to be Lost Again.

Where is Delavan Wallsburth?

Forty-eight years ago his mother, Mrs. B. E. Lane, 400 Sierra street, kissed him good-by as he set out to carve his way to fame and fortune. Years passed and the letters grew fewer and fewer. Then they ceased altogether. Time dims many things, but not a mother's memory of her child.

Always, through marching years of vicissitudes that brought her increasing sorrows and cares and that made her at 75 years of age a seller of newspapers at Eighth and Main streets, Mrs. Lane hoped that the youth that was would come back.

Then one day some weeks ago, a familiar something in the tilt of the hat of a hurrying man brought to her recollections. A tap on the shoulder and her son faced her.

There were a few glad moments of greeting, then the son had to hurry away to keep an appointment, but not before promising her that he would come back to make a home for the mother.

Now, through illness incident to old age, the mother needs that home. She wants Delavan Wallsburth to come back. She is waiting and longing for him at 400 Sierra street, where she is making her temporary abode.

Captain from Bagdad Marries Hollywood Girl.

A charming romance culminated at St. Mary's Church of the Angels in Hollywood last Tuesday when Capt. Philip John Reynell Wigley, M.C., arrived from Bagdad and claimed for his bride Miss Isabella Flora Margaret Braidwood, daughter of the late David Gair Braidwood, M.B.C.M.

Capt. Wigley, whose headquarters are at Bagdad, Mesopotamia, is the second and eldest surviving son of the late Frederick George Wigley, C.I.E., Bar-at-Law, formerly legislative secretary to the government of Bengal, India, and of Mrs. Wigley of 64 Rodney Court, London, W.

Miss Braidwood is the only daughter of Mrs. David Gair Braidwood, 1450 Seward street, Hollywood. Miss Braidwood has been a frequent contributor of verse and short articles to The Times Illustrated Magazine. Capt. and Mrs. Wigley left immediately for Mesopotamia, where they will make their permanent home.

CHECKER TOURNEY TONIGHT.

Another checker tournament will be played tonight at 8 o'clock, at the Los Angeles Men's Club. A few days ago the "old-timers" of the club beat the San Diego checker champion, and tonight nine of them will try their hands at the same time against W. L. Davis, 1920 champion of Los Angeles.

CHOICE OF PARENTS IS HARD TEST.

Children Finally Decide to Stay With Mother in Alimony Proceedings.

Ethel and Emily Furnival, 14 and 15 years of age, respectively, had a tremendous problem put up to them yesterday. It was the time-worn question arising out of domestic troubles of preferring one parent or the other. The parents of the children, Joseph W. Furnival, a trustee of the Saugus School Board, and Emily Furnival were in court in alimony proceedings. Mrs. Furnival brought the suit, charging her husband with cruelty. She asked for support pending the trial of the case. The court fixed alimony at $15 a week.

Mrs. Furnival wanted the children with her. She is living at the Bible Institute. Mr. Furnival has had the children at his home during the separation, and wanted them to stay with him.

The question was left up to the children by Judge Conkling, and all afternoon they pondered over it, finally deciding to stay with their mother.

Seeks to Have Navy Take Sub Base Site Here.

In an effort to keep the question of a naval submarine base at Los Angeles before Congress, Congressman Osborne today introduced a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to accept from the city of Los Angeles a certain tract of land for use as a site, according to advices from Washington.

It will be remembered that he has fought consistently for this proposition and it was stricken out of the last naval appropriation bill on the plea of economy. As a separate measure, it will be referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs of the House for consideration. It is doubtful whether hearings will be had on it at the special session, because the program of the majority leaders calls for postponement of such legislation until the regular session, beginning in December.

The Osborne bill would authorize the government to accept free from incumbrances and without cost in excess of $1, the tract of land at the harbor of Los Angeles, containing 265 acres. It would also authorize the expenditure of $1,000,000 for the development of this site for a submarine base to be known as San Pedro Base.

Bids for New Schools to be Readvertised.

Anticipating the imposition of a special 15-cent elementary school building tax in the Los Angeles city school district, which is expected to raise approximately $1,000,000, the Board of Education last night voted to readvertise for bids on six new schools.

The schools for which bids were asked follow:

Addition to Harbor City school; Buchanan-street school, Wilton Place school, Utah-street school, Budlong-avenue grade school addition, and West Vernon-avenue grammar school.

SAVING AT HARBOR IS ANNOUNCED.

Steamship Companies Cut Out Charges for Handling Freight at Docks.

Elimination of handling charges on the docks at Los Angeles Harbor, which, it is declared, will mean a saving of several hundred thousand dollars annually to local shippers, was announced yesterday in a telegram received by S. L. Kreider, managing agent of the Williams Steamship Company, from the conference of the North Atlantic westbound intercoastal steamship companies.

Mr. Kreider says this new condition, which becomes effective immediately, will place Los Angeles Harbor on an equality with all other American ports. The charge for the handling of freight has been in effect here for twenty years though other seaports eliminated it some time ago.

If other steamship companies acknowledge the ruling of the conference, Mr. Kreider said, the action will probably lead to a reduction of railroad freight rates on shipments to and from the docks.

Three Are Held as Violators of Liquor Law.

Two petty officers of the United States Navy, a prominent contractor, and two automobiles, are held by officers at Los Angeles Harbor to await the action of Federal authorities, because of an asserted violation of the prohibition law.

Chief Boatswain P. J. Gorman is charged with having transported a case of whisky, a case of gin and a consignment of Mexican beer from Balboa, Panama, on the naval tug Pinola, which arrived from the Canal Zone yesterday. It is said that Gorman sent the liquor to the McCormick dock in the Outer Harbor and that it was taken in charge by Warrant Officer Guy H. Griffith and M. A. White, a contractor.

City Patrolman Pelletier, assisted by other officers, made the arrest after having had the trio under observation during the evening. The two automobiles, said to have been used in bringing the contraband from the docks, which were taken under the Federal Prohibition Act, are the property of White and a Los Angeles Harbor garage.

DEATH DUE TO BOOZE.

Acute Alcoholism Killed Man at Venice, Doctors Declare.

"Death due to acute alcoholism," is the verdict of a group of physicians who held an autopsy at Venice last night to determine the cause of death of Thomas M. Collins, Los Angeles man found dead in a cell of the Venice City Jail Sunday morning.

The post-mortem was in charge of Autopsy Surgeon Wagner, assisted by Deputy Coroner McDonald and Drs. I. L. Mages, C. W. Craik and F. L. Morgan. Cause of death was so apparent that no chemical analysis of the stomach is necessary and no inquest will be held.

The physicians stated that death was undoubtedly caused from drinking home-made liquor containing a too high percentage of fusel oil, and that it is probable that wood alcohol was present in the beverage.

Mr. Collins died after having been found in a supposedly intoxicated condition late Saturday night, and taken into custody by the police for safe-keeping. When a companion was released Sunday morning he made a request to have Mr. Collins set at liberty. Then it was found he had died during the night.

MAYOR FACING HARBOR FIGHT.

Council Likely to Balk at Board Selections.

Secret Meeting Held After Receipt of Names.

Final Action Scheduled for Next Monday.

Mayor Cryer faces the first serious battle since he took office as the result of his sending to the City Council for confirmation yesterday the names of Edwin M. Daugherty, William R. Dickinson and W. P. Jeffries as members of the Board of Harbor Commissioners. A majority of the Councilmen yesterday expressed the belief that one or more of the appointments will be rejected.

Mr. Daugherty, who was in charge of publicity for Mayor Cryer's campaign, was named for president of the board, a position which, under the ordinance recently passed by the City Council, carries a salary of $4000 a year. Mr. Dickinson is president of the Dickinson Drug Company, and Mr. Jeffries is president of the W. P. Jeffries Company, engravers and bookbinders. The commissionerships to which Mr. Dickinson and Mr. Jeffries were named carry compensation of $10 for each session of the board the two members attend.

Following the receipt of the Mayor's appointments, the Councilmen held a secret session behind locked doors to discuss the appointments, there being present Councilmen Allan, Mushet, Mallard, Sparks, Sanborn and Langdon.

GO TO COMMITTEE.

After the conference, it was announced in the Council chamber that the appointments will be referred to the Harbor Committee, of which Councilman Langdon is chairman and Councilmen Allan and President Criswell are members. The appointments should come before the Council again next Monday with a report and recommendation from the Harbor Committee.

The discussion at the secret conference showed that at least four of the Councilmen—Messrs. Mushet, Sparks, Langdon and Sanborn—believe that William M. Humphreys, former member of the Board of Public Works, should have been named by the Mayor for one of the harbor board places.

The Councilmen also stated after the session that doubt had been expressed as to the special fitness of the men named for membership on a board which will direct during the next two years development work at the harbor, one suggestion being that at least one of the members of the present board, preferably President C. M. Gordon, should be continued there because of his familiarity with harbor development.

TIME TO CONFER.

The week's delay caused by the reference of the appointments to the Harbor Committee will give the Councilmen time to confer further

WIFE HERE TO AID ILL WAR HERO.

Speeds Across Ocean to be With Oldest French Soldier in World Conflict.

Leaving her daughter Yvonne ill at the home of a niece in Paris, Mrs. George Le Mesnager, wife of the oldest French soldier in the World War, yesterday reached the end of a hasty trip back to this city to nurse her aged husband, who recently suffered a stroke of apoplexy.

Several months ago Mrs. Le Mesnager accompanied her daughter abroad to complete her education. The daughter was taken sick a few weeks ago and Mrs. Le Mesnager was nursing her back to health when word of the veteran warrior's serious illness reached her. She returned to this city at once.

George Le Mesnager is past 73 years of age, and is a veteran of the Franco-Prussian and the World wars. His military record is believed to stand without a parallel in recent history. Although born in France, Mr. Le Mesnager is a California pioneer, as he came here in 1866.

At the outbreak of the World War he hastened to France and joined the One Hundred and Sixth Regiment, which Gen. Petain later said was the bravest in the French army. He fought at Verdun, Calonne, St. Hilaire, Somme, St. Quentin, Chemin des Dames and on other famous battlefields.

Finally he was assigned to the instruction of new troops in the American Army, where he rendered remarkable service to Gen. Pershing, because of his unusual ability as a linguist. After four and one-half years in the war zone, he returned to this city apparently but little worse for the hardships which he had endured, and covered with decorations from several governments.

HIBERNIAN DELEGATES BUSY AT CONVENTION.

VISITORS FROM MANY CITIES IN STATE ARE HERE FOR SESSIONS.

The State convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians ran the gamut yesterday from business reports and sightseeing trips to a grand ball last night in the Knights of Columbus auditorium. Visitors from many cities in the State are attending the sessions with headquarters in the Hayward.

Business meetings also will be held today and tomorrow, according to the program. An open meeting will be held tonight in the Knights of Columbus council chamber and tomorrow the convention will be brought to a close with a banquet at the Alexandria at which Bishop Cantwell will be the principal speaker.

Many of the visiting delegates of the A.O.H. are accompanied by their wives, who are members of the ladies' auxiliary, which is holding a convention in connection with the other sessions.

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

How to Win a Mother-in-Law.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

A young woman asks for a recipe for winning the heart of a mother-in-law.

"My own mother died when I was a babe," she says, "and I have always hoped and prayed that I would find a second mother in my mother-in-law, but, alas, the mother of the man I am about to marry is one of those monopolistic women who want to keep their sons for themselves and who begin hating their daughters-in-law when their boys are still in the cradle. How can I make this kind of a mother-in-law love me?".

It is a hard task because there is no other jealousy in the world so fierce and bitter as mother jealousy. When a woman permits her affection for her children to become morbid she sees their relationship to everyone else through jaundiced eyes, and it takes the wisdom of the serpent, the gentleness of the dove and the patience of Job to deal with her.

To such a woman it is the agony of death to know that she is no longer the dominant figure in her son's life, that he has set another woman above her, that he turns to another woman for the little things she had done for him, for the tenderness and companionship that she cannot give him. Therefore, she is bound to look upon his wife as her hated rival who has snatched from her the one thing she valued most in life.

It is useless to tell such a woman that the love that a man feels for his wife and for his mother do not conflict, that they are entirely two different passions. It is a waste of breath to remind her that some other woman gave her son to her. It is futile to point out to her that her selfishness would doom her son to a lonely and loveless life. All she can realize is her bereavement. Her boy has left her and gone to another woman.

Perhaps, to a degree, all mothers feel this when their sons marry. Certainly all mothers have a sense of losing their sons when they marry that they do not have of losing their daughters when they marry. At every wedding it is the bridegroom's mother who is in tears, while the bride's mother is wreathed in smiles, and this is not always accounted for by the sordid consideration that in getting a girl off of its hands a family shunts a heavy liability onto another's shoulders. It is because every woman knows that, while no husband can wean a daughter away from her mother, any wife can separate a man from his mother if she is mean enough to do it.

The first thing, then, for a girl who wants to win her mother-in-law's heart, is to make her understand from the very beginning that she does not mean to take her son from her, and that she recognizes the prior claim of this older love upon him. If she lives near her mother-in-law, she could go often to see her with her husband, but she should also see to it that mother and son have frequent opportunities of being alone together. These heart-to-heart talks have been the sweetest thing on earth to the mother, and she will be filled with a passionate gratitude toward the daughter-in-law who does not try to put an end to them, but actively encourages them.

A daughter-in-law being younger, and, after all, the victor, can well afford to be generous and to make the advances to her mother-in-law. She should not let her pride keep her from openly seeking her mother-in-law's favor. She should woo the older woman, and use every art and wile she is mistress of to gain her affections. To love and be loved is the great longing of every heart, and none of us, not even mothers-in law, are proof against those who show they like us and want us to like them. Fire melts ice every time.

The daughter-in-law should show some gratitude toward her mother-in-law for the gift she has made her. It takes the palms of Hell, and another woman for the little things she had done for him, for the tenderness and companionship that she cannot give him. Therefore, she is bound to look upon his wife as her hated rival who has snatched from her the one thing she valued most in life.

Making More Money

Young Girl Originates Co-operative Apartment House Idea and Makes Fortune.

ONE of the best ways to secure success, according to a number of authorities on the subject, is to look at the world around you, see what the troubles are that confront the majority of people and discover some remedy for at least one of them. This method has the virtue of a ready-made market, for, instead of having to convince people that they need such and such a thing, they already realize it and are, therefore, much more apt to invest than if they had to be subjected to argument on the subject.

Any time that you're in doubt as to the efficacy of this plan, it might be well to recall the case of Miss Elise Moran, who had prepared herself for a commercial career in one of the New York business schools. But, when she finished her training and commenced active work, Miss Moran found that taking dictation and handling the details of correspondence wasn't the most exciting pastime in the world, and moreover, it didn't appear to lead to any bright financial future—though she had herd of a number of stenographers who made "big money" after a few years with the notebook and pencil.

So she kept her eyes and ears open and it wasn't long before she noted that people everywhere were talking of the appalling shortage of houses. As her father happened to be in the real estate business, it was only natural that Miss Moran went to him with a plan she finally evolved—that of a number of people clubbing together and buying an apartment house, instead of merely leasing the apartments. This was the first time that the "co-operative ownership of apartment houses" had been considered, but Miss Moran managed to put it over and now, while still in her early twenties, she has a five-figured income that will almost certainly continue to grow as the years pass by.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Remembering Lot's Wife.

PASADENA, Aug. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Wow! I don't know whether to sue him for damages or dam him for sewages. But I think I shall. You see, he says in cold type, that I am "silly, self-righteous, at once cringing and arrogant and ignorant of the Bible and the Constitution." I mean Governeur Morris. He's a big fancy writer guy with a grouch and a morbid desire to be reel naughty and portray Lot's nasty daughters on the silver screen. But the unkind censor said, "Tut, tut! Mr. Morris," and that settled it. So he's sore at censors and restrictions and restraints, and everything like that and don't care a hang who knows it; so there! Let didn't like them much, either. Neither did Mrs. Lot, and see what happened to her.

Now I'll put Mr. Morris wise: Look through the Bible, pick out its many fine, beautiful characters and stories, fix 'em up nice for the films and they'll get by and win the patronage of a lot of people who want helpful pictures.

Mr. Morris seems to be passe. He doesn't seem to realize that folks are getting tired of the nastiness that has despraded the screen, and that producers are seeing the handwriting on the wall. He seems to have picked on the Bible account of the worst example of human degradation, for the purpose of discrediting the book which in 1920 was printed in 538 dialects and found 8,665,000 buyers.

Now for the benefit of Mr. Morris and Mr. F. C. Kitchin let's touch a bit more on law observance. It's our job to observe and respect all laws "what is" until we shall repeal them. It's also our business to fight against the adoption of any laws we think unjust, but to yield gracefully if we are defeated. In this connection our personal liberty friends all over the country are parroting the charge that prohibition has made us a nation of criminals. That charge is shallow and false. Criminal laws do not make criminals, but criminals make these laws necessary.

Prohibition didn't make criminals—it only exposed them. Lawlessness is in the heart, not in the statute books. Had there been no crime, justice and mercy would have reigned supreme and criminal codes have been unknown. If booze had been a friend and benefactor of humanity, no laws would have been enacted against it. But it's an old offender against society. It developed criminal instincts in those who would otherwise have been decent citizens. Illicit liquor selling was as prevalent before prohibition as since. The leopard has not changed his spots.

We were a lawless people long before prohibition came. We gloried in perjuring our souls to smuggle foreign goods and escape the import duties. Wealthy trusts continually violate the Sherman antitrust law and the government seems powerless to stop it when we all know they are guilty as hell. Corporations and individuals hire expert crooks to juggle their financial statements to defraud their government. These thieves and perjurors are worse than the average booze law breaker. Hideous crimes against all laws are committed daily. Did prohibition do it? Naw. Furthermore, Mr. Morris refers to freeing the slaves in the 60's. Yes; we adopted the fifteenth Amendment, and to this day in one section of our country that law is a dead letter. The Ku Klux is organized to maintain white supremacy in contempt of that amendment, and to be a law unto themselves. Prohibition made us criminals! Huh! And England, wallowing in beer, is sending out S.O.S. calls because of the great increase of crime in her borders. Today's press dispatches say that France, stewing in her wine, is aghast at her rapid increase in crime. Prohibition, do it? Naw. Lawlessness is in the heart, out of which come all the issues of life. It's aflame, leaping and spreading and threatening to burn down our civilization. We spurn the Golden Rule, and nourish our little passions and lusts. Is it a time to stickle for "personal liberty" and whine about the tyranny of law, or is it a time to stand up like strong men and fight for a better country, where the weak are protected, and made strong, and the laws of God and man are respected?

W. F. THORNE.

The Bond Question.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The trouble over the power bond issue comes from the attempt of the City Council to do something they have no lawful authority to do. The only authority the City Council has to borrow money upon the bonds of the city is given by the two-thirds majority vote of the people. And the State Legislature has no power to change the result of that vote. And when the City Council is by the vote authorized to borrow money upon the bonds of the city at 5 per cent interest, the City Council has no lawful authority to add 1½ per cent to the rate, and cannot conceal the illegality by issuing bonds falsely reciting a 5 per cent rate. By doing this they are providing for an unlawful addition to the taxes which is likely to invalidate the tax sales of real estate. The public records of the city and of the county will show the fly in the ointment; and the attack upon the validity of the sale will be easy.

If the Council can add 1¼ per cent to the voted rate where is the limit to the rate they may fix? Why should the voters vote upon the rate if the Council can fix the rate contrary to the expressed will of the people?

This deal with the Hellman syndicate is much worse for the city than a mere addition of 1¼ per cent to the rate of interest. One million five hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars the city is required to pay as principal with interest thereon was never loaned to the city and the city is denied the power to issue harbor bonds voted by the people. Where is the money coming from to supply the deficiency in the power bond fund; and to make the urgently needed improvements at the harbor? Will the Hellman syndicate graciously waive the clause in the agreement designed to defeat sue of the harbor bonds?

The people never authorized entangling and burdensome tions in this contract with the man syndicate. This con worse for the city than the ordinance or the original Bullock ordinance. The majority of the Council on the reservation like and avoid stampeding the bers.

Sale of Women's Silk Dresses at $45.00

Wash Dresses at $6.95

—If you knew how much their former markings have been — if you knew how much more they are worth than they are marked—you would not stay away.

Dresses of Organdie and Voile

—Well fitted to wear on the street—several good styles and colors—blue, green, orchid and yellow. Some have plain skirts and others have tunics — lace edges on some of them. The sizes range from 16 to 42.

—A special Clearance of them at $6.95—in the Section of Inexpensive Wash Dresses for Women—at Bullock's Third Floor Bridgeway.

will lead the way. Such a sale of Women's Dresses it is, that many women have already filled their early Fall needs. A possibility that has many angles of interest when so many new Fall modes come into a sale.

—The sale commenced yesterday with 100 Women's Dresses of Canton Crepe, Georgette, Crepe de Chine, Satin and Charmeuse specially purchased and specially priced so as to present a unique selling event of Bullock's August Clearance—at $45.00 each.

—There are Afternoon Frocks, Dinner Dresses and Street Dresses, in colors most popular for these particular purposes. Simple creations abound with no other trimming than panels and pleated panels of self material.

—There are, however, others that pin their faith to beads and embroidery, and even stitchery —and they have done so in a most bewitching fashion. Not even the penchant for braiding that is making itself important has been missed by some of these dresses that have presented themselves in this unusual Clearance event at $45.00 each.

—You may share today—in sizes 34 to 44, and as the quantity is limited, wisdom would suggest no further delay—at Bullock's Women's Garment Section—Third Floor. Women's Silk Dresses in a sale at $45.00 each.

800 Pairs Women's White Shoes, $6.00 Pair

—White shoes in 6 styles have been chosen to make this group at $6.00; they are all the highest type shoes, and $6.00 is far less than their regular price. They are of white reignskin and other leading fabrics.

—There are Strap Pumps, all white or with black binding or black patent leather trimmings; covered military, French and Baby French heels are represented.

—Oxfords: One group is all white, another has black kid trimming, and another dark brown trimming. Good walking heels.

Shoes of unquestionable Value and style and character — at the very low price of $6.00—Tuesday—Fourth Floor—in that Section of Style - Supreme Shoes for Women, at Bullock's.

A HORSE APIECE.

What might be considered an even trade is when a man swaps a counterfeit $20 bill with a bootlegger for a bottle of prune juice.

LOST IN TRANSIT.

Over 300 cases of whisky being held for evidence in San Francisco were found to be filled with bricks when opened in court. The brick had taken the place of the kick. It must be annoying when a man with an ample thirst and a corkscrew begins opening a case of bricks.

GOING FOR A SONG.

The government is selling 200 of its wooden ships for $2100 each. They cost $700,000 apiece. Seems as if the nation would be ahead if the Navy Department cut these wooden ships up into logs for the rest of the fleet. A German schooner would be worth as much as these scows are bringing. As a shipbuilder, the government is a fine piano tuner.

INDIANS AND THE DANCE.

A resolution has been presented asking the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to place the ban upon the sun, war, ghost and other tribal dances of the Sioux. How about those other Indians who are dancing the shimmy, the toddle, the bearcat, the wiggle-waggle and other voluptuous convolutions? Are they to be permitted to ply their indiscretions unimpeded while the noble red man is restrained from exercising his tribal rights and prerogatives? Is there no justice left?

THINGS LOOKING GOOD.

President Sproule of the Southern Pacific has been getting the eastern viewpoint and is able to confirm the assertion that the glamourous Southwest is also the whitest spot on the country's business map. The barometer is rising in the New York, Philadelphia and Boston districts—but slowly. To put the nation on a safe and worthy footing it is necessary that there should be an honest day's work on the part of us all. That is the sensible conclusion of the capable railway executive.

PULPIT OR PICTURES.

A young theatrical manager has disposed of his three movie theaters in New York State and will study for the ministry. He wanted to be a missionary when he first graduated from college, but didn't have money enough to finish his studies. So he went into the pictures and within a few years was the absolute owner of three movie houses. Now he is going to follow his earlier ambitions for the pulpit and says he has the money to assure his career. He thinks the screen and the pulpit carry a message and he aims to be a bearer of both.

WHISKERS AND INFAMY.

French scientists are trying to connect whiskers with foolishness. This is no particularly new thing. Old-timers said Samson was nutty over a woman and did not regain his mentality until he had been sheared. The French doctors are now endeavoring to argue that folks grow hair according as they show depravity. In a hospital for mental and moral delinquents nearly 30 per cent of the women had fairly developed mustaches. One Paris specialist asserts that the extension of the cigarette habit among women is in a large way responsible for the growth of hair upon the face and lips. According to the testimony of this class of experts the bearded lady is not only a cigarette fiend, but something of a wanton. How does she get away with it? Who would care to dally with a girl carrying four or five inches of brush on her map? When one sees a matron hitting the pipe it is hard to tell whether she is doing it for the solace of the weed or because she wants to raise a beard. If cigarette smoking among girls starts the hair growing on the face we are likely to have a generation of mustached flappers. First thing we know some of our noblest dames will be seeking safety in the razor.

COMBINE FIGHTING FORCES.

Washington dispatches credit the administration with a willingness to consolidate the offensive and defensive forces of the nation under a single head. This might mean the combination of the War and Navy departments and the centralization of all aggressive authority under one hat. Worse things might happen. There is a great deal of costly overhead because of the jealousies and rivalries of the departments. It might be a fine idea if a man who was enlisted in the service of his country could be used as a soldier, a sailor or a marine—as the needs of the hour might suggest. As it is now there are doubtless 10,000 clerical positions in the Navy and War departments that are essential merely because there are these two departments. There are great warehouses for army stores and on the next lot there are great warehouses for naval stores. Possibly one is half full and the other empty, but both are guarded and operated by their different departments and a double service is demanded. As the situation stands, if the country spends a billion dollars on the budget of the Navy Department the War Department also makes demand for its billion. If there were but one head and authority these appetites might be synchronized.

PATHS OF DESTINY.

As one passes in review the convulsions through which civilization has passed during the last seven years it would seem that a hidden hand has directed governments and peoples along a path which, if it could have been envisaged in advance, they would not have possessed the hardihood to follow. They would have turned their faces from the goal, deterred by the apparently insurmountable obstacles that lay between. Statesmen and diplomats would have said with a shrug that the game was not worth the candle.

There were military autocracies in Europe that had endured since the Dark Ages. Their institutions were very acceptable to the governing classes and the oppression of those who toiled weighed lightly on the ones who enjoyed the fruits of others' labor. The injustice was apparent; but it was sanctioned by immemorial usage. Justice had always been the privilege of the enlightened few and it was held by those in authority that it could not, with safety, be extended to the many.

These autocratic sophists argued that equality does not exist in nature, and to establish such a condition in society would lead to confusion, decadence and anarchy. Rights should be regulated by condition; the participation of the ignorant masses in the government of a country would tend to weaken established institutions and to render life and the possession of property less secure. Society was established on the principle that those who think should govern those who toil.

It did not occur to the wearers of the purple that because muscles are active brains are not necessarily idle. The example of Cincinnatus that the hand which holds the plow may also wield a scepter had been lost. Ancient Rome was separated from modern Berlin by the long stretch of the Dark Ages that intervened.

But sparks from the torch of liberty continued to fly upward. With education came new aspirations. When the alleged divine right of kings was proved to be a superstition, when America, France and the self-governing dominions of the British Empire gave an actual demonstration of the successful application of the principle of self-government the submerged subjects of the old empires became aware of the useless burden of their chains. Aristocracy of birth lost its fetich; a new generation was born that recognized no aristocracy but that of the intellect.

When the World War began those who were responsible for it had not the slightest conception of what they were initiating. The atrocities committed by the armies of the Central Powers awakened a sense of implacable aversion toward those responsible for them. The violation of the neutrality of Belgium shocked the sense of justice of all free peoples. The terrible years of grewsome trench fighting, the use of poison gas and the barbarous submarine campaigns robbed war of its glamour and much of its chivalry and the heart of the world sickened at the seemingly fruitless slaughter. While the spirit of military despotism was being broken the people of all nations became imbued with repugnance toward war itself.

President Wilson strove vainly to keep our own country from being drawn into the vortex of the storm of human device more destructive than any loosed on the world by natural forces. America could not stand by while all that was worth saving in Western Europe was destroyed. We were impelled by a moral force into the heart of the maelstrom. What had been in the beginning a struggle between nations became a fight to the death between democracy and despotism. When that issue was once clearly defined it was settled in a single campaign. That was due in a large part to the fact that the peoples of the Central Powers discovered that they were fighting against their own better selves, that a victory for despotism would only rivet the tighter their own chains. The monarchies of the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns crumbled and their once proud rulers became fugitives in foreign lands.

The kaleidoscope of world events changed with lightning rapidity. Liberty had triumphed over autocratic tyranny only to be confronted with a force still more sinister, that of anarchy and Bolshevism. The lurid flames of Communism devoured Russia and threatened the whole of Europe. The submerged masses freed from autocratic tyranny were forced to learn in a bitter school to distinguish between liberty and license.

Through both these terrible struggles our own country suffered the least. It was spared the bitter experience of less fortunate nations. Why were we the favored people of destiny during these awful years? Perhaps the answer is to be found in the disarmament conference which will convene in Washington in November. The United States is now the wealthiest and the most powerful of the nations of the world; and it is this country that is asking the other nations to join her in a world movement to make justice and not force the arbiter of international disputes.

The pride of all peoples has been humbled by the sacrifices, the slaughter and the suffering of seven agonizing years. It is with contrite hearts that the representatives of the five great world powers will assemble to put an end to wars by fortifying the nations against a recurrence of the conditions in which wars originate. Similar conferences have been held before, but they failed to accomplish the desired results because the great military despotisms of Europe lay across the path. That obstacle has been blasted away.

The higher purpose of the World War and the challenge of Communism has been revealed. The best blood of a generation has been sacrificed, but the rule of blind force has been broken. The path has been cleared for international agreements that ten years ago were not possible. The Washington conference will not fail, for the will of the peoples of the world, without distinctions of race, creed or color is fixed on the firm resolve that the slaughter of man by man under the guise of national necessity shall cease. The hidden hand is still concealed, but the path that it has traced and the goal toward which we have been tending, at times unknown to ourselves, is now clearly visible. We have traveled blindly and in a zigzag course, but always in the right direction.

And now there is a proposition for another organization of soldiers who served in the World War, investigating the American Legion. Is there nothing immune from the investigator these days?

Difficult Question No. 1.

THE CRIME AGAINST IRELAND.

If an orgy of slaughter and destruction is once again started in Ireland some one sooner or later must face the charge of blood-guiltiness. For whosoever thrusts back on that suffering country for wanton, vindictive or insufficient reasons the reign of terror from which it has received a short respite will, at the bar of civilization, be held guilty of a crime against Ireland.

Has the sponsor for the British government adopted an irreconcilable and uncompromising attitude on the question of Ireland's just claim for self-government? If so, he stands condemned before the tribunal of humanity. Has the spokesman for the Sinn Fein nationalists exhibited a bitter spirit of implacable hostility? If so, against him must run a bill of attainder.

The world in judgment cares little for the splitting of hairs that merely provides an excuse for perpetrating riot and bloodshed; it cares much—everything, indeed—for the horrible and unholy misery inflicted on the innocent people of Ireland to save the faces of the hair-splitters.

Let us take the concluding words of Lloyd George on the one side and of De Valera on, the other and, from their own lips, by their own sentiments, judge which one is guilty of trying to perpetuate the old hatreds for which the people—not the politicians—of Ireland are paying the heart-rending price.

Lloyd George said, in summing up his case before the British House of Commons:

> I am using no language of menace. That would indeed be folly. Where there are so many existing difficulties to use threating language would be to aggravate old difficulties and to create new ones.
> The government sincerely desires that peace should be secured and that the long misunderstandings, sometimes sulky, sometimes savage, which make so many chapters of British history painful reading, misunderstandings between these two peoples who ought to live in peace and harmony, even in affection, should be brought to an end.

De Valera's ultimatum before the Dail Eireann was:

> We cannot and will not accept these proposals. The statement that a dominion government has been offered to Ireland contains two falsehoods. There was no Ireland mentioned in the terms, only two broken pieces of Ireland. Dominions have the right to secede, but the Irish republic must stay within the empire. . . . We are ready to go a long way to give in to Ulster, if we can get them to consider the interests of their own country and not be allying themselves with foreigners.

The different spirit manifested in these two utterances must convince all fair-minded observers that the urge for harmony is all on one side and the determination for discord all on the other.

What are the proposals that De Valera cannot and will not accept? What is this settlement so impracticable that, rather than give it even a trial, De Valera will plunge the land he professes to love into a welter of assassination, bloodshed and sickening reprisals?

Lloyd George has offered the Sinn Fein a replica of the dominion form of self-government under which the old South African Boer republics have attained a degree of prosperity and independence that we, in the United States, would have considered not unworthy of our own best traditions.

Gen. Smuts, who, unlike the Sinn Fein leader, took a heroic part in the hardest fights of the Boer War, has urged the Sinn Fein political mouthpieces to follow the example of the brave Boer patriots, to sink petty personal animosities and to all pull together for the future well-being of the people of Ireland.

Apparently the words of Gen. Smuts, like those of Lloyd George, have fallen on deaf ears. To De Valera fine phrases are more worth saving than common flesh. He must hang on to his sentimental terms, his hatred for "foreign alliances," his "broken Ireland," his "right to secede," and so the farmers, the mechanics, the merchants, the laborers, the body and flesh of Ireland, must once again be delivered up sacrifices to the demons of ancient history on the altar of modern politics.

The greatest crime against a nation or a people is the infliction of needless suffering to reach an impossible goal. Ireland demands freedom; she can obtain it from practical statesmen along practical lines—if the sentimentalists and trouble-breeders will think less of their own glory and profit and more of the common people who are carrying the burden.

AUSTRALIA OUT OF PLUMB.

Wireless experts are telling us that Australia has been placed 100 yards out of its correct position on the map. Capt. James Cook, the early explorer, was the culprit. The wireless authorities declare they can discover a perceptible loss of time in transmitting the exact seconds.

And everybody knows how time mounts up. Australia, in the same period of progress that the United States has enjoyed, is still quite a bit behind. With a larger area and much the same variations of climate and conditions, Australia's population is but five and a half millions, most of her territory remains unexplored and unexploited, her national resources undeveloped and her customs and conditions of life at least twenty-five years out of date. Of course, Australians have never been able to believe or understand this because those faulty maps have so basely deceived them. But now that wireless mathematics has exposed the painful truth we may look to see an enterprising Australia working overtime to make up for lost progress.

In which connection we observe that an enterprising Australian firm is writing for bids on wire screens to circumvent the ubiquitous fly and mosquito—a hitherto unknown luxury for the masses in a country swarming with flies. Likewise the milk dealers are discussing glass-bottle receptacles in place of the dipper and the family jug on the doorstep, and the question of regulation garbage cans is receiving attention. There is even a little discussion in Sydney appertaining to an improvement in the telephone system—the one they have being the original antiquity that created such a sensation as a new-age novelty twenty-five years ago—and holding a fifty-year franchise to perpetuate it in all its hoary charms.

Altogether this discovery of the wireless mathematicians must have proved a wholesome jolt for the Australians. That hundred yards out of plumb-rankles. But if these subtle signs of spoeding up can be taken as evidence the Australians will catch up.

SAVING THE BREW.

It looks as if the sanctity of home brew would remain inviolate. If the Senators adhere to their position no official of the State or nation, no matter how high or mighty, may invade the American home in quest of liquids scoring more than half of 1 per cent of alcoholic content. If he attempts to break and enter the householder may beat him to a pulp or have him fined and jailed in the name of the law he invokes.

Home brewing is now said to be the sixth American industry. It is surpassed by iron, beef, clothing, buzzwagons and motion pictures. Possibly there are a few others that may equal it, but there is no industry so widespread and so intimate. In its various forms and ramifications it may be said to have touched 37 per cent of the homes of America. It has been said by the poet that wherever there is a can-opener there is a home brewery.

The position of Congress in preserving this industry is being reflected in trade. It was announced yesterday that the new crop of hops in Oregon has all been contracted for at 30 cents a pound. In the days of the free and unlimited coinage of malt by the brewers the hops never gained this fancy price. It is the home market that is doing the business—the market that gave a fancy figure to the raisin and saved barley from extinction. With the perpetuation of home brewing as an American institution there will always be a field for the yeast, cornmeal, hops, malt and raisins of the nation. The saloon may be closed, the bootlegger may be imprisoned, but the motto of the home brewer is: "Business as usual." Now that almost any of our schoolgirls can deftly brew a refreshment carrying about 12 per cent of alcohol, even grandpa has neglected to sigh for the days when he could go to the brewery and get "lit up" on 4 per cent beer.

REVISING THE MENU.

Hotel men at their Chicago convention say the hotels are going back to the American plan. If they will also include the American language on the menu the average diner won't be ordering three kinds of potatoes in the hope that one of them will be meat.—[Detroit News.

PLUTOCRACY AND GOLF.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

More room for internal reform. And this time in the hitherto sacred realms of golf—that "gentleman's game" once so proud of its exacting standards, its royal and ancient St. Andrews's Bible, its inviolable principles. Oh, of course, a bounder would creep in occasionally, but he was soon a marked man and quietly frozen off the course for his sins.

But now, alas, there are ominous murmurings. The bounder, perdition take him, has increased and multiplied and all of our thirty-two clubs in Southern California (aggregating some 24,000 golfers) have considerably more than their fair quota of bounders, and wherever two or three veteran aristocrats of the game are gathered together a hectic debate on the subject is bound to occur.

Because, you see, the war made many profiteers and one of the first things a profiteer does to establish his new social status is to join a country club and take up golf. This, at least, is the explanation of those veteran cynics.

And golf, mark you, is a unique game, based pre-eminently on personal integrity. It is as easy to cheat at golf as it is at solitaire, a shade easier than cheating at bridge via the prearranged signal route. Given a subsidized caddy, the thing becomes too utterly simple.

Moreover, the game depends so essentially upon the finer courtesies—a mere sneeze, a titter, a gesture can mar an opponent's stroke. The game reeks with temperamental psychology, such unconsidered trifles can top a drive or blast a putt. Wherefore sympathetic consideration, masterly inactivity during an opponent's stroke, in short, the gentlemanly manner are the vital essentials of the perfect golfer.

Not that there are not subtle and refined methods of getting the other fellow's goat, which, providing their subtlety and refinement are achieved with gentlemanly finesse, call forth no frowns from the arbiters of the game. But there must be no crudity, such tactics must be enveloped in the sanctity of a superb and courteous innocence.

But what does the golf climber know of subtlety, of gentlemanly finesse, of sophisticated innocence? He did not need such refinements in war profiteering, hence his golf tricks are flagrant, obvious, unashamed—and the golf veterans stand aghast.

So the golf veterans are busy forming grand-jury tribunals among themselves and endeavoring to segregate the sheep from the goats, to distinguish between the merely ignorant offender who sins from stupidity and the willful offender wholly lacking in first principles. So many of the new disciples are, of course, just enthusiastic novices, but some of them have shown a remarkable aptitude for the game—and in their triumph and vanity cannot resist touching up their scores. In private matches these gentry can be avoided and left to mulct each other, but in tournaments the most aristocratic veteran of unimpeachable standing may be called upon to meet the renegade and then, of course, well, dash it all, this blight must be fumigated.

Apropos of which there was an interesting debacle only last week. The golf sinner's pet trick was to turn up an hour late for his matches. By that time the waiting and demoralised opponent, often a long-handicap man, considered the game his by default and usually went off and played a friendly, unofficial round. One round for a long-handicap man is a strenuous undertaking—he has to work so deucedly hard for it. When he gets back perspiring and rattled, however, behold dashing opponent, casually apologetic, assuming the right to play his tournament match. Golf courtesy demands acquiescence by tired and frazzled player, who accordingly gets licked.

But after a couple of rounds on this basis our golf sinner was to meet a hardy veteran. Hardy veteran makes prior announcement. "Set the time for the match yourself; if you are not here five minutes later I shall claim the match." And it worked out just that. Protests from indignant procrastinator an hour later, fulsome explanations, adamant veteran.

Since then the matter has sizzled and sizzled. And it was the spark that lit up the interest of those informal grand juries. A general round-up of sinners is in the offing. Investigations are in order. Case after case is cited. In the old days, when the bounder proclaimed himself, he was so rare a specimen that dealing with him was a matter of quiet freezing out; today so many sinners are wealthy that clubs cannot quite afford to adopt the stern, relentless method—diplomacy and tact are direly necessary. But golf has become so much of a national game that, like baseball, it must positively be clean. It may be as democratic as you will, but it must essentially remain a "gentleman's game." There isn't any other way. Without that essential personal integrity upon which everything depends—whether it is in the delicate little matter of scoring or the more subtle courtesies of mutual consideration—there can be no golf. No amount of skill can compete with falsified arithmetic.

But fear not, golf is to be saved. Internal reform is on the rampage. The way of the transgressor will be complicated, indeed, henceforth. Every club is joining in the crusade—for that club which harbors bounders will stand small chance of being allotted championships. Just as the Automobile Club is undertaking to swat the speeders for the sake of the whole fraternity, so the golfers will somehow, some way swat the cheaters. But it will all be done in a very gentlemanly way—no public scandal, no public indictments—but vigilance, eternal vigilance, and a frightful, silently eloquent calm.

Ambassador Harvey, behind his tortoise-shell rimmed glasses and saying nothing, is the subject of much comment at the session of the Allied Council. The colonel has learned to hold his tongue in a number of different languages.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM.

BY HERMAN J. STICH.

"Reading Maketh a Full Man"—But Fullness Without Digestion is Dyspepsia.

Some years ago there was a meeting in Cincinnati of a society devoted to the cause of missions.

One of the members got up and made a long speech, which was later reprinted in full, a speech extremely complacent and dull.

When he was through he introduced a Sioux Indian as representing a people sadly in need of missionary education.

The Indian's reply contrasted sharply with the address to which he had politely listened.

"My people," he said, "are not like your people. You have books. You listen to what men said who lived long ago and far away. You see what they saw. You do what they did. You hear what they heard. You think what they thought. My people cannot do this. We cannot read. We can only see with our own eyes, and hear with our own ears, and think with our own minds."

This Indian chief felt he was the mental superior of the persons he was talking to, and he attributed this superiority to the fact that they were able to read, while he was not, and was therefore compelled to use his own eyes, ears and mind to see, hear, think and learn for himself.

The chief's reasoning was, of course, somewhat vulnerable; but there is no doubt that in his simple way he had struck upon one of the undesirable excrescences of an age that has become so pen-ridden that we even put the letters of the alphabet into our soup.

The invention of the printing press has been an unbounded boon to humanity; but it has not been an unmixed blessing—it has weakened to a great extent the average man's natural powers of direct observation, of independent thought and judgment—just as the automobile and tram have gradually discouraged the use of one's legs.

Books are mighty good servants, but almighty bad masters—they are a good staff to help along, but dangerous to lean upon for sole support.

Carlyle says that a collection of books is a true university; and in the light of what we know of our great men, it might be added that often the smaller the collection the larger the university.

Aside from occasional reading for recreation, a book should inform or stimulate or do both—a man should read in order to think better and do more—and when books usurp the place of independent cerebration, then the reader is being denied a service he is able to and should do for himself, and as in all such cases, he is done an injury instead of a benefit.

Thinking is to reading what the alloy is to gold—it hardens it, making it usable in everyday life.

Reading without thinking creates shallowness. It is an incongruity—making the ruffle bigger than the skirt. It turns out "educated fools."

Digest, assimilate, think your way through books.

Reading without digestion and assimilation is useless and often harmful—it may make a full man, as Bacon says, but fullness without digestion is dyspepsia.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

WELL ENOUGH ALONE.

Old Bill, who once was Kaiser, now runs his sawing mill, and had he acted wiser he might be Kaiser still. A gilt-bespangled stoner, he ruled a mighty realm, and Prussia seemed a winner, with Wilhelm at the helm. He might have kept on ruling before the awe-struck crowd till he was old and drpoling and ready for the shroud, had he cut out the scheming that proved to be no good; but he was fond of dreaming—and now he's sawing wood. Alas, no wizard, gnome-eyed, approached the monarch's throne to hand him out this bromide, "Let well enough alone!" No prophet or forecaster, no seers in double teams, implored the royal master to can the hopjoint dreams. So Wilhelm went on planning to make the world his realm, the farthest oceans spanning—and now he's whacking elm. With rusty saws and axes he lays the hemlock low and he must pay his taxes like John or Richard Roe. But few of us are kaisers, and few of us have thrones; we're mostly early risers who rustle for the bones. But many are disgusted with "well enough," I know; and some day they'll be busted and full of shredded woe, because some fool ambition has led them far astray; the "well-enough" condition can't please the hophead jay. Old Bill, that outcast critter, might still be on his throne had he known when to twitter, "Let well enough alone."

ANDREWS TALKING MACHINE CO. 350 SO. BROADWAY

The Most Important Fur Sale of All the Year

The popularity of the new George Atelier, 2126 West Seventh Street, opposite Westlake Park, has been demonstrated by the preference shown over our other shops because it is a most fashionable shop and advantageously located for the exclusive George patronage. The management, cognizant of this preference, finds it no longer necessary to maintain the shop at Seventh and Hope after September first.

The Furs now at Seventh and Hope Street shop will be disposed of at prices hitherto unequaled.

There is but a brief period in which to buy George Fur Creations at these advantageous prices.

These furs have won an international reputation for style and quality—they are worn by ladies of fashion in America—indorsed by Court ladies of England.

The present, being the opening of the fall season, is the time in which to make your selection, and this year August offers an additional advantage because of the rare opportunity to select the latest styles as represented in our exclusive productions at reasonable prices.

Make your selection early to assure your obtaining the particular wrap you want.

RECORD STORM HITS IMPERIAL.

Rainfall Gauging Two Inches Sweeps Inland Empire.

Water Company's Canal in the Valley is Broken.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Aug. 22.—Business and pleasure were brought to a standstill in Imperial Valley yesterday afternoon and last night by one of the heaviest rainstorms ever experienced in the history of the Inland Empire. More than two inches of rain fell throughout the valley in a period of about four and one-half hours, causing many thousands of dollars' damages and tying up all traffic, except in the paved highway from Calexico, through this city to the mountains to the west.

The greatest damage was caused in the north end of the valley, through which a torrent of water flowed to the Salton Sea after a cloudburst at the edge of the Chocolate Mountains. The high line canal of Imperial Water Company No. 3, which operates in Niland and vicinity, was broken in two places, near Flowing Wells, causing a loss of approximately $20,000. Hundreds of ducks, geese, turkeys, chickens and hogs were washed away from several farms south of Niland and drowned. Minor damage was done further south in the valley. Crops virtually escaped without damage, although wind and rain combined injured some fields. Cotton was not damaged either in the United States or Mexico, growers report.

HEAVY PRECIPITATION.

The average precipitation for the storm was more than two inches, more than half of which fell during the first hour. The official gauge at Brawley showed a total of 2.1 inches for the storm. At Meloland the government experimental station reported 1.61 inches for the storm, and at Calexico the irrigation district gauge showed 2.04 inches, of which 1.6 inches fell during the first hour.

Rain fell in Imperial Valley twice in August last year, the total precipitation for the month being 1.05 inches. No rain fell in the same month in 1919. The rain yesterday brought the season's total from Sept. 1, 1920, to date, to 4.12 inches, for the same period in 1919-20, the precipitation was 5.52 inches. The total precipitation during each calendar year for the last three years was as follows: 1919, 2.58 inches; 1920, 4.91 inches; 1921 to date, 4.12 inches. The storm, which was preceded by a high wind, struck Calipatria at 5 o'clock.

STREETS FLOODED.

In Calipatria, Brawley, Imperial, El Centro and Calexico streets were flooded and many basements were filled with water, due to the sewers being unable to carry off the great amount of water, and for several hours after the storm abated, there was very little traffic on any of the streets or highways. Today automobile traffic on all except the paved roads is light, because of deep mud making passage very difficult.

The El Centro-San Diego State highway was covered with sand to a depth of about two feet for a distance of about 100 feet. Near by the pavement was undermined by the water for a distance of about sixty feet, making immediate repairs necessary. Many telephone poles along this route were blown down.

One of the most disagreeable features of the storm was the lack of electricity throughout the valley for most of the night, due to the blowing down of a high tension power line pole of the Southern Sierras Power Company, between Niland and Coachella.

COLISEUM'S PLANS ARE APPROVED.

Huge Structure in Park is Expected to be Under Way Within Thirty Days.

Plans for the coliseum to be built at Exposition Park by the Community Development Association were submitted yesterday to the Municipal Art Commission by Architect John Parkinson and approved. They call for a structure to seat 75,000 people and to cost $800,000. The coliseum will be 680 feet in length, 344 feet in width and thirty-five feet in height above the ground. It will be built of steel and concrete, with the exception of a portion of the seats which will be of wood.

It is expected that construction will begin within thirty days.

The coliseum is to be built on land owned by the Sixth District Agricultural Association, and will be operated jointly by the city, county and the Community Development Association, which is a noncapital, nonstock corporation, organized solely for the benefit of the community. The city and county will jointly pay a rental for eight years to the association, which advances the funds for building, and the city and county will receive in return a forty-year lease. The coliseum will be one of the largest structures of its kind in the world, it is said.

"The plans are very finely worked out," President Mitchell of the Art Commission said. "The pylons forming the main entrance will be as tall as a six-story building and will be as notable in their way as the bridge to the exposition in San Diego. The structure will be as fine as anything in the United States—better, I think, than the Yale Bowl, the Harvard Stadium or the Columbia Stadium."

NAB METER READER BURGLAR SUSPECT.

Wanted in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake and other western cities because of asserted activities as a "meter-reading burglar," Compton R. Hubbard was arrested yesterday in Reno, according to advices from that city. Police here say that the prisoner gained entrance to homes he wished to rob by posing as a gas man who desired to read the meters. He made no attempt to cover his trail, it is asserted, always operating under the same name.

"TIMES" PRICE IS REDUCED.

Delivered by Carrier for 90 Cents Per Month After September First.

Beginning September 1, the subscription price of the Los Angeles Times will be reduced to 90 cents a month, delivered by carrier. While it is actually costing more now to produce The Times than at any time in its history, there is reasonable assurance that the price of white paper will be reduced in the near future. The Times believes that every enterprise dealing with the public should do its share to restore normal price conditions by reducing prices as soon as business conditions warrant. It is therefore making this 15 per cent cut in anticipation of the drop in the cost of its paper, so that its readers may promptly share the saving. Telephone your order to Pico 700 or 10391. San Francisco morning papers are now $1.15 a month, delivered by carrier. In Chicago they are $1.25 a month.

The price of the daily and Sunday Times on the street, on news stands and by mail will not be changed at present.

JAILED AS FORGER.

Police Say Man Tried to Put On Wine Front on Beer Pay.

It's hard to keep up a champagne appearance on a beer income. Marshall Robinson, colored and 29 years old, who was jailed yesterday, will attest to that.

Marshall did like to look nice. But it took money. Yea, to "walk the dog" correctly, one must spend money on clothes.

But it is declared that Marshall put on this automobile front on a wheelbarrow salary and, according to the police, he forged a check or two. Yesterday he was arrested in a downtown bank by Pinkerton operatives as he attempted to cash a $35 check.

NEW FIGHT OF BUNKER HILL WAGED.

Carline Terminus Hearing is Hectic; Utilities Board May Ask State to Act.

A twentieth-century "Battle o Bunker Hill" was staged in th Council Chamber at the City Hal yesterday, when residents of the district between Hill and Figueroa an First and Fifth streets, again urge the Board of Public Utilities to or der an improvement of the servic rendered by the First-street line the Los Angeles Railway Company After spokesmen for the Bunke Hill residents had declared that th railway company is "stalling," an that it is following a "public damned" policy, the board took th matter under advisement, with th probability that the State Railroa Commission will be asked to sol the puzzle.

The trouble started four month ago, when the railway company s cured permission from the Board Public Utilities to transfer th terminus of the First-street lin from Second street and Broadway Olive street, between First an Second streets. Managing-Direct Babcock of the Business Men's C operative Association, and Attorn Louise F. Labarere, have sin labored on behalf of the 9000 re dents of the hill for a restorati of the old terminus, or from the e tablishment of a new one at Fir street and Broadway. It was su gested yesterday by Chief Engine Osborne of the board, that the Fir street cars could be run as far First and Hill streets, or that municipal or railway compa motor busses could be run thro the northerly business district c necting with the First-street c at the present terminus of the li George Baker Andersen of the L Angeles Railway said the compa would not be able to grant transf from its cars to the busses.

The hearing yesterday afterno like all other on this question, whi had preceded it, was a fiery on residents of the hill denouncing th railway company in no uncerta terms for changing the terminus the line to Olive street to the s jury, the speakers said, of prope values on the hill, and the inco venience of residents.

Certified Milk from Holstein Cows Saves Babies' Lives

A prominent specialist on infant feeding says that infant mortality could be reduced 50% by intelligent feeding on Certified Milk from Holstein Cows. As 80% of all infant trouble is caused by inability to assimilate food it is highly essential that Milk nearest approaching Mother's milk in quality should be supplied. Holstein Cows' Milk is very similar in composition and structure to breast milk, and from it Baby derives the great vitality which is inherent to the large healthy, vigorous Holstein Cow.

Certified Holstein Milk has smaller fat globules than found in Guernsey or Jersey milk, and are much more easily digested. Nursing Mothers should drink Certified Holstein Milk regularly. They will gain rapidly themselves and aid greatly the Baby's growth. It is also best for invalids and convalescents.

Guernseys and Jerseys have been discarded from our herd for young babies' welfare and protection.

For 15 years our efforts have been devoted exclusively to the production of the best milk for Babies and Invalids; this naturally led us into an exhaustive study and investigation of every factor and condition which had any influence upon the production of this special milk.

That our efforts have not been in vain is evidenced by the fact that Arden Certified still enjoys the enviable position as the leading milk for Babies and Invalids, and that it is unreservedly recommended by the Los Angeles Medical Association, and by practicing physicians and nurses in Los Angeles County.

This High Quality Milk is Served in the Leading Hotels, Cafes and Cafeterias

Over 2500 bottles have been served daily for the past two years at the five BOOS BROS. CAFETERIAS.

It is 25c a Quart in Los Angeles and is delivered in Long Beach by the Long Beach Dairy—Pasadena by the Crown City Dairy—Los Angeles, San Pedro and all parts of Los Angeles County by the Crescent Creamery Co.

REALTY BROKER, MASON, MISSING.

Angeleno Vanishes on Trip to Santa Barbara.

Lodge Fails to Find Clew in Secret Inquiry.

Series of Letters Deepens the Mystery Puzzle.

Edmund P. Brooks, real estate broker and Mason, was reported as missing under mysterious circumstances in a statement made yesterday to Chief Deputy Sheriff Manning and Deputy Cronin by Samuel J. Crawford, his attorney. According to the report, Mr. Brooks, with several hundred dollars in his pocket, left his home at 702 East Fifty-third street on June 10, for Santa Barbara.

A man, said to be S. G. Davis, is stated to have accompanied him there for the purpose of closing some business deal. From that city Mr. Brooks and Mr. Davis are said to have gone to San Francisco.

Letters received by Mrs. Belle Machado, housekeeper for Mr. Brooks, indicate that Mr. Brooks had an accident on the way to Santa Barbara and was unable to write because of an injured wrist. His knee also is said to have been injured. Sheriff Traeger assigned deputies to investigate the case.

SECRET INQUIRY.

The unusual circumstances of Mr. Brooks's disappearance and the anxiety caused to his housekeeper and many friends in this city when he failed week after week to reappear resulted in a secret inquiry by the Masonic order, but no information was received indicating the whereabouts of either Mr. Brooks or his companion on the trip, it is said.

Mrs. Machado said Mr. Brooks usually carried large sums of money with him on his trips and on this occasion had several hundred dollars.

It was stated that the missing man had a checking account with the Heilman Commercial Trust and Savings Bank and a savings account of several thousand dollars in the Hibernian branch of the California bank. The first account was closed before Mr. Brooks left, but the other was not, it was reported. Mr. Brooks owned the house where he lived and considerable real estate here and apparently made no arrangements to transfer them, nor did he remove any of his personal belongings from his home.

LETTERS RECEIVED.

On June 15, a typewritten letter from Santa Barbara, signed with Mr. Brooks's name stated that he had had an accident, spraining his knee, and said Mr. Davis wrote the letter. Another letter, purporting to come from Dr. Davis, dated on June 18 from Santa Barbara, stated that Mr. Brooks had injured his wrist and couldn't write. It was said the two were going to San Francisco and for Mrs. Machado to address him at general delivery there.

A letter, dated June 22 from San Francisco, and signed S. G. Davis, stated that Mr. Brooks was there and all right, except for his wrist, and was unable to write. The writer stated he was at the Civic Center Hotel, San Francisco. Inquiry is said to have disclosed that no Mr. Davis was at that hotel and that a mistake might have been made in the name of the hotel.

The day before, it developed, another letter, signed with Mr. Brooks's name and apparently in his hand, stated he would be in Los Angeles in about ten days, that he was going to Tulare and that the Santa Barbara proposition had not appeared good. The following was added, "I am all right, but my wrist is in a plaster cast and it is hard to eat and dress, but will be well in a few days." The letter was apparently signed by Mr. Brooks, and was marked, "By G. J. D."

Another letter was received at Mr. Brooks's residence here, marked with the return address of Brooks, but addressed to him at general delivery, San Francisco. This missive was signed "G. J. D."

RECEIVES WATCH.

A letter addressed to Mrs. Machado and purporting to be apparently signed by Mr. Davis, and mailed on June 24, contained Mr. Brooks's gold watch, which, it was stated in the letter, was forwarded because the writer could not find the owner.

Mrs. Machado has offered a reward of $25, it was stated, for information indicating the whereabouts of Mr. Brooks. The latter is 50 years old, five feet four inches tall; weighs 150 pounds, has black hair, turning gray; is smooth shaved and has a fair complexion.

The Sheriff's deputies are eager to communicate with Mr. Davis, as it is thought he may be able to throw some light upon the whereabouts of Mr. Brooks.

INDICT TWO IN REPUTED OIL FRAUD.

False Statements Charged in Stock Sale; Bail Fixed at Twenty-five Thousand.

W. L. Wilson and W. L. Barnard, oil-stock brokers arrested last week, were indicted by the county grand jury yesterday on a charge of criminal conspiracy; that is, larceny by trick and device. The indictment was returned before Judge McCormick, and assigned to Judge Reeve's court.

The specific charge against the defendants is that they represented to Charles S. Towle last December 1, that the Texas-Atlantic Oil Company was authorized to issue stock in California, that it was paying dividends of 1 per cent a month from the revenues of the company, that it owned or controlled forty acres near Hawthorne, and that these representations were unfounded. Mr. Towle is said to have invested $3000 in the company and to have received stock and a fortieth interest in the purported holdings at Hawthorne, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stafford, who presented the case to the grand jury.

The two accused are said by the prosecutors to have used the name of Norman Selby & Company, as agents. Norman Selby, known in the prize ring as Kid McCoy, was called as a witness before the inquisitorial body, but was said to be innocent of the asserted operations of the two indicted.

Barnard, who was accused in a complaint of embezzlement of a certificate of mortgage from Mrs. Sarah J. Harrington, said to have been given him to turn into cash, yesterday provided bonds of $25,000 and was released by Justice Hinshaw. Bail was fixed in the Superior Court at $25,000, and steps were taken to again apprehend Barnard.

MUST SUPPORT CHILD.

Ordered to Pay Divorced Wife Thirty Dollars a Month.

Roland Connors was ordered by Judge Toland yesterday to pay his divorced wife, Ella Juanita Connors, xylophone and trap-drum player, $10 at once and to pay her $30 a month for the support of their child. It was asserted that Mr. Connors is several hundreds of dollars behind in alimony payments. Mrs. Connors obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce more than a year ago and the custody of her child, Reddy, 3 years of age.

Messenger Dies as Motorcycle, Auto Collide.

Robert L. Boyer, 21 years of age, a messenger boy living at 134 North Bixel street, yesterday was instantly killed on Lake street when he drove his motorcycle into an automobile. The young man's skull was crushed against the curbing, where he was hurled by the force of the collision. The body was removed to the Draper & Engleman undertaking establishment.

According to the police who made an investigation of the fatal accident, young Boyer, riding his motorcycle at about forty miles an hour, crashed into an automobile operated by Miss Rena L. Stombs of 813 West Fifty-seventh street.

The front wheel of the motorcycle locked with the bumper of the automobile and the rider was hurled twenty-five feet. Miss Stombs was driving at about twenty miles an hour. She was not held.

TWO ARE BANKRUPT.

J. H. Weaver, a storekeeper of this city, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday, giving his liabilities as $5175.73, and his assets as $4955, of which $2395 is the listed value of his stock of goods and $1600 is in the shape of life insurance policies, which are exempt under the law. F. M. Murphey, a farmer of San Diego county, filed a similar petition. His debts are $2114.88, and his assets $210.

TWICE WED PAIR AGAIN IN COURT.

"Other Man" Palmed Off as Brother, Spouse Declares in Divorce Complaint.

According to a divorce complaint filed yesterday by Ronald H. Gilliland against Bessie L. Gilliland, the couple were married a second time last April and the reunion lasted only eight days. The first marriage was in Saginaw, Mich., and little Ester May Gilliland, now 2 years old, was born to them.

The plaintiff now charges in his complaint that his wife told him that one Jack Jones suited her much better than he and that she intended to live with Jones whether plaintiff got a divorce or not. This was on April 15, two days after the second marriage, according to the complaint. The discovery of defendant and Jack Jones together at 425 West Fifty-eighth street, where defendant secured a room, representing that she desired it in that neighborhood because it would be near "her brother," is also cited in the complaint, together with the statement that "said Jack Jones proved to be the man represented as the brother, who would call upon defendant from time to time."

START PLAY IN TITLE DOUBLES.

Favorite Tennis Pairs Come Through Successfully.

Johnston-Davis Have It Easy in Second Round.

Tilden-Richards Combination Has Soft Sailing.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The national lawn tennis doubles championship tournament, contested by teams holding sectional titles or with high standing, was begun on the grass courts of the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill today without important upset.

The American doubles combination in the Davis Cup challenge play, R. Norris Williams II and Watson M. Washburn, continued their successes by defeating the Leland Stanford university team composed of Philip Neer and James Davies, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1.

SHOWS INTEREST.

The gallery showed great interest in the reappearance as partners of W. T. Tilden II, world singles champion, playing in competition for the first time in a month, and Vincent Richards, his youthful conqueror of several weeks ago. They teamed effectively after a separation of two years to win from the southern doubles titleists, B. M. Grant and C. Y. Smith, 6-1, 6-2, 8-1.

Robert and Howard Kinsey, Southern California champions, again displayed their ability as doubles experts and advanced over Marshall Allen and William Taylor, the Pacific Northwest title holders, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

The British Davis cup players, Max Woosnam and O. G. N. Turnbull, went ahead without effort, the veterans, W. A. Larned and W. J. Clothier, defaulting.

GAIN A PLACE.

W. M. Johnston and Willis E. Davis, combining as fellow-Californians, gained a place in the third round by defeating Irving C. Wright and H. B. Guild, local players, who with them had drawn byes for the first round play. It was a straight set victory, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, that found Davis in rare form and Johnston in command of his usual finesse of stroke.

The defeat of Laurence Rice of Boston and Clyde Curley of Newport, R. I., by H. V. Greenough and G. T. Putnam of Boston was somewhat unexpected and came after five sets that went 8-6, 1-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4. The one-armed player, C. M. Charnet, and his partner, W. S. Sweeney, middle Atlantic titleists, were eliminated by another local combination, W. J. Wheelwright and J. W. Foster, in a five-set match, 3-6, 6-2, 4-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Willie Johnston in Some Violent Action.

Bill Johnston, paired with Willis Davis, came through the first rounds of the national doubles tournament at Boston yesterday in flying form and the team promises to give the best of them a run for the title. Johnston himself is playing tennis close to his topnotch form and many think he will give Tilden a genuine battle in the men's singles next month.

THOMAN WINS TRAPSHOOT.

Beats Out a Field of Seven in First Round of Great American Handicap.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Harry Thoman of Huron, S. D., giving a remarkable exhibition of shooting, won the South Shore introductory trapshooting match, a 100-target event at sixteen yards rise, one of the features of the Grand American handicap trapshoot, which opened today at the South Shore Country Club.

SEVEN TIED.

When the event had been completed seven experts tied for honors with perfect scores. Harry Thoman of Huron, G. D. Williams of Miami, Fla.; C. E. Bonner, New York; E. F. Woodward, Houston, Tex.; Gay H. Ford, Indianapolis, Ind.; Frank Hughes of Mobridge, S. D., and Fred Harlow of Newark, O., were tied, none having missed a target.

In the first shoot-off of twenty-five targets, Harlow, Ford, Woodward and Williams were eliminated. In the second shoot-off Hughes dropped one target, while Bonner and Thoman registered perfect totals.

Bonner missed his fourteenth target in the final test, while Thoman went through without a miss and took the trophy. Thoman made a straight run of 175. Bonner was given second place and Hughes third position.

RAH FOR HER!

Mrs. Toots Randall of New York won the national women's championship with a score of 93. The eastern expert is well known in trapshooting circles. Last year she was high woman's shot in the Grand American handicap at Cleveland, with a score of 89, and in 1919 she won the same honors in the event at Chicago, with a total of 87.

Mrs. C. M. Buchanan of Mitchell, S. D., and Mrs. E. L. King of Winona, Minn., tied for second place with scores of 96.

NOT REPRESENTED.

The Great Lakes zone squad of five men won the American amateur five-man championship with a total of 487. The Pacific Coast zone was not represented.

Owing to the weather conditions and unexpected delay, the American amateur exposition of double targets was not started until late this afternoon, and the American professional championship doubles was postponed until tomorrow morning.

MRS. JONES AS MEDALIST.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Melvin Jones of Olympia Fields with 42-47-89 emerged as medalist today at the Westmoreland Club over a field of approximately 120 players in the qualifying round of the nineteenth annual championship tournament of the Women's Western Golf Association.

It was the second time in three years that Mrs. Jones achieved that honor and was due probably to the fact that she was one of the first pair to tee off and consequently able to finish before the drizzle that set in about noon and continued intermittently thereafter.

One stroke behind Mrs. Jones came Miss Dorothy Higbie, Midlothian, who had 48-42-90. Mrs. Frances Hadfield of Milwaukee with 47-44-91, and Miss Jeanette Kinney of Cleveland, with 45-46-91, tied for third place.

Miss Kinney, who recently won the city title at home, had an excellent chance to tie Mrs. Jones or even better her score, but missed short putts at two holes and overapproached on another.

Mrs. Dave Gaut of Memphis, southern champion, and Mrs. Harry D. Hammond of Indianapolis, a former holder of the western title, and Mrs. Fred C. Letts, Jr., of Onwentsia, defending the title, also tied at 92 for fifth position.

The champion is always absolved from playing in the elimination round, but Mrs. Letts exercised the privilege to keep her game in trim. The qualifiers begin match play tomorrow.

WIBORN NABS SWORDFISH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AVALON, Aug. 22.—The first record heavy tackle marlin swordfish was brought to gaff today by Dr. J. Aubrey Wiborn, fishing from Dr. Zane Grey's swordfish cruiser, the Gladiator. The button winning sea tiger was hooked near San Clemente and weighed 205 pounds. Dr. Grey took two marlin on the same fishing expedition, weighing 150 and 152 pounds. J. V. Baldwin of Los Angeles took the fourth marlin of the day, fishing with Capt. Sam Goulding, a 171½-pound fish.

Tuna honors went to the George C. Thomas family of Beverly Hills with Catalina's youngest great game fisherman, George C. III bringing in a 101½-pound tuna while out fishing with Capt. Mackay. The great blue fin gave the young sportsman a royal battle and finally in a last desperate lunge broke the tip of his rod, there disqualifying a button winning beauty.

Young Thomas is but 15 years of age and his angling achievements are the marvel of old-time sportsmen of Catalina. His skillful playing of his fish is said to be remarkable for a lad of his tender years. His father, George C. Thomas, Jr., of Beverly Hills, did not accompany his son, but took a separate fishing launch and tried to outwit the boy in the day's catch. Mr. Thomas hooked two blue fin, but of lesser weight and therefore proudly admitted his son to be the better angler for the day. Rivalry between father and son is causing much interest among Tuna Club members.

YACHTS WILL COMPETE.

The next event in the realm of yachting will be the annual classic at Balboa, held under the auspices of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, which will take place September 3, 4 and 5. The program will include races for motor boats as well as sailing vessels, and from the number and quality of the entries, it looks as though the competition in this branch of the sport will be fast and furious.

Many of the craft that participated in the Southern California regatta at Santa Barbara earlier in the month will try to garner the trophies, entries from San Diego, Santa Barbara and San Francisco having already been received. Skippers of the Trilby and Gretchen, fast sloops from the San Diego Yacht Club, have signified their intention of competing, as have the owners of the Mah-pe and Seward of San Francisco. The fleet of sloops from the Los Angeles Yacht Club will race from San Pedro to Balboa on the opening day.

A. A. Best, who conducted the races at Santa Barbara, will be in charge of sailing events at the Newport club's regatta.

GOLFER SETS NEW MARK.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22—Playing supergolf during the entire round, Willie Melhorn, the young professional of the Shreveport Country Club, broke all local records on the Oakwood course here today, with a card of 66, having a 35 out and a 31 in, during a practice workout preliminary to the western open golf tournament, which opens Wednesday.

Melhorn has a record of one under fours for the first nine holes and four under for the second.

His drives were accurate and for good distances, and he putted with accuracy. He wound up his performance with a three on the 410-yard eighteenth.

Leo Diegel, the Detroit star, will not participate in the tournament. It was announced tonight he will be prevented from playing by a sudden illness.

ERTLE-DUNDEE SCRAP TONIGHT.

Local Boy Will Box Oakland Flash at Vernon.

Ketchell to Tackle Donnelly in Semifinal.

Johnny Cline and Mike Doll to Fight Again.

After battling his way through the ranks of the preliminary boxers for several months Bobby Ertle will blossom out as a regular main eventer tonight when he meets "Lucky" Jimmy Dundee at the Vernon arena.

ARE BOTH GOOD.

Ertle's last bout was with Louis Garcia, Bobby winning in spite of a bad hand after a tough fight. Dundee has fought many good bouts at Vernon. He boxes well and is aggressive. If there is any edge in Dundee's favor it is in his speed, the Oakland boy being extremely fast.

After a long layoff Young Ketchell will get busy and meet Dick Donnelly in the semi-wind-up. The boys are evenly matched.

Ad Rubidoux, the sensational Riverside youngster, is matched with Ted Frenchie. The pair are among the best 118 pounders on the Coast and each has a number of good bouts to his credit.

HERE'S THE RUBBER.

Mike Doll will meet Johnny Cline for the third time. To date each has won one bout and each scrap was a slugging match from start to finish.

Jack Brooks is matched with Danny Sirias at 145 pounds. Sirias is a San Diego boy who is said to be likely material. Kid Layman is scheduled to take on Kid Rubio and Johnny Woodruff will meet Young Cumpston.

Harry Lee will referee and the first bout will start at 8:30.

SOCCER STAR WANTS TO GET RICH QUICK.

Getting players to sign up to play soccer in Great Britain is a task. One individual, sought recently by the Barrow Club, asked for $45 per week during the playing season, $35 during the close season, a job that would bring him $25 a week in addition all the year round, a free house and transportation for himself, wife and children as well as furniture a distance of seventy miles. The player in question is not yet a second rater.

WANTS TO BUY PORTLAND CLUB.

Former Owner of Omaha Team Makes an Offer.

But McCredie is Holding Out for Big Money.

Many Are Dickering With the Portland Boss.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—W. A. Rourke, former owner of the Omaha club of the Western League, announced here today that he had made a cash offer to Judge W. W. McCredie for the purchase of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League. The amount of the offer was not made public, but Mr. Rourke said that he had given Judge McCredie until Wednesday night to consider it.

PORTLAND, Aug. 22.—Judge W. W. McCredie said he had received a telegram from W. A. Rourke containing an offer to purchase the Portland team, but that it would not be accepted. "The price is entirely too low," said Judge McCredie. "I might say that we have had other offers which are far better than this, provided we decide to sell.

"I will add that I do not approve of Mr. Rourke's method of doing business. He should not break into print before the offer is accepted or rejected. Were his offer the highest, after his manner of handling it, I don't think I would consider it, in view of what has happened. We do not have to sell the Portland club unless we get what we consider it is worth. If a sale is made, it is very likely that the parties interested will not announce anything regarding it until the final details are concluded."

Judge McCredie said Rourke did not mention purchase of the Portland franchise while here recently.

CUTTING WINS TUFTS-LYON SILVER TROPHY.

Ned Cutting won the Tufts-Lyon trophy at a recent shoot in which he scored 282 out of a possible 300 with a revolver. Cutting took the lead from the start, and at the finish was 27 points ahead of his nearest competitor.

As a result of his excellent showing he has been selected by the adjutant-general of the State to represent California at the national rifle and revolver matches, which will be held at Camp Perry next month. Cutting will leave in a few days for the matches.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GENOA, Aug. 22.—Antonio Sachner swam the Gulf of Genoa today, a distance of 3.11 miles, in 1 hour, 31 minutes, 20 seconds. This constituted a new record for the swim. The sea was running heavily.

Net Titles of City to be Decided.

Under the auspices of the Southern California Tennis Association, the city tennis championships will be held next month on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club. The matches will be played in two installments, the first coming September 3, 4 and 5, while the last half will be played September 9, 10 and 11.

Competition will be divided into the same classes that prevailed in the Southern California tournament last month, the events being as follows: Men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, junior singles and doubles, boys' singles, girls' singles, and mixed doubles.

A large entry list is assured, as practically every player who tried for the Southern California title will be in the running for the city championship.

AUSTRALIAN RUGGERS TO PLAY IN ENGLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—An Australasian Rugby football team, en route to England and Central Europe for a series of games this fall, arrived here today on the liner Tahiti and departed a few hours later for Montreal. The team will sail August 29 for Liverpool.

The players are making the trip under auspices of the new South Wales Rugby Football League.

FOREIGN ENTRIES IN BILLIARD TOURNEY.

The annual 18.2 balkline billiard tourney of which William F. Hoppe has been champion many years, will assume international character as the entries will be Hoppe, Schaefer, Cochran, Horemans of Belgium, Conti of France, and Yamada of Japan. It will be held in Chicago November 14 to 19.

INGLEWOOD CHAMP HAS TO BEAT HUTCHINSON.

The winner of the Professional Golfers' Association championship tournament at the Inwood Country Club, September 26 to October 1, will have to show class. Jock Hutchinson, holder of the British open title, is the present champion; Jim Barnes, the national open champion has won the title twice.

NASH

The Nash Six is known not only in America, but in twenty-three foreign countries as well, as an unusually good car.

The world-wide success of the Nash Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor, operating under all kinds of road and climatic conditions, proves it a real step forward in motor construction.

HUDSON'S NEW PRICE

The Super Six at $2315 here has created a furore in local motordom.

Even at last year's price, $3170 here, Hudson was the world's largest selling fine car. Today's price is lower than this model has ever been sold for. The saving is $855 over the cost of a similarly equipped cord and plate glass Super Six of one year ago.

Return to Normal

Now this great car can be purchased with the assurance that the return to normal as set by Hudson places a Super Six in the hands of every one who values class, distinction, speed and power.

Style permanency has characterized Hudson for six years. At the new price this feature becomes a dominant factor in the decision to take immediate advantage of the saving of nearly a thousand dollars, and purchase a Super Six today.

TOWN OF HUNDRED NOW GOLF CRAZY.

Village of Gann Valley Has Regulation Course and Everybody Plays.

GANN VALLEY (S. D.) Aug. 22.—This village, with a total population a trifle less than 100 persons, the majority of whom are engaged in agricultural pursuits, claims the distinction of being the smallest town in the country maintaining a nine-hole regulation golf course. Teeing station, greens and everything to be found on the large city courses are provided and the golf epidemic has spread to nearly every family. Gann Valley is the inland county seat of Buffalo county. It is twenty-three miles from the nearest railroad and depends entirely upon the stage line for supplies.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The Western Pacific Railroad Company was authorized by the state railroad commission today to expend $4,012,946 from a bond issue sale to meet construction prior to May 31, and $1,667,457, obtained in the same manner, to meet construction costs subsequent to May 31.

CALIFORNIA MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN PLUCK OFF THEIR SHARE OF TENNIS TROPHIES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A little group of California men, women and children came East a few weeks ago with some tennis racquets. They are going back home soon with almost everything the East has to offer in the way of championships, silver bowls and cups. If they couldn't get the whole cup, they took one of its legs. Two things they wanted but failed to capture were the women's national championship, and Suzanne Lenglen's goat. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory acquired both for the greater glory of the East.

BEAT MOST OF THEM.

It was with the hope of showing Miss Lenglen, the French champion, that she couldn't corner the market in laurel wreaths that the two greatest women players who ever came out of the West—Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Mary K. Browne—returned to tournament play after long years in retirement.

Because of Suzanne Lenglen's illness and her default in her match with Mrs. Mallory last Tuesday, neither of the Californians met her. But they met and conquered most of the other women stars assembled hereabouts, with the exception of Mrs. Mallory and Miss Eleanor Goss.

And Mrs. Mallory will never forget the thrilling, slashing game she had to play last Friday to eliminate Mrs. Bundy in the national semi-finals nor the stamina and strategy she was forced to summon to retain her title the following day after Miss Browne had won the first set of the finals.

These two western tennis heroines opened their eastern campaign by bowling over all other entrants in the New York State tournament. Miss Browne beat Mrs. Bundy in the finals. The next day the Santa Monica maiden took the title away from Miss Marie Wagner of New York, the 1920 champion.

WON JUNIOR TITLE.

Miss Helen Wills, 15 years old, of Berkeley, Cal., became the national junior champion by defeating Miss Virginia Carpenter of Philadelphia at Forest Hills.

Miss Browne and Mrs. Louise R. Williams of Los Angeles won the national doubles title at Forest Hills.

Willis E. Davis of San Francisco won a leg on the Meadow Club cup at Southhampton by defeating Vincent Richards, last year's winner, in the challenge round.

The Kinsey brothers, Robert and Howard of San Francisco, were semifinalists in doubles at the Newport invitation tournament, and finalists at Seabright, when they lost to the Davis Cup combination, Williams and Washburn. Philip Neer of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, the intercollegiate champion, and Wallace J. Bates, of the University of California, garnered plain and fancy victories in an assortment of eastern tournaments.

And William M. Johnston of San Francisco, won both the Longwood tournament and the one at Seabright by beating R. Norris Williams II of Boston, in the finals. Some of the pro-West experts are predicting he will dethrone William T. Tilden II, the national champion, in the championship tournament at Philadelphia.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Amos Rusie, an idol of baseball fans more than twenty years ago, sat on the sidelines at the Polo Grounds during a recent game between the Yankees and White Sox, marvelling in Babe Ruth whom he declared to be the greatest figure in baseball.

"It's been nineteen years since I saw a major league game," Rusie remarked. "The game surely has taken long strides. Back in my day we had some heavy hitters, but none of them could hold a candle to Ruth. I refer to Wagner, LaJois and Ed Delehanty."

ALL FOR HIM.

Back in the nineties, when Rusie appeared at the Polo Grounds the cheers and the shouting were all for him. The Hoosier Cyclone, they called him for he was considered the greatest right-handed hurler in the game. He dropped from the game in 1902 after trying vainly for two years to overcome the handicap of an injured arm.

When Rusie left the game he returned to his home in Muncie, Ind., and later went to Seattle, Wash., where he worked as a laborer. He is past the fifty mark in years and his hair is gray. He sat unnoticed by players and fans alike, for he was unknown to them.

KID IS GLAD.

Then Kid Gleason, the old manager of the White Sox, recognized him. They were rivals for pitching honors in the old days. "I'm sure glad to see you, Amos," smiled Gleason, "seems like old times to see you around." The famous old twirler returned the greeting and they walked to the White Sox dugout arm-in-arm.

Although Rusie has not witnessed a major league game for so many years he said he had kept up with the game through the newspapers.

GIVE THEM CHANCE.

Rusie said he didn't approve of putting a curb on the styles of pitching. "Give them a chance to develop. In my time we were not permitted to soil the ball and there were no freak deliveries. We had to depend on speed and fast breaking curves and we had a great advantage over the batters. The batter of today has the edge, however. The livelier ball and curbing of pitchers are the reasons. This can be carried too far.

"The crowds are greater today than at any time. Baseball is now a great national institution. The White Sox scandal has not hurt the game much. Judge Landis has offset that black eye."

CAN SERAPHS COP THE RAG?

toward the middle of September, unless all signs fail, at least three of the first division nines will be in close proximity and if such be the case, what a whooper of a struggle should bob up for the gonfalon in the three remaining weeks.

The Seals clash with the Angels here the week of September 6-11 and here is where the perspiration should percolate. If the situation be close at this time, local fans will undoubtedly resort to the old horn and megaphone rooting and we should not be surprised to witness the same scenes that characterized the last week's play here two years ago.

SOME SHAKE-UP.

Killefer's shape-up in the line-up seems to have worked wonders with the Cherubs. Placing McCabe at second and taking the right-field berth himself, Killefer has given extra speed to the team. Red is too valuable a player and gets on the sacks too often to let his fragrance waste itself on the bench or on the coaching line. Before leaving here yesterday the sorrel-top manager declared that from now on he would have his men right on their toes. Red also averred that the boys feel as if they have a good chance to win the flag and will work tooth and nail to show local fans that they are the best balanced club in the league.

All of the heavers are going good with the possible exception of Reinhart, who has been hampered lately with a sore arm. Lyons's excellent showing last Sunday in the second game was a source of great joy to Killefer and he feels that George will be a winning chucker for him from now on. If the Angels take the series from the Bees this week, and they figure to do it, they should return here in a snug position to have it out with Portland in the eleven game series.

CUTS BIG FIGURE.

The Seraphs' status at the end of these Duck contests should cut a big figure in their pennant chances. Walloping Oakland five out of eight games was a big feather in Killefer's cap and he breathed easier Sunday afternoon when the Acorns left the field knowing that he would not have to take on these pesky lads again this season.

Seattle is here to take on Vernon for a seven games series this week. The first contest begins this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Manager Kenworthy will move heaven and earth to take the series. Success here means much to Bill who also has the pennant Bee in his bonnet. He has the better of the schedule over the Seals and Angels from now on, and finishes the last two weeks on his own dunghill, taking on the Angels and Seals, respectively. If he closes up at this juncture who knows but that the coveted gonfalon will flaunt its folds to the cool northern breezes during the season of 1922. Well the game's afoot and we're eager for the fray, so let's go.

START PLAY IN TITLE DOUBLES.

Washburn brought applause from Tilden as he watched them from the stands after his own victory with Richards. Williams, without the sensational strokes which he shows at times, played a steady game that was in harmony with the usual evenness of play by his partner. Although off form in his service to the extent of frequent double faults, he scored as many placements as any other two players in the contest. Neer and Davies kept the veterans on the alert constantly and in the second set threatened to gain success. Neer's service in that set was successful each time, winning three of the five games for his team. The Californians faltered in the third set, however, winning only one game.

Play in an invitation women's singles tournament also was started today. The women players who came here from the national championship tournament will continue in this event and will play also in the national mixed doubles championship tournament tomorrow. The pairings for the latter as announced today show Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Tilden teamed again, and Miss Mary K. Browne paired with W. M. Johnston.

The summary:

National doubles championship:

First round: S. Howard Voshell and S. Hardy defeated N. Reggie and E. B. Benedict, 6-0, 6-3, 6-0.

R. Dana and C. K. Shaw, Boston, defeated T. B. Plimpton and C. G. Plimpton, Boston, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, 6-0.

W. T. Tilden II and Vincent Richards defeated B. M. Grant and C. Y. Smith, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

M. B. Hutchinson and C. W. Sanders defeated W. Brown and W. B. Haase, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

J. B. Gilbert and A. Yencken, Great Britain, defeated Fred G. Anderson and F. C. Anderson, New York, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5.

L. E. Williams, Chicago, and Fritz E. Bastian, Indianapolis, defeated T. R. Pell and L. E. Mahan of New York, 6-4, 12-10, 7-5.

R. N. Williams II, Boston, and W. M. Washburn, New York, defeated Phillip Neer and James Davies, California, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1.

J. H. Wheelwright and J. Foster, Boston, defeated C. M. Charest and W. H. Sweeney, Middle Atlantic champions, 3-6, 6-2, 4-6, 8-6, 6-1.

H. V. Greenough and G. T. Putnam, Boston, defeated Lawrence Rice, Boston, and Clyde Curley, Newport, 8-6, 1-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

H. C. Johnson and G. P. Gardner, Jr., Boston, defeated A. W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham, Providence, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, 9-7.

Maxwell Woosnam and O. G. N. Turnbull, Great Britain, won from W. A. Larned and W. J. Clothier by default.

Second round: W. M. Johnston and W. E. Davis defeated H. B. Guild and J. C. Wright, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

Women's invitation singles, first round: Miss Mildred Willard won from Miss Eleanor Budy by default;

REVIEWS.

"AT END OF WORLD."

PENRHYN STANLAW REVEALS HIS PICTORIAL ART.

By Edwin Schalert.

A consummation devoutly to be wished may also be expected to reach fulfillments whenever a painter starts to lay his brush on the canvas of the silver sheet. Provided, of course, he is as much of an artist as Penrhyn Stanlaw, and provided also that he puts himself out to learn something about motion-picture making. Both of which Mr. Stanlaw has apparently done.

When you go to see "At the End of the World" this week at Grauman's Theater, take a little time off to note the "scenery." That is, the costumes and the backgrounds. They're of the stuff that dreams are made of—at least, dreams of the pictorially beautiful. And with Betty Compson as the glowing central gem they are as radiant as a jeweled tiara.

For Mr. Stanlow's pictures there is a very arbitrary frame—unfortunately, one might say, although the story of "At the End of the World" is not lacking in interest by any means. In fact the situation of three men in love with the same woman marooned with her on a light house reef, is altogether too obviously interesting. You may not be able to guess exactly what is going to happen under the circumstances, but you're likely to be overexcited about it all in advance. That was the state of the audience last night. The picture went over, but with a hectic appeal.

The locale of the story is the splendidly romantic one of Shanghai. One lotus flower of womanhood blossoms amidst a hot den of vice. She has learned the cynic's creed that all men are born equal and free—with women. She carries out her life in a commercially logical way, especially after the father who protected her is killed in a brawl in the Chinese gambling den. She marries the richest man in her neighborhood, and leaves several others miserable. It is the miserable ones, plus her real hero, that she encounters on the lonely lighthouse reef, and it is a wild game that is played to see which will win out.

Betty Compson is a perfectly lovely as to personality and physical charm that her victory is cert and the film is bound to be delightful because of her presence. Milton Sills, Casson Ferguson and Mitchell Lewis all ascend to dramatic highlands in their portrayals. Joseph Kilgour is, as usual, convincing as a hardened banker.

The picture is introduced by one of Grauman's finest in prologues. It is a stage duplication of the oriental cafe, and as filled with color and the incense of beauty as a king's pagoda, if there be such a thing. Besides, it is costumed as richly as the Arabian Nights, with a chinese fashion show as the closing flare.

"Penrod" Soon to Film.

Actual filming of the adaptation of Booth Tarkington's story, "Penrod," to be made with Wesley Barry in the star role, will start within the next ten days at the Marshall Neilan studios. The feature will be directed by Mr. Neilan himself and it is his intention to make this picture the start of a campaign of marked activity.

Advance preparations are now being completed for two other productions, so that there will be little delay in camera work.

Following "Penrod" Mr. Neilan probably will make an episodic picture similar to "Bits of Life," just finished. Exhibitors from various sections of the country have indicated an especial interest in this type, according to communications received at the studio.

"Bits of Life" is to be released the early part of next month.

Kilgour to Stage.

Joseph Kilgour, who is featured in prominent roles in two pictures on the local screen this week, is to return to the stage. He has been engaged by David Belasco to play, in "The Easiest Way," the part which brought him into prominence as a heavy. The Eugene Walter drama is to be revived next month in New York.

Kilgour is noted for his interpretations of bankers and financial magnates. Both in "Mother o' Mine" at the Kinema and "At the End of the World" at Grauman's he is cast as the high-handed rich man.

Westward Ho!

Estelle Taylor, remembered for her interpretation of principal roles in the three episodes of "While New York Sleeps," is en route to the West. She is to appear in several productions at the Hollywood studios of the Fox company.

Blue in Griffith Film.

Monte Blue has been engaged for a part in "The Two Orphans," which D. W. Griffith is making at the Mamaroneck studios. Mr. Blue has just finished with Mae Murray in the film, "Peacock Alley."

New Problem for Censors.

J. Gordon Edwards is going to put a new problem up to the censors—namely, shall famous fountains and statues of Europe be cut out of the films? He writes from Rome, where he is producing "Nero," that he hopes to show some of the adornments of the Villa Medici. But it happens that some of the ladies represented, from the old myths and legends, are scantily attired; in fact, so Mr. Edwards declares, one might say they are not attired at all. He fears for the results, but he also is hoping.

Incidentally he makes no mention of returning home.

ORDERS CLEAN-UP.

Mayor Tells Police Chief to Rid Central Avenue of Crooks.

Mayor Cryer yesterday gave orders to Police Chief Jones to make a thorough clean-up of lawbreakers along Central avenue. This followed a visit to the Mayor of a delegation of negro residents of that part of the city. The callers at the Mayor's office included James Alexander, who is an officer in the United States Internal Revenue Collector's office; T. H. Cole and Percy Buck, and they asked the Mayor for additional police protection, declaring that violators of the "purity" laws are working openly in that district, saying that they have police protection.

Chief Jones readily agreed to assign additional men to the district to carry out the Mayor's "clean up" orders.

SUING WIFE TELLS LONG HARDSHIPS.

Says Her Husband's Bad Debts Hounded Them for Twenty-five Years.

After twenty-five years of hard-scrabble married life, in which it is purported that her husband continually evaded bills and dragged his family from one point to another to escape creditors, Mrs. Carrie Evelyn Cole yesterday filed a petition for a divorce from Charles Edward Cole.

It is stipulated in the complaint that the defendant recently became involved with a tow-line company and is said to have left the State. There are seven children, four of whom are under the age of 18 years and the plaintiff represents that she now is threatened with the loss of the little home because of the defendants bad debts.

The story recites incidents of hardship endured for three and a half years on a desert claim in Montana; of the plaintiff's struggles in building a shack out of packing boxes in the Arroyo Seco, where the family lived for two years. There was no roof over their heads. Twenty-eight acres of land was then taken up near Pomona, but because of bad debts they were ejected and went to Berenda and later to Los Angeles. Here a little candy store from which the scant living was being eked out was burned. Two hundred dollars insurance was paid and it was with this money that the desert claim in Montana was undertaken.

Worn out and without sufficient food the family finally left Billings, Mont., and by the kindnesses of people on the route, were able to reach Los Angeles for the second time. That was eight years ago. The wife has been taking in washing while the husband has failed to hold a job for any length of time and "always has creditors on his trail," the complaint states. Privation is depicted in the chronicle of events from the date of the marriage at Boone, Iowa, Jan. 13, 1897, to the date of separation when the defendant is said to have left the State last July 16. Davis & Thorne are attorneys for Mrs. Cole.

School District Bonds Fail to Lure Bidders.

Numerous high school district bonds drawing interest at 5½ per cent and advertised by the board of supervisors found no bidders yesterday.

The State Board of Control was the only bidder for $34,000 Manhattan Beach common school bonds, offering a premium of $55. The bonds draw 6 per cent. The bid was referred to the school trustees.

There were seven bidders for $250,000 in Santa Monica City high school bonds. The highest premium of $7001 was offered by Frick, Martin and Company. The lowest premium offered was $4100. The bid was referred to the school trustees.

Bonds on which no bids were received included: Norwalk, $40,000; Citrus Union, $261,000; Burbank, $161,000; Pomona, $425,000. All of these bonds draw 5½ per cent interest.

TO SELL USED HOUSES.

Board of Education to Dispose of Buildings on School Ground.

A bargain sale in slightly used dwellings, "to be carried away by purchaser," will be held by the Board of Education, according to formal action taken by the board at its meeting last night.

The houses are located on school property and must be removed to make way for school buildings.

A description of the various structures will be furnished by the secretary of the board. Included in the sale will be a number of four-room cottages, a four-flat building and an eight-room house.

Early and Late Acts Have Speed.

There are a number of professional morons who make it a practice to miss the first and last acts of a variety show for two reasons; first, because it is the proper thing to do and, second, because neither the opening or closing acts, when they run true to form, amount to very much. Unfortunately for those who came late and unfortunately for the husbands who were waiting dinner, the first and the final acts of yesterday's bill at the Orpheum were two of the best of the show.

Gus Edwards with an act that is new for the most part, and Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin, are the most impressive numbers. Playing his final week, Edwards delights with his proteges and yesterday he did an unprecedented thing—he held the entire house for twenty minutes with encores while he joshed the women folks about being late with "the old man's supper." His was the last act.

One of the best teams seen here for some time is the corporation of Billy Frawley and Edna Louise. Edna is a pretty girl with Pepsodent teeth and Billy is a very nutty nut with an engaging personality. In "It's All a Fake," they entertain with brand new stuff, all of it exceptionally clever.

They are followed by Jack Inglis, "One of the Neighbor's Children," who is a brother nut of Frawley, and for laugh producing purposes only, these two acts have everything backed off the boards for the week. Inglis has a particularly touching poem of a bar room scene in which he plays in excess of 4,000,000 parts (so he says) and during a number of his impersonations wears different hats, i. e. and viz. policeman's, banker's, bum's, fireman's, conductor's, etc.

Jean Barrios is noticeably entertaining in "Song Impressions" that are well received. After a couple of numbers, Jean springs a surprise on the house that takes the breath from even those idols in the first row. The act contains a number of impersonations as well as original bits.

The opening act on the bill is Lady Tsen Mei in an excellent presentation of American songs and vaudeville ideas. She touches everything from standard songs to a Chinese interpretation of an American barnyard. She is said to be the sole Chinese screen star, but in spite of this, she has a good act.

"Any home," starring Jean Adair, is an inspiration for a little serious thinking by the average family about the average mother. If it didn't try so hard to point out a very obvious moral, it would be better. Miss Adair's acting is good considering her lines and Joseph B. Hughes as the son and Jacquelin Mason as the daughter, two real characters of today, play their parts well. Fritz Adams is a grouchy father with a real grouch. That funny pair, Arthur Wanser and Maybelle Palmer, are held over. The bill is rounded out with Aesops Fables in film cartoons.

Summed up, it may be said that this week's bill at the Orpheum is a good bill, in fact, a blamed lot better than most shows on that circuit.

MAY LIMIT TEACHERS.

Recent Act is Expected to Make All Appointments Temporary.

Because of a peculiar phrasing of the Teachers' Tenure of Office Act passed by the last Legislature, Los Angeles school teachers elected hereafter may be required to accept appointment as "substitute-probationary" teachers and remain under such rating for two or three years.

This possible situation was discussed at the meeting of the Board of Education last night, but no action was taken. It was pointed out by board members that in order to protect the schools from the necessity of regularly employing teachers required for part time only and also to prevent giving permanent status to teachers not qualified for such rank, it may be necessary to elect all new teachers on a temporary basis.

New rules of the Board of Education to conform with the State law will be adopted at an early date.

FILMS.

"WEALTH" WELL TOLD.

ETHEL CLAYTON IN COSMO HAMILTON STORY.

By Antony Anderson.

An actress of such genuine attainments as Ethel Clayton deserves good stories. She does not always get them. She certainly has not found one in "Wealth," turned into scenario form by Julia Crawford Ives from a tale by Cosmo Hamilton, and presented this week at Tally's.

Now, it must be admitted that "Wealth" is not a bad story. Not at all. It runs smoothly and easily (and slowly) toward its predestined and too-far-distant end. It is well told, and it is "nice." Perhaps, too nice.

At any rate, too conventionally commonplace. After the first two reels, we find it very difficult to be eagerly interested in the fortunes, good and bad, of Mary McLeod, a young artist who marries a dashing millionaire—or rather, the son of a selfish and domineering millionairess—and lives to regret it.

"Wealth" is a screed in favor of work as a panacea for boredom and unhappiness, and as a preachment it is all right. But it is mighty slow as a story, though it has several big thrills.

No fault can be found with the acting. Ethel Clayton is excellent as Mary, Herbert Rawlinson is his own breezy self as Philip, the husband, Claire McDowell gives us fine character-drawing in the mother-in-law, and the other actors are all to the good. The photography is brilliantly attractive.

The subtitling is concise, sometimes with a touch of humor. But such an expression as "like Mary had" is utterly inexcusable. Nor is it an illiterate character who says it. It's the titler herself—for presumably Mrs. Ives wrote the titles as well as the scenario.

William D. Taylor directed. The pictorial composition is defective at times.

When will our directors begin to consider the motion picture an art as well as an industry? Until that day comes, they must not grumble if thinking people refuse to take them seriously as artists. Meanwhile, this really noble art—for it is that, nothing less—suffers acutely from those who are presumably its best friends, its practitioners.

On the bill at Tally's is also a faintly amusing comedy from Universal entitled "Those Dog-gone Kids," in which dogs and children have a lot of fun with paterfamilias.

Smart Comedy Title.

The excitements of the latest comedy filming at the Cristie studios are not like those that have to do with harrowing problem plays, in spite of the comedy's intriguing title, which is "A Pair of Sexes."

In fact, all the fun and tense dramatic suspense revolves around brand-new twins, a boy and a girl, who, through a misunderstanding on the part of one young Benedict who hopes to become a fond papa—but isn't one yet—are claimed by him, in spite of the wild protests of a new star for Christie comedies, comes about through a telegram from the wife of No. 1, who referred to flats, not twins.

"A Pair of Sexes" will be an early release, it is announced. Neal Burns is featured, and so is Vlora Daniel, a new star for Christie comedies who makes her third appearance in this picture. Prominent in the cast are Earl Rodney, Henry Murdock, Ward Caulfield and Lillian Biron. Murdock plays the real parent, Burns the "temporary" one.

This comedy is preceded in the Christie series by "Exit Quietly," which features Bobby Vernon, and will be followed by "Pure and Simple," which William Beaudine is now doing with Vernon and Josephine Hill in the principal roles.

Marry in America, Says Star.

"See Europe—then come home prepared to marry an American."

According to Mary Miles Minter, Realart film star, this is the reaction the average American girl will get on returning from a European trip such as she has just completed.

"American men are the best in the world. They're the handsomest—and in respect for women, they lead everybody. Others may have more polished manners—but what difference does it make if a man's enthusiasm renders him brusque provided he is honest and sincere? If this trip did nothing else for me it trebled my love for America and admiration of American men."

One of the most important features of the trip was the buying of furniture and art treasures for the Italian renaissance home Miss Minter will soon build in Laughlin Park, Hollywood. In fact, one of the treasures Miss Minter secured has necessitated a revision of plans. The contemplated home will now be built around a huge bronze door purchased in Florence. This twelve-foot portal is hundreds of years old and weighs hundreds of pounds.

MORE JUNGLE THRILLS AT SYMPHONY THEATER.

With all the thrills and speed of a serial, "The Heart of an Elephant," the fourth and last book of "Miracles of the Jungle," showing at the Symphony this week, will probably prove just as popular as any of the three previous books.

The story deals with the final capture and timely end of the "Red Fox," and the winning of the girl by our friend, the hero.

Most of the serial thrills are due to the simple-minded heroine's mania for wandering into the forest alone and yelling for help when friend bruin calls to pay a friendly (or otherwise) visit. But the secret service agent is always at hand to rescue the fair "goil," or if he's otherwise engaged, the giant Zulu serves the purpose.

About every variety of wild animal life obtainable is shown in this episode of "Miracles of the Jungle," from the kind-hearted elephant (she acts as a shield to the hero and gets shot full of holes) to the hundred or so alligators who threaten the heroine.

A new Torchy comedy provides the laughter for the program, aided by the latest Andy Gump cartoon.

COTTON TO BLOOM FOR PLANTATION PARTY.

A complete field of cotton plants has been moved from Yuma to the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove for the plantation party to be given this evening. It was found by the management of the Ambassador that the only way of making a cotton plantation look real was by getting the actual plants, and a hurry order was sent to a large grower in Yuma and 135 plants, which represent almost an acre of ground, were shipped to Los Angeles by express.

New O'Brien Film Avoids Trite Finish.

Whoever it was said there was nothing new in pictures hadn't seen "The Last Door," with Eugene O'Brien, showing this week at the New Pantages. For contrary to all precedent, the hero fails to marry the heroine; in fact, they don't even clinch in the final fade-out.

And to satisfy the skeptics, who may say it can't be done, this sad lack of the normal state of affairs doesn't harm the picture one bit. Quite to the contrary, it is a welcome innovation.

"The Last Door is a mystery crook film, with Eugene O'Brien and Martha Mansfield in the headline positions, and is one of the best of O'Brien's recent features.

In point of bigness, of production, at least, George Choos's "A Gay Little Home" claims first position on the vaudeville bill. It contains a number of tuneful songs and many clever lines, both literary and physical.

Two boys from Dixie are Mason and Baily, who get away with more laughs than any other single act on the bill. Harmony Land presents a novelty in the way of a wind-instrument organization.

Adonis and company have an acrobatic act—Adonis does all the work, and "company" makes the hit.

The Arlias Quintet offer vocal selections, and the Le Grohs have an acrobatic act, with a contortionist affording the chief amusement.

A Percy and Ferdie comedy, "We'll Get You Yet," is also included.

SENATOR IS A FATHER.

State Senator Harry A. Chamberlin proudly wrote a formal "Sr." after his name yesterday, thus notifying his friends that Harry A. Chamberlin, Jr., who arrived Saturday at the Good Samaritan Hospital, is doing nicely. Mrs. Chamberlin is receiving the congratulations of her friends in her suite at the hospital.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

For Mrs. Bixby.

In honor of Mrs. Jotham Bixby Jr., who is to leave soon for New York with her young daughter, Miss Beatrice Bixby, Mrs. Hancock Banning is arranging a luncheon at her country home in Wilmington on Thursday. Before luncheon the guests will assemble at the Bixby home on Ocean Front, Long Beach, for a plunge in the ocean.

On Sunday Mrs. Banning entertained a small group at tea, fourteen of her guests remaining for supper later. Mrs. Bixby's sister, Mrs. Kingore Satterlee, and her brother, Grant Kingore are expecting to return from Paris in October.

At Plantation Supper-Dance.

In honor of Mrs. Osro W. Childs and Miss Emeleen Childs, who are just back from abroad and from New York, and Mrs. Jotham Bixby Jr. who is leaving soon for Gotham, Mrs. Charles Jeffras is to entertain a company this evening at the Plantation Supper Dance in the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador. Other of her guests will be Mrs. Jack Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kinkbine, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Krebs, Trowbridge Hall, Capt. W. L. Sexton, Mr. Imboden and Mr. Jeffras. Mrs. R. D. Shpherd will preside at a large Dutch treat table.

Touring Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manning, who used to have a beautiful home at Catalina, are now in Europe on a motor tour. At present they are enjoying a holiday at the villa of Mr. Hodson, on the Riviera. Mr. Hodson also resided at Avalon and was a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Hancock Banning. Mr. and Mrs. Manning used to spend their time here with Mr. and Mrs. Banning, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Connell, among others.

Maj. and Mrs. Ardery.

Maj. Edward D. Ardery, U.S.A., and Mrs. Ardery, who recently arrived from Washington, D.C., are residing at 229 North Manhattan Place until they find a suitable home to lease. Maj. Ardery is in charge of the United States District Engineer's office, in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Guasti.

Mr. and Mrs. Secondo Guasti, who have been traveling abroad since spring, are now touring Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

They have just left Dresden, where they visited the great picture gallery, and went to Norway from Berlin. They enjoyed a great deal of mountain climbing in Switzerland.

Returning to Texas.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Scott and daughters, Misses Florence and Louise Scott, who have been staying at the Georgelle Apartments, will regret to learn that they are leaving tomorrow for their home in Fort Worth, Tex. Mr. Scott is a member of the law firm of McLean, Scott and McLean, of that city. Virtually every day of their stay here has been filled with luncheons, dinners and motor trips tendered by friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Archer of Long Beach, gave a dinner last evening at the Mission Inn, Riverside, in their honor, and Mr. and Mrs. David L. Scott of South Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena, gave a luncheon at the Flintridge Country Club and a dinner at their home later. On Wednesday of last week, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hunt, Jr., of South Serrano street entertained a company of young folks on a long motor ride, followed by a luncheon, in honor of the Misses Scott. A fishing trip was given on the head of the family by B. Houmels of Long Beach. Not the least enjoyable of affairs in their honor was the luncheon at the Cinderella Roof, at which Mrs. Ida A. Keffner was hostess. She assembled her guests at a theater party afterward. The visitors came here after a trip through the Canadian Rockies.

Mrs. Tallent's Party.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tallent is to be hostess at a dinner and dancing party at the plantation event in the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove this evening. She will have eight guests.

Southern Matron Coming.

Mrs. Angereau Gray and her young son, McDonald Gray of Louisville, Ky., will arrive today to visit her sisters, Mrs. William J. Chichester and Mrs. Charles Jeffras. Later Mr. Gray will join them, coming here for the bankers' convention. Both Mrs. Chichester and Mrs. Jeffras are expecting to entertain for Mrs. Gray.

At Supper Party.

A delightful little Sunday evening supper party was that presided over by Mrs. Q. W. Boardman in her home in the foothills near Beverly Hills. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Elmer Weatherholt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jeffras, Miss Virginia Woods, Maj. Pohlman and Maj. Spencer of the British Army.

For Mr. and Mrs. Bishop.

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop, William Irwin is giving a party this evening at the Plantation Supper Dance in the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove.

From Saltillo, Mexico.

Harold Plater, American Consul at Saltillo, Mex., with Mrs. Plater and their small daughter Patricia, are visiting Mrs. Plater's sister, Mrs. Richard Henry Alexander of 2119 Estrella avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Plater are enroute to Corinto, Nicaragua, where he has been transferred as American Consul.

Told in Owensmouth.

A betrothal of interest here that was announced yesterday at a luncheon in Owensmouth, is that of Perry Mulholland of this city and Miss Addie C. Haas of Owensmouth. Mr. Mulholland is the son of William Mulholland, builder of the Aqueduct, while the bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Kate M. Haas of Owensmouth, and was principal of the Chatsworth High School last year. Mr. Mulholland manages his father's ranch in the San Fernando Valley. The wedding will take place in October.

REMOVING STAINS, SCRATCHES AND DENTS FROM MAHOGANY.

Last week I dealt with the subject of cleaning and polishing mahogany. Today I am going to take up the subject of removing stains, scratches and dents from this wood.

The white stain is that most frequently seen. These are made either from setting a hot dish on a mahogany surface, or from spilling upon it something containing alcohol. If this white stain comes from a hot dish it may be removed, if attended to at once, by simply rubbing some butter or hot milk upon it. If, however, some time has elapsed since the hot dish made the stain, then apply kerosene oil and turpentine, mixed. If perfumery, or some other liquid containing alcohol, has been spilled on mahogany, apply a little sweet oil. Another way of removing white stains, is to hold a slightly heated iron over the stain, thus softening the varnish; then rub the stain with an oily cloth. If the surface is roughened, as well as stained white, rub it very gently with the finest emery paper, dust off, then polish with 1 pint of paraffine oil and ½ pint of turpentine well shaken together in a bottle.

Other stains sometimes made on mahogany are the following: Punch or lemonade stains, which should be wiped off at once with a cloth dipped in warm water; finger marks, which may be removed by a cloth wet with very weak vinegar; grease stains, which may be removed with hot water and soap (but if the wood is also scatched, do not apply water, as the water will soak into the unprotected wood and cause a dark stain most difficult to remove;) stains from hot fat, which can be taken off by several applications of a hot solution of potash; and ink stains, which are most difficult of all to deal with. For ink stains make the following encaustic and rub the stain well with it: 2½ quarts of boiling water, 2 ounces of laundry soap, ½ pound of wax and 1 ounce of sal soda. Cut the wax and soap very fine and put them in the boiling water over the fire; stir until dissolved, add soda, and remove from range, stirring till cool. Bottle for future use.

Scratches on mahogany require the following treatment: Heat a stove poker red-hot and hold it an inch above the scratched surface for about a half-minute, then let cool and rub at once with equal parts of alcohol, olive oil and cider vinegar well shaken together in a bottle. Apply this liquid with a soft woolen cloth, and dry and polish with another soft cloth. If, however, the scratch is unusually deep—so deep that it cuts entirely through the varnish—then apply sweet oil, let it soak in for some time, and revarnish. If you cannot revarnish, then the best thing you can do is simply to polish the scratched part after allowing it to soak in oil.

Dents may be removed as follows—but unless the dent is in a most conspicuous part and you are prepared to revarnish, it is perhaps best not to try to remove it. By placing several pieces of wet paper over the dent and placing a very hot iron on top of this wet paper for a minute, you can raise the wood, by steam, repeat this process till an even surface is the result. But, of course, this will injure the varnish and the spot will have to be sandpapered, rubbed with naphtha and alcohol, and then, as I have said, revarnished.

[All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.]

ALL-YEAR ADS ROUSE "HOT BELT."

Many Residents of East and South Plan to Locate in Southern California.

Complete sets of the advertisements used by the All-Year Club of Southern California in its initial advertising campaign to inform residents of the "hot-belt" States of the comparative coolness of the Southland's summers, were forwarded yesterday to every contributor to the club. A letter accompanying summed up the results of the advertising and showed that a large number of persons who responded to the advertising, have asserted their intention of locating in Southern California.

Placing of copies of the advertising in the hands of all contributors, together with an explanatory word of accomplishment, it is expected will prove a stimulus to the enlargement of support of the club, through the interesting of subscribers in the notable return they have made possible.

Although the advertising campaign ended last Friday, letters are still coming in from all parts of the country in surprisingly large volume, and show no sign of diminishing in quantity. The recapitulation that was made a day or two ago illustrating the pulling power of the advertising and the responsiveness of the lure of a land with comparatively cool summers, was given further emphasis yesterday through the receipt of a number of returns from cities far removed from the advertising. There were two inquiries each yesterday from New York City, Chicago and Dayton, O., and one each from Jacksonville, Fla., Duluth, Minn., Atlanta, Ga., and Port Huron, Mich. The direct inquiries now total more than 2100.

Reports of the progress of the fund-raising campaign are to be made at the meeting of the all-year executive committee today, and a plan for reaching a very considerable number of persons who have a stake in the Southland and who cannot be reached through ordinary business channels, is to be decided upon.

CHILD WELFARE DRIVE PLANNED NEXT MONTH

CAMPAIGN TO BE STAGED BY BUREAU OF CATHOLIC CHARITIES HERE.

Co-ordinated under the Bureau of Catholic Charities are some eighteen or twenty philanthropic and charitable institutions for thousands of helpless and needy little children.

In order that this charitable work may be financed during the coming year the bureau will launch its child welfare campaign, September 4 to 12, under the general direction of W. Joseph Ford.

Extensive and systematic plans have been made for the campaign. Among the score or more of institutions which will share in the campaign benefits is the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum, 917 South Boyle avenue, where 350 little girls are harbored. The Mother Cabrini Preventorium at Burbank, where children with a predilection to tuberculosis are nourished also will share in the fund.

The clinics at Santa Rita Settlement and at the Brownson House Settlement provide aid of a staff of prominent professional men and through the settlement work the boys and girls of the neighborhood are developed into splendid womanhood and manhood.

The Mother Cabrini Day Nursery provides many mothers with the opportunity to earn a living during the day, while their children are cared for.

The St. Vincent de Paul Infant Home provides shelter for babies until they can be placed in private homes.

Included also in the list of beneficiaries will be the Old Folks Home at 2700 East First street.

WINS GUESSING CONTEST.

Mrs. J. H. Thacker, 4217 South Grand avenue, yesterday was named winner of the guessing contest conducted by Bishop & Co. last week at the trade exposition. Her guess of 4700 was the nearest to the 4704 Calarab figs contained in a box displayed by the company and as a result she will receive a large box of candy.

YOUTHS TRAVEL FAR; COSTS THEM NOTHING.

Five thousand miles in thirty-three days is the touring record set by three high school boys who arrived in Los Angeles yesterday from Dayton, O., sans transportation costs. Automobile tramping was the means of transportation of the three, C. R. Wolf, Eric Poling and Ralph Curtis. Almost their entire route was covered by chance rides given them by passing autoists. They were fortunate enough to come upon one kindly disposed tourist who carried them all the way from St. Louis to San Francisco. The boys are entering college in the East this year and plan to make their return at once by the same method. They are staying at 1751 Buckingham Road.

SUES FOR DAMAGES.

Man Struck in Row About Moving Auto Seeks Large Sum.

A suit for $31,229 damages, filed yesterday, followed an altercation said to have occurred last July 16, when a request was made to move an automobile in an alley. Frank Donley, who says he was struck on the head by the defendant, H. M. Foster, a garage man, has a fractured skull, according to the complaint prepared by Attorneys R. J. O. Culver and Paul Nourse.

TRIAL POSTPONED.

Because of the funeral yesterday of W. W. Widney, father-in-law of Judge Reeve, the trial of W. A. Loomis, chief of police, and William Ostroff, a police officer of Venice, was continued until today. The two officers are accused in a grand jury indictment of assault under color of authority upon Manuel Holquin, a prisoner in the Venice jail on last April 1.

WHY

[Copyright, 1921, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.]

The application of heat acts upon different materials in varying ways, producing marked chemical changes in some, and on others leading to a variation of their form or a rearrangement of the molecules which make up the entire object. The hardening of the albumin of an egg is a familiar example of the first effect of heat, while the red light given off by a piece of hot iron exemplifies the second.

Up to the time it reaches a certain temperature, iron apparently does not change its form under the influence of the heat. Then it becomes a dull brownish red, then a bright fiery red and finally, just before it melts, a dazzling white. These changes are due to the heat, which the iron absorbs, there being a direct relationship between heat and light—as is evident from the fact that the latter always includes the former. A poker or other iron bar, which is placed in the fire, therefore, absorbs a portion of the heat, for iron is a good heat-conductor, and gradually seeps up a quantity sufficient to enable it to give off light just as the fire itself does. As this heat grows in intensity the light increases, and, just before it reaches a temperature sufficient to melt the iron, the light is so intense as to cause pain when it is looked at. The varying shades of color from dull red to dazzling white are therefore excellent indications of the degree to which the iron has been heated.

Tomorrow: Why is whisky called "hooch?"

SAYS HUSBAND TOLD HER ABOUT "SWEETIE."

Harold W. Marchment told his wife, Margaret A. Marchment, she declares in a separate maintenace suit filed yesterday, that he had a "sweetie." She says he remained away from home and upon his return he refused to tell her where he had been. He was profane to her, she asserts. Once when she found a girl's card in his pocket, she asserts he became angry. He grabbed and choked her, she says, threw her on the floor and kicked her in the back. She asks for the custody of her daughter, Margaret, 3 years of age, and $150 a month support. The defendant is said to own property worth $12,000.

SAYS WIFE HAS MORE.

Joseph William Furnival is one farmer in this county who insists that he is losing money. He told Judge Conkling yesterday that his wife, who is seeking support pending the trial of her suit for divorce, has more money than he has. He said he has been giving her egg money and other amounts; that she had saved it and deserted him. The court ordered him to pay his wife $16 a week. He is charged with cruelty. Mrs. Furnival values the ranch at $60,000.

Keeping Faith

We are pleased to announce a reduction in prices averaging 20 per cent on showcases and fixtures.

Thus Weber's is the first in the West to join in the movement toward a general readjustment of values and prices on all things.

To give the utmost in values and service is the Weber pledge.

The big drop in prices does not mean the cheapening of our product. Through the addition of many machines of the latest invention, our product will be better than ever, giving us better facilities to serve promptly.

The Weber factories are operating overtime with more work ahead than ever in the history of our business. The reduction means an actual loss at this time—labor is the same and material is not much less.

Our new prices enable the trade to buy today at prices that will prevail on the coast during the next year.

THE WEST BELIEVES IN WEBER'S—and we cannot afford to disappoint.

SELCHERT'S DAUGHTER

estored to Health by L. E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wis.—"My young daughter was troubled for several months with backache and a bad feeling in her stomach. She did not want to eat anything, while before she was so hungry she could hardly wait for her meals. The doctors gave her medicine but it did not help her. One day I was reading a little pamphlet which reminded me that my young girl I took advice of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So she went to the store and got a bottle, and after the second one she could see a change. She had backache since. She has taken six bottles of it. She is now well and on Saturdays helps me with my work. She is a normal, healthy girl now and we recommend your medicine. You have my permission to publish this letter as a testimonial for the Vegetable Compound." Mrs. Anna SELCHERT, 150 Larabee Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters from all over the country have proved that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is to be a most reliable remedy for such conditions.

BANKER SEES GREAT FUTURE.

Vast Industry Development Possible, Avers Stern.

Six Basic Requirements Are Supplied by Southland.

Says Exact Knowledge Needed to Avoid Lost Motion.

BY CHARLES F. STERN,
Vice-President First National Bank of Los Angeles.

For thirty years Southern California has been advertised as a winter resort, and for the last three or four years there has been a movement on foot to make this section a summer resort as well.

These movements, excellent as they are, fall far short of the mark, and what those of us who are interested in the industrial future of Southern California must do, is to show the people of the United States that the very climatic conditions which make this an ideal playground, also permit of a complete working cycle of 365 days in the year. Our traffic is not blocked by snow or ice, and summer production is not hindered by the killing heat of the Middle West.

Originally people came to Southern California to play, and because they have stayed to work, some 4000 manufacturing institutions of varying sizes have sprung up in and around Los Angeles, with the result that since the war we have awakened to the fact that Southern California has a very definite industrial future, if we take full advantage of our opportunities.

GOVERNING CONDITIONS. . .

Let us consider the economic requirements for industrial growth under the six great basic headings of: Markets, water, raw materials, transportation, power and labor.

If any one of these six requirements were lacking and could not be supplied our plan for industrial structure would fail. Because of the interlocking of these requirements it is somewhat difficult to segregate exactly their relative importance, but because all six are definitely at our disposal, it is the less necessary that such a segregation should be made. It is merely enough that they are available.

As a result, Los Angeles is on the threshold of a new industrial era, with new conditions to face and new problems to solve.

Our geographical position is ideal. As ships through the Panama Canal seek the Orient by the great circle route they must pass within a few miles from our port, and even San Francisco lies farther from their most direct route than does this city while, for sailings from American ports to the South Seas and to that part of the Orient south of the Equator, the most direct route runs from Southern California.

CAN COMPETE.

As far as transcontinental haul is concerned, the Southern Pacific line, tapping the Southern States, comes directly here. The economic haul from the Mississippi Valley and points south of Kansas City and Chicago, via the Santa Fe, lies directly to Los Angeles. The dividing line between Los Angeles and San Francisco on the economic haul from the intermountain territory lies half way between Ogden and Salt Lake City, so that all that part of the Colorado tapped by the Denver and Rio Grande, is tributary to Los Angeles. For traffic coming west from Omaha over the Union Pacific and down from Pocatello and Butte, there is so little difference in the economic haul between San Francisco and Los Angeles that we are in full position to compete. San Francisco has a little the best of it in mileage, but to reach that city the bay must be ferried, or freight hauled around the bay through San Jose and up the Peninsula—even after the expensive railway portages at Port Costa.

DRAWING AREA.

As we on the Pacific become industrialized we will draw, not only upon the San Joaquin Valley, and on the Southwest, for our own raw materials, but by this network of railways we will, ourselves reach into the inter-mountain country, bringing copper from Arizona, Utah and Montana, wool from the ranges, potash from the desert, and in fact all of the products that the mines and the farms have to offer.

From Texas, Arizona and our own Imperial Valley, we will draw cotton for our spindles and here these raw materials will be manufactured to supply the markets, not only on this Coast, but for the two-thirds of the world's population that lies in the countries bordering the Pacific.

California oil, and natural gas, with the hydroelectric power of the High Sierras and Colorado River, will furnish our motive power, and within the last two or three months I have read reports of the opening up of coal deposits in Utah and in Southern Colorado, that with little difficulty can be moved westward in supplement.

For lumber we look, not only to shipments from the Northwest, but it is now evident that the next great lumber movement will be in the red cedar forests of Durango—timber that will be most easily marketed through Southern California ports.

TWO GREAT CENTERS.

So much for our world picture. And now what has Los Angeles to offer as a manufacturing center? In discussing this question, and in order merely to establish relativity, it is necessary to make certain comparisons with San Francisco. These can be made properly and without hesitation because of the fact that California, stretching as it does down nearly three-fourths of the Pacific seaboard of the continental United States, certainly can well support two great industrial centers—centers that should not be rivals but should constitute a copartnership in the development, not only of California, but also of the entire West.

Through the aqueduct we have water to take care of a city of 3,500,000 people, and can increase our supply whenever necessary through additions to our aqueduct system. In ten short years we have increased our water consumption from 14,600,000,000 gallons to 29,565,000,000 gallons in the city alone, and now have 219,050 water services in operation, as against 91,000 in 1910.

COMPARES WATER RATES.

A comparison of water rates between Los Angeles and San Francisco shows that, whereas the householder of the Bay City pays a basic price of 24 cents per 100 cubic feet, plus a meter charge of at least 65 cents per month, the Angeleno furnishes his home with water at a basic price of only 10 cents per 100 cubic feet, and without any service charge. All that is required is that he pay a nominal minimum bill of 75 cents a month.

In the same way the lowest possible price to any industrial user in San Francisco is 18 cents per 100 cubic feet, plus service charges, ranging from $4.50 to $40 per month, according to the type of meter installed, while in Los Angeles industrial water sells on a sliding scale, from 8½ cents down to ⅝ cents per 100 cubic feet, without service charges. The highest minimum bill in Los Angeles for industrial plants is set at $6, and from this point scales downward.

NATURAL GAS.

In 1910 Los Angeles used 2,320,000,000,000 British thermal units of gas. In 1920 the requirement was 15,411,000,000,000 British thermal units. Even at that we were 50 per cent short of that which could have been sold had natural gas been available to meet the demands of factories within the city.

This supply of natural gas is of inestimable value to industrial Los Angeles. Sold on a sliding scale on a basic rate of 75 cents, the average householder pays approximately 72 cents for his gas but, due to the fall of prices as the block of consumption increases, the average industry in and around Los Angeles pays only approximately 30 cents per 1000 cubic feet. This price today places industrial gas on an equal footing, as to heat-unit cost, with our average fuel-oil price of $1 50 per barrel.

In the San Francisco Bay district, the port of Los Angeles is considered more or less a joke, but it is extremely doubtful how long that idea will be maintained, for there is every indication that what happened at Ashtabula on the Great Lakes, where a hand-made harbor was dug from the clay banks, will take place in the district surrounding the present Los Angeles Harbor, with the result that this city in the future may have even a more compact and more efficient harbor, because it must be built to order, than it would have if we had the natural benefits of San Francisco Bay with which to start.

GAIN BY COMPACTNESS.

At Los Angeles Harbor we must utilize every inch of space and must dig our slips and channels as we need them, making each slip a part of a compact whole. On San Francisco Bay there is harbor development at Oakland, at Alameda, at Sparrows Point, at Port Costa and at a half dozen other places, with the result that there is a tendency to scatter development to a point where efficiency is not maintained.

At Los Angeles Harbor we will gain by the compactness and the efficiency which is being forced upon us. Already thirty-nine steamship companies, having vessels in International service, operate at this harbor, and our commerce has increased from 192,000 tons in 1919 to 476,000 tons in 1920—not bad for a single year.

As far as labor conditions are concerned, the situation in Southern California is admirable. There is a spirit of live-and-let-live between employer and employee, and a mutual understanding of conditions that makes for unity of effort and for industrial peace.

FOR HOME DISTRICT.

"There is such urgency for a Southern California member on the Board of Control that I have finally decided that I probably can serve this locality better in Sacramento than I can by remaining on the school board."

A request that the Hollywood Board of Trade be permitted to suggest a successor to Mr. Shore was received from the directors of that organization, it being explained in a communication accompanying the request that Mr. Shore was elected from the Hollywood district and had received the full support of the Board of Trade.

MOTHER .. WINS .. LOVE .. WARDS.

Aged Woman Weeps as Court Takes Lads from Her.

Mrs. Portia Dill and Sons, Douglas and Ivan.

THE love of a grandmother for her two grandsons and the love of a mother for her children were weighed in the balance in Judge Conkling's court yesterday, and the scales dipped in favor of the mother.

Two boys, Douglas, 7, and Ivan, 5 years of age, were the prize for which Mrs. Rachel Dill, the grandmother, and Mrs. Portia Dill, the mother, battled. The boys were given into the custody of their father, J. Ivan Dill, Jr., at the time Judge Crail in 1919 granted Mr. Dill a divorce on the ground of desertion.

Since that time Mrs. Dill has been earning a good living as a linotype operator. She wanted her children, and through Attorney William Schreider, she put up a strong battle. The father is in the north, and because his business called him away, he turned his sons over to his mother. This motherly looking, gray-haired woman learned to love the boys. She was rather bitter in her comments regarding her daughter-in-law, but the court turned a deaf ear to her statements.

Mrs. Dill, the wife, brought to light some idiosyncrasies of her former husband. He was no doubt ambitious, but according to her version he did not stick long at any of the trades or professions he selected. He became a telegraph operator, then he went into the bakery business; he studied accounting and chemistry and then medicine, and now he is studying to become a lawyer. Meanwhile, he earns a salary as an employee of the Stockton postoffice.

In a letter to his wife some time ago he wrote:

"I am anxious to save and go ahead. I think you will admit, Portia, that by sticking to a law course for two years I have manifested more stick-to-itiveness than heretofore. I have faith in myself. Don't make life a financial misery for me."

In deciding in favor of the mother of the boys who played around her knees in court, Judge Conkling said that every child is entitled to the care and attention of a mother or father. The grandmother had taken these two boys and loved them. The mother, like other women in divorce tribulations, was wrought up and did not realize exactly what the loss of her boys would mean to her, he continued. Now she wants them. She has a home. The father is in the north and virtually he has abandoned them as much as his wife did, he said.

"This is purely a matter between the grandmother and the mother," the judge said. "With the responsibility of caring for these two little boys, the mother is morally bound to stick to a life of rectitude. I shall give the boys to her much as I sympathize with the grandmother."

The grandmother sat dazed. Then she wept silently. As the mother and the boys started out of the courtroom, she rushed to Ivan and hugged him hysterically. Then she kissed Douglas. Under the court's order the father may visit the boys and during each August the boys will visit their grandmother.

Wedded Almost Half Century; Wife Now Sues.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Husnik separated on the 13th inst., after nearly forty-seven years of married life, according to a complaint for divorce filed yesterday by Josephine Husnik. Mr. Husnik is 70 years old and his wife is 66.

The complaint states the last three years have been unbearable for the plaintiff because of the "rough, abusive, coarse and unhuman manner of the defendant." It is charged that he called her "devil," "beast," "sucker," "an expert thief" and "a criminal," and that on last April 19 he chased her out of their home, at 1140 East Sixty-second street; beat upon the table for one-half hour, until he had demolished it and then broke down the door of the house. He is also charged in the complaint with having told her "to get out or he would 'get her,' meaning that he would kill her."

"It is too bad, but there does not seem to be any other solution of the trouble," said G. A. Stice, attorney for Mrs. Husnik. "The couple apparently have always quarreled, but property interests have held them together, and now trouble over those interests may separate them."

OPENS HARBOR DREDGING BIDS.

Federal Engineer Gets Figures on Channel Widening.

Lowest Estimate is Made by Bay City Company.

Only One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Appropriated.

Bids were opened yesterday at the office of the local United States Engineer for the dredging of the main channel at Los Angeles Harbor under the act of Congress, directing that the waterway be increased in width from 500 to 1000 feet. The lowest bidder was the San Francisco Bridge Company, which offered to do the work for 13.68-100 cents per cubic yard.

The entire amount of dredging to be done for the complete widening of the main channel amounts to 1,280,400 cubic yards, but to date Congress has appropriated but $150,000, so that only this amount can be spent once the War Department approves of the acceptance of the bids opened yesterday.

The two other bids received were from the Long Beach Dredging Company, which offered to do the work for 13.84-100 cents per cubic yard, and from the United Dredging Company of Los Angeles, which tendered a bid of 16.84-100 cents per cubic yard, and an alternative bid of 14.94-100 cents per cubic yard if the contract for the entire work were awarded to this company.

KENNEDY DEATH MOTIVE FOUND?

film" man, with a clean sweep of the entire distance Mrs. Obenchain would have to walk.

Judge Reeve's courtroom was packed when Mrs. Obenchain left the jail. She walked with Deputy Sheriff Nettie Yaw. Two negro women walked just ahead of Mrs. Obenchain, forming an effective screen for the young woman and causing the cameramen to fuss and fume. An attempt by a "good samaritan" deputy sheriff to remove the two negro prisoners from the range of the cameras brought a protest from Mrs. Yaw. The result was that Mrs. Obenchain entered the Hall of Justice well protected from photographers. Ralph Obenchain, former husband of the prisoner, scowled at the cameramen.

Mrs. Obenchain seated herself near the window. She appeared to be more interested in the proceedings than she was the last time in court, and was apparently in complete control of herself. She wore a large black hat, trimmed with white, and the same dark clothes in which she appeared at the previous arraignment.

Half an hour was taken up with preliminary events, consisting of arraignments of men accused of burglary, robbery, forgery and other crimes. It was 2 o'clock when Judge Reeve called the case of the people against Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch.

During the arraignments of the other suspects, Mrs. Obenchain remained in her seat, near the window. Just before Judge Reeve took his seat on the bench, Mr. Obenchain rushed to her side to prevent a newspaper photographer from taking her picture. He held a heated discussion with the cameraman, finally threatening to go to Judge Reeve and to ask for a court order to bar photographers from the building.

Richard Kittrells, Mr. Obenchain and Warren Williams represented Mrs. Obenchain and Burch. Mrs. Obenchain walked toward the attorneys' table when her name was called. Burch was brought from the "bridge of sighs," where other prisoners awaited their turns. He walked into the room, erect and confident, and then faced the judge. He neither sought nor avoided Mrs. Obenchain's gaze.

It was Mrs. Obenchain who first found the prisoner's eyes. She looked toward him and gave him a warm smile. Burch smiled in return and nodded. Then both looked at the judge and appeared to have forgotten the existence of the other.

Rev. William A. Burch, father of Arthur C. Burch, arrived shortly before the arraignment hour, and was present during the brief proceedings.

Dist.-Atty. Harley A. Harmon of Las Vegas, Nev., arrived yesterday and conferred with Undersheriff Biscailuz. Some of the legal phases of the Kennedy murder case in so far as they concern the arrest and temporary detention in Las Vegas of Burch were discussed. Sheriff Sam Gay of Las Vegas and Chief of Police McCarter, also of Las Vegas, who arrested Burch, may be brought here as witnesses, it was learned yesterday.

An interview published in Chicago and here and attributed to Mrs. Mary Dean Obenchain, Ralph R. Obenchain's mother, was denied by her yesterday. Mrs. Obenchain was quoted as saying she preferred to see her son dead rather than to have him remarry Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, if she is freed from the charge of murder.

Mrs. Obenchain said the interview was absolutely false and that she planned to bring suit. She also requested The Times Chicago correspondent to convey this message to Ralph R. Obenchain here.

NATION HONORS SCHOOLS HERE.

Los Angles Only City to Have Two Cited by the War Department.

Los Angeles had the distinction of being the only city in the country to have two high schools designated as honor schools in the list of awards issued by the War Department yesterday. Lincoln High School and Manual Arts High School were announced as the honor high schools for the academic year of 1921 and 1922. They have junior units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps which have maintained especially high standards of military training and soldierly discipline.

Gen. Pietro Badoglio.

ITALIAN WAR HEROES WILL BE FETED HERE.

GEN. PIETRO BADOLGLIO, CHIEF OF STAFF, TO ARRIVE TOMORROW.

Gen. Pietro Badoglio, former chief of staff of the Italian army, accompanied by Col. Domenico Siciliano, his chief of staff, will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow at 10:45 p. m. They will depart Saturday morning.

Gen. Badoglio, a life member of the Italian Supreme War Council, was a major at the outbreak of the World War and was promoted in turn to higher grades until he became a general and chief of staff. He distinguished himself in many of the noted engagements participated in by Italian troops.

While here the Italian soldiers will be much feted by the Italians of the Southland. On Thursday they will be guests of honor at a luncheon given by the Italian Vineyard Company at Guasti and in the evening the General will deliver a free lecture in Italian at Columbus Auditorium.

Friday the program of entertainment will consist of an automobile ride and a luncheon at the Beverly Hills Hotel by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and a banquet at the Alexandria by the Italian-American Citizens of Los Angeles. Ernest M. Torchia will be chairman. Among the guests will be the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; the Naval and Military Committee; Justices Finlayson and Conrey of the Appellate Court; Judges Bledsoe and Trippett of the U. S. District Court; Dist. Atty. Wooline, Judge Schenk of the Superior Court; Mayor Cryer; President Criswell of the City Council and President Rice of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

CLEAR WAY FOR POWER MEETINGS.

Officials Say City Ready to Relinquish Filings on the Kings River.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, Aug. 22.—Definite assurance that the city of Los Angeles stands ready to relinquish its filings on the Kings River in favor of the San Joaquin Valley as soon as the people of this territory are ready to take over the power sites and develop them under public control was given by Los Angeles city officials at a conference held here today under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

At the suggestion of W. B. Matthews, special counsel for the city of Los Angeles, the conference voted unanimously that a committee be appointed to represent the San Joaquin Valley in further conferences with Los Angeles looking to an amicable settlement of differences on water power development.

According to Mr. Matthews, the city of Los Angeles is making a survey of the Kings River which will shortly be made public. With this data, Los Angeles will then call San Joaquin representatives into conference in outlining plans for future hydroelectric development that will be agreeable to both interests.

Representatives at the meeting from Los Angeles were W. B. Matthews, special counsel; E. R. Scattergood, chief engineer of the electrical department; William Mulholland, chief engineer of the water department, and F. C. Wheeler, City Councilman. The delegation from the southern city assured the San Joaquin Valley representatives that Los Angeles will not attempt to exploit her own interests at the expense of the San Joaquin Valley. Scattergood said that reports to the effect that Los Angeles is attempting to "grab" all available water-power sites were "inspired" by private interests.

Los Angeles representatives quoted statistics and reports to support their contention that the southern city is not attempting to grab water-power sites but is only attempting to meet the immediate needs of the city's development.

ON DRUG CHARGE.

Nab Two Greeks Said to Have Cocaine, Which Was Smuggled.

Charged with having eight ounces of cocaine in their possession, Constant Thalapalis and Anatasios Fragganos, Greeks, were arrested late yesterday afternoon by State Inspector Boden and Police Detectives Mailheau, Yarrow and O'Brien, in an Olive-street rooming-house. The officers say the prisoners purchased the cocaine in San Francisco and intended to sell it to addicts in this city. The drug, the police say, was smuggled into California from Canada.

KNEW HOW TO GET "FACTS."

Governor Congratulated on Astute Selection.

A Few Gentle Remarks on the State Highways.

Danger of an Adverse Report Makes Writer Shudder.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Gov. Stephens is to be congratulated upon the impartial manner in which he picked an investigator to report to him relative to charges of gross inefficiency in State highway construction.

But the Governor, who was elected by the people because he promised an efficient and an economical administration, undoubtedly wanted to know the truth. Hence his choice of an unbiased, disinterested and unprejudiced investigator.

It is to be presumed that the Governor looked over the entire State before picking an investigator who could be found free from entanglements or friendly predisposition toward the Highway Commission.

His choice finally made, it is to be further presumed that the Governor told this man to go out fearlessly and let the Governor know the worst, let the responsibility hit where or whom it might.

Apparently the Governor did not seek to shield his Highway Commissioners or his responsibility for their efficiency, as there is nothing to record that he indicated to his investigator what kind of a report he desired to have submitted.

Heretofore Gov. Stephens has been accused of making appointments for political rather than efficiency reasons; of looking out for his own political welfare at some sacrifice of the welfare of the good people of the State; of making required investigations with "handpicked" investigators.

But in this instance we stand amazed that he so far forgot his own well-being as to choose a fearless citizen who owed the Governor nothing. That is, nothing more than a $5000-a-year job and a few other little considerations of a political nature.

The Governor wanted the facts and he told the Hon. Henry W. Wright, recently appointed by Gov. Stephens to fill out an unexpired term as Supervisor in Los Angeles county, to go out and get 'em. The Governor knew something of Mr. Wright's fearlessness, as the Supervisorial appointee put over the Governor's tax scheme and reorganization plan and sundry other legislation while serving as Speaker of the last Legislature.

And Mr. Wright fearlessly went out and collected and collated all the facts he could find. He reported that not only is the particular road he did inspect all right in every way, but that the highways he did NOT inspect are also all right and that the State Highway Commission should not be criticised.

It was a painstaking job performed by a painstaking man.

'Also one feels relieved to learn that the highways are all right, the very much prejudiced and biased Southern California Automobile Club to the contrary notwithstanding, as one shudders to contemplate what sort of an excoriation Mr. Wright would have turned loose if he had found the roads not up to his liking or the specifications a good engineer would demand.

Yours very truly,
E. S. HARDLEY.

COUNCIL GETS SOCIAL SERVICE SELECTIONS.

Mayor Cryer's appointments of Dr. E. J. Lickley, Miss Theresa Levy, Rev. E. E. Haring, James E. Mahon and Mrs. Charles H. Richmond as members of the Social Service Commission were received yesterday by the City Council and referred to the Public Welfare Committee for consideration and report. It is believed that the appointments will be confirmed.

WRONG CREDIT GIVEN.

In the full page of children's pictures in the rotogravure section of The Times last Sunday, credit was erroneously given the Hoover Art Studios for the excellent photographs of Miss Margaret Ann Rule, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Rey Rule, and Miss Conchita Carmen Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Chapman. The picture of Miss Rule was taken by Mojonier, and that of Miss Chapman by Witzel.

HARBOR BOARD FIGHT LIKELY.

on the appointments, but it seemed likely yesterday that at least one and possibly all of the appointments will be turned down, and the Mayor forced to select new appointees.

Mayor Cryer in his message sending the appointments to the Council, said:

"In my final selection of the three members of the board, I have been guided by my firm belief in their ability and integrity, and in their desire to devote themselves to the management of the affairs of the harbor that will meet with unqualified approval."

Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Dickinson were appointed to serve until the first Monday in July, 1923, and Mr. Jeffries selected for the term ending the first Monday in July, 1924.

Of the men he has appointed to the harbor board, Mayor Cryer said:

"Mr. Daugherty is an alumnus of Knox College. He came to Los Angeles in 1904. He has been associated with local construction work and is thoroughly conversant with all phases of that business. He served as engineer with a successful municipal power project in Southern California, and was the engineer in charge of several contracting companies. He has also had considerable newspaper experience.

"Mr. Dickinson is a man of wide business experience. He was identified with our great water and power project at its inception. He had considerable engineering experience before coming to Los Angeles. Since making this city his home Mr. Dickinson has been prominent in business enterprises here, and has had an active part in the development of our Southland.

"Mr. Jeffries came to Los Angeles in 1887. He was in the City Engineer's department from 1891 to 1894. He is an executive and an official, and is interested in many of our large and progressive enterprises. He is thoroughly familiar with large construction and development work; a man of affairs, wide experience, and mature judgment."

CAMPING FACILITIES AT MOON FESTIVAL.

TENTS FOR ACCOMMODATION OF VISITORS PROVIDED AT NOMINAL COST.

Have you ever camped out among the foothills when the moon was at its first quarter and at its full, when there was the tang of wild mustard and sage in the air and the cool breezes of a not far distant sea swept up from the valley below?

This is one of the features which may be enjoyed during the Moon Festival to be held at Tujunga, September 2 to 6. Arrangements have been made for the accommodation of camping parties, so that individuals or families desiring to enjoy the festivities of the week may at the same time revel in the never-to-be-forgotten experience of a week-end or more out in the open.

Tents will be provided at the nominal cost of $1 a day, and these will be fully equipped for sleeping and housekeeping, with water free of all cost. For those not caring to prepare their own meals there will be a special restaurant established near the festival grounds, where breakfasts and luncheons may be secured a la carte and dinners at a very nominal cost. Free parking space also will be provided for autos. It is further announced by the committee in charge that there will be a number of free attractions included on the festival program during the week.

A new and permanent dancing pavilion is being erected at Tujunga in the grove for the Moon Festival, and special orchestral music will lend to the enchantment of dancing out in the open air on the moonlight nights and during the afternoons. Between 7 and 8 o'clock each evening of the festival there also will be staged some special free entertainment feature. The entire grove is being cleaned and the ground hardened for the occasion.

Funds raised during the festival will go toward the purchase of Bolton Hall, which will be given over to the men of Monte Vista Post, No. 250, American Legion, for use as a recreation hall and general headquarters.

TWO HELD TO ANSWER DRY LAW CHARGES.

N. H. McLean of 1600 West Forty-eighth street was held in a bond of $1000 by U. S. Commissioner Long yesterday on the charge of violating the national prohibition law. It is declared that he conducted a blind-pig of large proportions at the above number. Archie W. Thompson, charged with smuggling a quantity of liquer across the Mexican border line, was arraigned before Commissioner Long yesterday. He gave a bond of $1000 for his appearance.
